High Court Bans The Death Penalty

'Cruel Punishment' Key To 5-4 Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled today that the death penalty is unconstitutional "cruel and unusual punishment." The decision spares the life of 600 men now on condemned row.

There were 104 persons in California slated for death when the penalty was struck down — including five women at the Corona facility in Southern California, one man in custody out of state while awaiting a new penalty trial, one man at the prison system's medical facility at Vacaville and 97 on San Quentin's Death Row.

The momentous decision was by a 5 to 4 vote with all four of President Nixon's appointees dissenting.

Each filed his own opinion. This meant that all nine justices spoke out on the issue. The actual ruling came in a brief unsigned opinion.

The striking down of capital punishment throughout the United States came in a ruling on three test cases which claimed the death sentence was "cruel and unusual punishment" which is barred by the Constitution.

Two members of the majority, Brennan and Marshall, concluded that the 8th Amendment prohibits capital punishment for all crimes and under all circumstances because of the "cruel and unusual" features.

Douglas found capital punishment a violation of the 8th Amendment but did not seem to rule it out for all time.

Stewart and White relied heavily on the reluctance of judges and juries actually to impose the death penalty.

Stewart said, "These death sentences are cruel and unusual in the same way that being struck by lightning is cruel and unusual."

He said the men convicted of rape and murder in today's cases were selected to die on no particular basis.

"I simply conclude that the 8th and 14th amendments cannot tolerate the infliction of a sentence of death under legal systems that permit this unique penalty to be so wantonly and so freakishly imposed," Stewart commented.

Burger said in his dissent: "The highest judicial duty is to recognize the limits on judicial power and to permit the democratic processes to deal with matters falling outside of those limits."

He said pressure had forced the Court to go beyond those limits "while fortunately leaving some room for legislative judgment."

Burger said there was no clear-cut majority on the Court on the ultimate issue presented

Lawmaker Immunity Is Curbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled today that the immunity of a senator or congressman from questioning by outsiders such as grand juries does not extend to matters other than immediate congressional business.

The 5 to 4 ruling means an aide of Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, must appear before a Boston grand jury investigating the leak of the Pentagon Papers.

In other major action on the final day of the 1971-72 term, the court:

Ruled that freedom of the press does not exempt newsmen from being summoned by grand juries and forced to answer questions.

Ruled that a member of Congress may be tried for conduct such as bribery even though the offense was tied to the legislative process. The action reversed a federal district court judge who threw out a bribery indictment against former Sen. Daniel Brewster, D-Md.

In the Gravel case Justice Byron R. White, speaking for the majority, ruled that Dr. Leonard S.Rodberg, a Gravel assistant must answer questions for the grand jury.

White said Gravel's arrangements to have excerpts from the secret Vietnam documents published by Beacon Press "were not part and parcel of the legislative process."

A congressman's immunity rests on the clause in the constitution which provides that " ... for any speech or debate in either House, the Senators and Representatives ... shall not be questioned in any other place."

In a discussion of the clause, White said earlier decisions have not extended it "beyond the legislative sphere."

"That senators generally perform certain acts in their official capacity as Senators does not necessarily make all such acts slative in nature," the opinion said.

In the press case, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today that the First Amendment does not exempt newsmen from the obligation to respond to a grand jury subpoena in a criminal investigation.

The opinion by White came in three test cases from Califor-

Reaction To Court Ruling Varies In Local Arena

By DAVID DIETZ

Reaction to the U.S. Supreme Court decision ranged today in Marin from jubilation on San Quentin Prison's Death Row to acquiescence and frustration on the part of law enforcement and correctional officers.

Death Row inmates were described by San Quentin information officer Joseph R. O'Brien as happy and jubilant upon hearing the news on radios, although some were still asleep.

The lives of the 102 condemned men already had been spared by a similar decision in March by the state Supreme Court, although an initiative measure to restore capital punishment had qualified for the November ballot in the state.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, cochairman of the initiative drive in Marin, said he was "distressed and fully frustrated" by the U.S. Supreme Court's vote.

He said, "This is but another example of our highest courts usurping the function of the Legislature ... I hope that I am wrong but I predict a new vista of violence in America. The five justices who voted to outlaw the death penalty (the court ruling was 5-4) must accept the responsibilitq for any bloody consequences."

San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson said the decision surprised him, adding he had believed the court would uphold capital punishment.

Nelson said he has "learned to live" with the state Supreme Court's decision and "I'm certain I can learn to live with this this."

While the U.S. court left the door open for legislatures to reinstate capital punishment in some circumstances, Nelson saw no theoretical difference between the murder of a policeman or correctional officer and the slaying of "the lowest stumblebum at Third and Howard streets in San Francisco."

In Sacramento, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said he has always been an opponent of the death penalty and views the eventual impact of the court's decision as probably minimal.

"No doubt dire consequences will be predicted ... by advocates of the death penalty," he said, "but I hope and believe that the decision will have no discernible effect."

Behr's Marin colleague in the

TRY FOR RECORD

Six Girls Will Hop To It

Six Kentfield girls intend to attempt a world record this weekend. On one leg. Hopping and picking up rocks for more than 31 hours or more.

The girls, all 12 years old and entering seventh grade at Adaline E. Kent School in the fall, are Rowena Kaiser, Linda Fukumoto, Ann Tropnell, Kim Belshe, Liz Penick, Annie Heller.

They're not hopped up on hopscotch by any means. In fact, they say, they haven't even played hopscotch this summer.

"They got the idea browsing through the Guinness Book of Records," said Marge Kaiser of 3 Oak Knoll, Rowena's mother. "They want to raise some money for the Sacramento flood disaster victims."

And what started as a "wouldn't it be fun if ..." conversation has blossomed into a full-scale attempt on an offbeat world record.

The girls have taken a booth in the Kentfield Crafts and Open Market Fair to be held Sunday and Tuesday in the College of Marin parking lot next door to the Kentfield fire station. The organizers, the Subud Spiritual Brotherhood, have donated the space.

"Now they're looking for a sponsor," said Mrs. Kaiser, "and they're collecting pledges for each hour of hopscotch."

The girls — and their mothers — soon found that a serious attempt on a world record involves some serious paperwork. They have to arrange authentication, timekeepers and a host of supporters.

And late yesterday came bad news ... a horrifying rumor that last week some Los Angeles teen-agers already had broken that 30-hour record.

"But they're determined to break the new record whatever it is," said Mrs. Kaiser. "Even if they don't, they know they'll raise some money for chairty."

A FESTIVE FOURTH

A Wide Range Of 'Home' Events

Marin and Southern Sonoma residents who decide to spend the July 4th holiday at home can choose a barbecue, a parade, a fair and a fireworks display.

Marin's traditional Fourth of July celebration will be put on again by the twin cities of Corte Madera and Larkspur with the only parade in the county.

Kentfield will host a two-day fair, Sausalito will host the county's only professional fireworks display and Petaluma will hold a barbecue and hootenanny.

Ross will hold its "Grand Old Fourth" festival at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Marin County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli warns Marin residents that fireworks are prohibited under a county ordinance and even possession in the county is illegal. Only professional displays, such as the one sponsored by Sausalito, is allowed. No such ban exists in Sonoma.

The combined Larkspur-Corte Madera celebration will begin Monday at 6 p.m. with family picnics in Corte Madera Town Park.

The Corte Madera-Larkspur firemen will hold their annual water hose fight at 6:30 p.m. and the rival councilmen's horseshoe contest will follow at V p.m. There will be pipe bands highland dancers and a jazz band.

Flag-raising ceremonies in both towns at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday will precede a free pancake breakfast in the town park from 9 a.m. to noon.

The firemen's ballgame will be held at 10 a.m. at the Joe Wagner Field, Larkspur. An arts and crafts festival, music and a children's carnival will go on at the town park from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. A Little League game will be held at Wagner field from 1 to 3 p.m.

Marin's only parade, featuring dozens of marching bands, floats and drill teams, will start at 3 p.m. and wind through Larkspur and Corte Madera.

In Kentfield, the SUBUD Spiritual Brotherhood will hold a crafts and open market fair Sunday and Tuesday in the College of Marin parking lot next to Kentfield fire station. The fair will feature arts and crafts booths and entertainment and will be open from 11 a.m. to dusk each day.

In Mill Valley, a holiday celebration with music and booths will be held in Lytton Square Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In Sausalito, the only professional fireworks display in the county will be shot off a barge moored in the bay shortly after dusk.

In Marinwood, volunteer firemen will hold their annual pancake breakfast from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the community center and a watermelon feed at 4 p.m.

Petaluma will begin its day-long celebration at 11 a.m. with Mayor Helen Putnam inviting

A McGovern Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Democratic Credentials Coomittee voted 73 to 65 today to strip Sen. George S. McGovern of 151 California delegates. It was a stunning blow to the senator's bid for a first ballot nomination at the Democratic National Convention.

President Announces Controls For Farm Products, Seafood

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon, moving against rising food prices, today extended price controls to cover farm products and seafood after the initial sale. (more)

The action by executive order means prices of vegetables, fruits, eggs, fish and other agricultural commodities will be controlled when they are sold by processors, wholesalers and grocery stores.

The effect will be to squeeze the profits of grocers and middlemen by limiting price increases that can be applied to these items.

The order does not cover meat prices, which are already covered by controls below the farm level. On Monday, Nixon suspended quotas on imported meat in an attempt to increase the supply available to consumers and thereby drive down prices.

They include eggs, all fresh vegetables, all fresh or naturally dried fuits, potatoes, nuts and mushrooms. In addition, all raw seafood products are covered including those which have been "shelled, shucked, iced, skinned, scaled, eviscerated or decapitated."

The action covers about $12 billion worth of food transactions each year.

Prior to announcement of the new action, Rumsfeld called some farm state congressmen to the White House for a briefing, and representatives of about 80 food processing organizations were invited to a meeting at the Agriculture Department to discuss the policy.

In announcing the action at the White House, director Donald Rumsfeld of the Cost of Living Council said the tougher controls "cannot drive food prices down, only increased supply or reduced demand could do that, but they are designed to exert discipline on markups and margins at each step of the food marketing chain."

Together with the meat import action, Rumsfeld said, "There should be a cumulative effect which should help stabilize these volatile prices."

The food products affected by the order are those which retain their original physical form and include no processing. This covers items which show up on grocers' shelves in roughly the same form they left the farm or the fishboat.

Rumsfeld said consumers could look forward to at least two months of rising food prices before the effects of the new order begin to take hold. But he said the food industry should realize that overall costs, including labor, have been reduced by the economic stabilization program and should be in a better position to absorb the new controls.

"It is the President's goal to see that there is food in the shops at reasonably stable levels," he added.

The Cost of Living Council estimated that the food covered by the new order represents about 11 per cent of the average family's grocery budget.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Weyand Taking Over

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Frederick Weyand, who served as an intelligence officer in China in World War II, willl take command of the 134,000-man U.S. force in Southeast Asia that is fighting the Indochina war.

Weyand

President Nixon picked Weyand, 55, yesterday to succeed Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who has been nominated Army chief of staff.

Nixon announced the appointment shortly after declaring he would withdraw another 10,000 troops from South Vietnam between July 1 and Sept. 1, cutting the American force in Vietnam to 39,000.

Weyand has served as Abrams' deputy since September, 1970. The Pentagon said Abrams would stay on the job into July to help Weyand prepare to take over.

Poppies And Politics

ANKARA (UPI) — Hopes of wiping out the main source of heroin now being sold in the United States may be scuttled by Turkish politicians afraid of losing the farm vote.

One year ago Turkey agreed to ban growth and production of opium Dec. 31, 1972. The ban ended a decade of delicate negotiations between Ankara and Washington.

Yesterday, more than 100 members of the dominant Justice party bloc in parliament agreed to introduce a bill to allow continued cultivation of opium poppies, from which heroin is derived.

One factor behind the proposal to renounce the ban is the fact Turks will elect a new government shortly — just when has not been established. Political sources said they feared voters would reject any party supporting a ban on opium production.

Plan Wallace's Return

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A medical expert, surveying the governor's mansion in preparalion for the return of Gov. George C. Wallace, said yesterday he found the official residence fairly accessible to a person confined to a wheelchair.

Dr. George H. Traugh, an assistant professor of rehabilitation medicine at the University of Alabama and an expert on architectural barriers to the handicapped, inspected the mansion as evidence mounted that Wallace soon would return home.

Two top aides told television interviewers Tuesday that Wallace would be returning from a Maryland hospital "within four or five days."

Times Cited For Ad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The New York Times, which published an advertisement May 31 demanding President Nixon's impeachment, has been cited for apparent violation of a new federal campaign law.

The 1971 Federal Election Campaign Act includes a regulation requiring a newspaper publishing an ad attacking a federal candidate to obtain and publish a statement from the person who placed it saying that no other federal candidate paid for it, according to Phillip S. Hughes, Director of the Office of Federal Elections. The disclaimer was printed in the Times Wednesday's editions. A newspaper spokesman said it was inadvertently omitted May 31.

Snag At Summit

SIMLA, India (UPI) — A snag developed today in the summit talks between Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan postponing a second meeting between the two leaders.

The problem cropped up during a morning meeting of the official delegations of the two countries. A Pakistani official said the Indians wanted to discuss a package deal which would settle the border dispute in the Kashmir area and include a no-war pledge by Bhutto. He said the Pakistanis want to discuss the issues one by one.

Truman Hurt In Fall

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman was hospitalized briefly yesterday because of a fall he suffered in his home, but did not break any bones, doctors said.

Trumann, 88, underwent tests in Research Hospital in Kansas City, about 15 miles from his home, remaining less than an hour. He suffered the fall Tuesday, but was not taken to the hospital for X-rays until the next day when he began complaining about a pain in his lower back.

"All tests were negative," a hospital spokesman said. He said no further statements would be issued.

Militants Plot Blockade

BELFAST (UPI) — Militant Protestants today plotted a blockade campaign aimed at breaking the Irish Republican Army's IRA grip on barricaded "no go" Roman Catholic areas of Londonderry.

The action, planned for the weekend, threatened to shatter Northern Ireland's three-day-old peace.

The 13 commanders of the paramilitary Protestant Ulster Defense Association UDA conferred through the night over tactics for carrying out the decision announced last night in defiance of British pleas not to endanger the precarious truce.

IN SADDLE AGAIN — Governor Reagan doffed his hat yesterday as he rode in the Sierra, then announced that President Nixon has ordered a halt to plans for a trans-Sierra Highway because it would damage the environment.

A Budget Flap Stalls Recovery

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A state budget battle, coupled with what an angry Gov. Milton J. Shapp called "double talk and zero action" from federal officials, threatened today to stall Pennsylvania's recovery from its worst flood disaster.

Complaining of federal "red tape," Shapp urged the Pennsylvania legislature Wednesday night to appropriate $50 million for flood cleanup in the fiscal 1972-73 budget that must be passed before Saturday and leave him enough room to spend more.

"I'm a little fed up with this double talk and zero action I'm getting from Washington," Shapp said. "I say the hell with paperwork. We've got to get this work done."

In cities and towns across the commonwealth, residents displaced by tropical storm Agnes continued straggling to their homes to find ruin beyond their most pessimistic expectations. Some emerged from the disaster—which killed 44 Pennsylvanians and caused $1.5 billion in damage—with rearranged values.

Pound Slides, Dollar Weak

LONDON (UPI)—The British pound continued its downward slide today and the U.S. dollar remained weak on world money markets, reaching an all-time low in Tokyo. Gold prices soared again, a sure sign of world monetary crisis.

The pound dropped on the London market by another fraction to an effective devaluation of 5.4 per cent. The Hong Kong dollar is linked to the pound and Communist China entered the international monetary scene for perhaps the first time, revaluing its basic unit of currency, the renminbi, upward in relation to Hong Kong dollars.

Britain cut the pound loose from firm parity rates Friday, raising fears of a world-wide upheaval in currency exchange rates. European financial ministers met in Luxembourg Monday in an effort to avert a monetary crisis and pledged to continue their support for the dollar and the Italian lira, also weak because of Italy's poor economic situation.

The West German cabinet met in emergency session during the night and today to decide what to do about speculators cashing in huge amounts of pounds and dollars for the stronger German mark.

The pound traded at $2.4630 on the London exchange, a fall of more than two cents from Wednesday's final price. This made life cheaper for Americans visiting Britain, but cut the buying power of Britons visiting other countries.

The pound also was down 5.4 per cent in value on the Paris exchange and was off on the Tokyo market as well, trading for 711 yen.

The U.S. dollar sank to a record low on the Tokyo market, open today for the first time in four days, trading at the rate of 301.10 yen to the dollar.

Crime-Fighting Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An independent study group has proposed a national coalition of law enforcement agencies as the only means of arresting organized crime that is on the verge of destroying "American society as we have known it."

Reds Pushed Back As Key Battle Shapes Up

SAIGON (UPI)—A task force of more than 20,000 South Vietnamese troops backed by thunderous U.S. air and naval bombardments drove through North Vietnamese defenders today to within five miles of Quang Tri City in what was shaping up to be one of the key campaigns of the war.

The 20,000-man task force was joined today by 1,000 fresh troops flown in from Saigon aboard American helicopters and landed near the coast. Spearheads of the unit were reported to have advanced up to seven miles in a three-pronged offensive.

Quang Tri City fell to the Communist Spring offensive on May 1 and President Nguyen Van Thieu ordered his troops to recapture all lost territory. But whether the troops would actually enter the city or simply regain lost ground remained to be seen.

Field reports said the advancing columns have killed at least 350 North Vietnamese soldiers so far in the two-day drive and that government casualties were 15 dead, and 50 wounded. A senior Allied military source said resistance was "surprisingly light."

Communist forces in Quang Tri, estimated at remnants of four divisions battered by constant U.S. air strikes and more than 10,000 tons of bombs dropped by B52s in record raids, were estimated Wednesday at around 20,000 men.

Brig. Gen. Bui Thi Lan, commander of the South Vietnam Marine division that joined paratroopers and Black Panther commandos in the offensive, said Quang Tri City could be captured within four day if his men were ordered to do so.

Military sources said there was a dispute among Marine, paratrooper and infantry commanders over which unit would attempt to take the ruined and btackened city which has also been the target of air raids and naval bombardment since it fell.

With the South Vietnamese offensive pushing into Quang Tri there was no letup in the air war against North Vietnam. U.S. spokesmen said American planes flew 240 sorties Wednesday, much of them confined to the southern panhandle because of bad weather spawned by Typhoon Ora, now moving into China. But they did hit an air base 30 miles south of the China border.

UPI photographer Willie Vicoy, traveling with the paratroopers, said the government soldiers today freed 240 South Vietnamese men, women and children used by the North Vietnamese troops as slave laborers.

He said the civilians, many of them hungry and sick, were forced to harvest rice crops near the town of Tra Tri, seven miles southwest of Quang Tri City, for the North Vietnamese troops. He said the civilians were taken south of government lines and given medical treatment and food.

UPI Television News cameraman Tran Dai Minh, also with the paratrooper column, said two North Vietnamese battalions tried to halt the drive early today but were turned back. He said they were defeated in a battle six miles south of Quang Tri City in which 28 Communists and five paratroopers were killed.

Minh said the paratroopers had captured 13 antiaircraft guns, three howitzers and an empty Soviet-built T54 tank which was fully loaded and was found with its engine running.

The first prong of the government offensive — code named Operation Lam Son 72 after a victory over the Chinese 1,000 years ago — was a paratrooper unit moving on Quang Tri City from the southwest. Marines were moving in from the southeast and a second Marine column dropped today by U.S. Marine choppers was heading toward the provincial capital from the Northeast.

Castro Visits Soviet Manned Space Center

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba today visited the secluded home base of the Soviet manned space program with General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev of the Soviet Communist Party, the Tass news agency said.

They toured the laboratories and training centers of "Star City", in a Moscow suburb, Tass said.

PG&E Supports Telephone Cause

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas and Electric Co. here filed a "friend of the court" brief with the the California Supreme Court supporting part of Pacific Telephone's request for a rehearing.

On June 9, the high court voided a $143 million telephone company rate increase and ordered refunds made to customers.

The telephone company has petitioned for a rehearing and PG&E Wednesday backed the phone company's contention that the Supreme Court should not have annulled the entire rate increase but could have, and should have, rescinded only that portion of the increase which it found to be unlawful.

Some Arab Guerrillas To Defy Fight Halt Policy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some Arab guerrilla groups said today they would defy a reported agreement between Lebanon and the Palestinians to suspend temporarily military activities which have brought heavy Israeli retaliation against southern Lebanon.

One Syrian-based group said in Damascus its forces attacked Israeli bases in the occupied Golan Heights Monday night and killed a number of Israeli soldiers with rockets and machine-guns and damaged property.

Israel has warned officially of more land, air and sea strikes against guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon if there are more attacks, and an official Egyptian spokesman said in Cairo earlier this week Israel might annex the territory as part of its "Zionist imperialis.".

A communique was issued Wednesday night by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine General Command, the group which claimed responsibility for attacking an Israeli tour bus last week.

The Israelis responded to that raid by launching a week of air, naval and ground strikes against southern Lebanon.

Rifle Association Questions Gun Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Rifle Association said today that proposed legislation to greatly tighten gun controls would drastically increase local government costs and swamp the already overloaded judicial system.

Maxwell E. Rich, executive vice president of the NRA, told a House Judiciary subcommittee the NRA supports legislation to crack down on illegal use of weapons, but "to think that criminals would register their firearms defies logic."

Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides, giving the official administration position on gun control, joined the NRA in contending that registration and licensing of firearms should be left to state and local governments.

"In this way, the pattern of laws dealing with the subject can better accommodate the great differences that obtain among the several states," Rossides said.

"If we were to establish broad federal authority in this area, we would also create the need for a national police force for enforcement, which concept we strongly oppose."

The Senete Judiciary committee approved earlier this week a bill that would ban "Satarday night specials." The controls before the House group would be much stiffer.

Rich said state and local governments should make gun control decisions. "The general police power resides in the states and not in the federal government," Rich said.

The bill proposed by the Judiciary Committee chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., would require registration of all firearms and licensing of all gun owners.

A Big Blast At Corporate Voting

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., charged Wednesday that corporate elections in the United States are "as rigged as elections in the Soviet Union."

Metcalf said the proxies of a few key institutional investors decide such elections. Even if an opposition candidate gets on the ballot, communicating with voting stockholders in order to campaign for election is "difficult or impossible," Metcalf said. He said he would offer legislation to require corporations to make public the true identity of the proprietary owners—the voters—of significant amounts of stock.

Stolen Item 'Market' To Be Reopened

San Anselmo police still are trying to dispose of more than 1,000 items stolen from Morningside Court area homes since 1968, and recovered from an alleged burglar's home.

Chief Raymond R. Buchignani today announced that the department's "thief's market" will reopen from 9 a.m. to noon tomorrow for northern San Anselmo residents to view the loot and recover property. The display will be at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, site of the three-day display last week.

David Richard Massagli, 33, was arrested June 19, hiding in the kitchen of a house a few blocks from his home at 23 Brookside Drive. In Massagli's house, police said, they found $60,000 to $70,000 worth of loot taken during at least 50 burglaries in the Morningside Court area.

Massagli is due in Marin Municipal Court Aug. 1 for preliminary hearing on charges of burglary and obstructing an officer. He is free on bail.

Judge Takes Teacher's Ouster Case Under Study

OAKLAND (UPI) —Judge Lyle E. Cook has under submission the demand by a school teacher for the return of her job although she swore in the classroom.

Angela H. Mohr, 42, was fired by the Hayward Unified School District board which said she was unfit for service, had persistently violated rules and regulations and had engaged in unprofessional conduct.

The board found she gave cigarettes to students at La Vista Junior High School, referred to police as "pigs," swore and brought up the subject of sexual practices.

Mrs. Mohr told the court she believed such subjects were proper for discussion in schools.

Testifying for Mrs. Mohr on Tuesday, Rev. Cecil Williams of San Francisco's Glide Memorial Church said he could find no conflict between theological morality and the words the teacher used.

Meaning Of Story Cleared Up

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal altered the meaning of a statement drafted by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney intended to head off possible lawsuits in connection with an open space policy adopted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The word "recreational" was accidentially substituted for the word "representational" in the statement that any depiction or designation of private property was strictly for representational purposes and was not in any way a restriction on use of the property beyond that presently imposed by law.

In short, the supervisors wanted to reassure landowners that adoption of the policy was no threat to their property rights.

Cyclist Injured In Auto Crash

A 17-year-old motorcyclist was sent to the hospital at 5:30 p.m. yesterday after he crashed into a truck on East Blithedale Avenue, the Mill Valley police reported today.

According to police, his motorcycle crashed into a truck, driven by Beryl Lynn Beckett, 34, of 501 Murray Avenue, Petaluma, as the truck was pulling out of Meadow Avenue onto East Blithedale.

Introducing the Renault 17 Sports Coupe.

The Bosch fuel injection system takes continuous readings on variables like engine temperature, intake-manifold pressure and r.p.m.'s, and feeds the data into a 220 component electronic "brain".

The net result is a fantastically responsive gas pedal. Immediate. Unbalky. As advanced as the car it propels. If fuel injection is a better way to make an engine go, front-wheel drive is a better way to make a car go. Front-wheel drive allows our Sports Coupe to gobble up curves, ignore crosswinds, and sneer at ice and snow.

It also comes packed with these standard features: 4-on-the-floor gear box, rack-and-pinion steering, steel-belted radials, OHV hemi-head engine (0-60 in 11.9), disc brakes all around, tachometer, electric windows, molded bucket seats, carpeting, and tinted glass. We could go on.

Arrest Made For $502,000 Hijack

DETROIT (UPI) — The FBI announced today the arrest of Martin Joseph McNally, a former suburban Wyandotte service station attendant, in connection with the hijacking last week of an American Airlines jetliner that netted the hijacker $502,000.

McNally, 28, was arrested by FBI agents late Wednesday night on a Wyandotte street.

FBI agent Neil Welch said McNally would be charged later today with violation of the federal air piracy statute.

A bushy-haired young man hijacked the American Airlines plane June 22 en route from St. Louis to Tulsa, Okla., shortly after takeoff from Lambert Airport in St. Louis. The hijacker demanded and received $502,000 and two parachutes.

He bailed out over Peru, Ind., early Saturday morning.

Authorities, the pilot and the co-pilot of the hijacked plane said it would have been impossible for anyone to survive such a jump.

"The evidence would indicate the money blasted loose by the tremendous shock when he jumped from the plane," Welch said. "I thought the jump would kill him. Somehow he eluded authorities and got back to Detroit.

"I don't think we can say we know the particular mode of transportation. I don't want to say he had help, but we're investigating the possibility."

"We've been chasing him through four states, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Michigan," Welch said.

"We knew who we were looking for. The information gathered by the FBI agents in the four states has been pointing in his (McNally's) direction for several days and came together shortly before midnight."

About 200 federal agents and police have spent the past five days combing the sparcely populated, heavily wooded hill country near Peru.

McNally was described by authorities as a high school graduate and a veteran of the U. S. Navy. It was not known whether he had experience as a parachutist.

Welch saidMcNally's family was well known and is "substantial and established but not wealthy."

McNally had between $11 and $13 when he was arrested, Welch said.

COURT

"Rather than providing a final and unambiguous answer on the basic constitutional question, the collective impact of the majority's ruling is to demand an undetermined measure of change from the various state legislatures and the Congress," he said.

Burger said he believes legislatures under today's decision are free to "eliminate capital punishment for specific crimes or to carve out limited exceptions to a general abolition of the penalty, without adherence to the conceptual strictures of the 8th amendment."

"The legislatures can and should make an assessment of the deterrent influence of capital punishment, both generally and as affecting the commission of specific types of crimes.

"If legislatures come to doubt the efficacy of capital punishment, they can abolish it, either completely or on a selective basis. If new evidence persuades them that they have acted unwisely, they can reverse their field and reinstate the penalty to the extent it is thought warranted."

He said the five majority opinions today share a willingness to make "sweeping factual assertions" about the effectiveness of capital punishment in this country.

"Legislatures will have the opportunity to make a more penetrating study of these claims with the familiar and effective tools available to them as they are not to us," Burger said.

The Chief Justice said he would not try to make a "definitive statement" as to the extent of the Court's ruling but he noted that the two "pivotal" concurrences —those of Stewart and White —"turn on the assumption that the punishment of death is now meted out in a random and unpredictable manner."

On this basis, he said, "legislative bodies may seek to bring their laws into compliance with the Court's ruling by providing standards for juries and judges to follow in determining the sentence in capital cases or by more narrowly defining the crimes for which the penalty is to be imposed."

Opponents have argued that execution is a relic of barbarism and discriminates against the poor and minorities. Advocates have argued capital punishment expresses the community's "moral outrage" and deters crime.

The three test cases were brought to the court by:

—John Henry Furman, a Savannah, Ga., Negro convicted in 1968 of the fatal shooting of a householder, William J. Micke Jr., 29, who surprised him in a burglary.

—Lucious Jackson Jr., also a Savannah Negro, convicted of the rape of a doctor's wife in 1968. He was a convict who had escaped from a prison work gang. The victim was not seriously injured.

—Elmer Branch, a Vernon, Tex., black, who was convicted of raping a 65-year-old white woman in her rural home on May 9, 1967. She was not seriously injured.

According to the Citizens Against Legalized Murder, Inc., CALM of New York, 517 of the 600 persons on death rows were convicted of murder, 79 of rape and 4 of armed robbery. The racial breakdown is 247 white, 329 black and 14 others of either Mexican, Indian or Puerto Rican extraction.

nia, Kentucky and Massachusetts.

The conflict between a grand jury's subpoena power and the guarantee of a free press had never before been presented to the Court.

White said in the ruling:

"News gathering is not without its first amendment protections and grand jury investigations if instituted or conducted other than in good faith, would pose wholly different issues for resolution under the first amendment."

"Official harassment of the press undertaken not for purposes of law enforcement but to disrupt a reporter's relationship with his news sources would have no justification," he said.

"Grand juries are subject to judicial control and subpoenas to motions to quash. We do not expect courts will forget that grand juries must operate within the limits of the first amendment as well as the fifth."

One case concerned New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell, who refused to appear before a federal grand jury in San Francisco for questioning about the Black Panthers he had been covering. Federal District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli directed him to appear subject to specific conditions but the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled he did not have to appear.

Lawyers for the newsmen involved in grand jury summonses had argued that their sources would dry up and the free flow of news to the public would be curtailed if information given in confidence could not be protected.

In the Brewster case, the Supreme Court ruled 6-3 today that a member of Congress may be tried and convicted in court for conduct such as bribery even though it was tied to his legislative conduct.

Brewster had claimed that senatorial immunity applied to his case.

The constitutional clause provides that "... for any speech or debate in either house, they (Senators and Representatives) shall not be questioned in any other place."

Brewster faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in jail and a $20,000 fine if convicted on charges of soliciting and accepting a $24,500 bribe from a mail order firm to influence his vote on postal rate legislation.

Lagunitas Board To Talk Budget

The Lagunitas School District board will discuss budget priorities for the district's $542,000 proposed spending program for 1972-73 at 8 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley School.

The board will elect officers for 1972-73 and set meeting dates, according to Anna Mae Kondratieff, district secretary.

The board will meet in closed session at 7:30 p.m. to consider hiring a new teacher, she said.

Invalid, 79, Robbed By Four Thugs

Four hoodlums invaded an elderly man's home in San Rafael yesterday and robbed him as he sat helpless in his wheelchair, one of his assailants pinioning him to the chair, another holding a plastic toy gun to his head.

The men gained entrance to the home of 79-year-old Ralph D. Hoy at 1818 Fifth Avenue on the pretext of needing the television repair service he conducts there.

He told the invaders, according to police, that he had no money concealed in the house and they took his wallet containing $300. They then knocked him from his wheelchair and fled in a blue 1964 model car.

Hoy described his attackers thus: a man 18 to 24 years old, dark-haired and wearing a suede vest, another of similar description, a third of about the same age but lighter haired, and a fourth who seemed 13 or 14 years old and was wearing a maroon and white T-shirt.

state Assembly, William T. Bagley, also a San Rafael Republican, said he didn't know whetther the decision was "particularly good for society" but it is "pure historical fact that all over the world, the death penalty has eroded as a society has matured."

He believed the November ballot measure still would pass although that result would be nullified.

(Deputy Secretary of State Thomas Quinn told the Associated Press the measure would stay on the ballot unless forced off by a court ruling.

(Ken Brown, an official of the California Correctional Officers Association, said, "I have to assume this (the court decision) would make our effort on the initiative measure a meaningless one.)

Members of the Marin board of supervisors reached by the Independent-Journal were split. Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste said he agreed with the decision and looked forward to "new ways of handling criminals in this country," while colleague Louis H. Baar observed that "suddenly the great Supreme Court thinks we have been doing things wrong all these years."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said the decision didn't surprise him, although he believed the people have a right to vote on the issue.

Nelson said reclassification of condemned men was under way at San Quentin. Some inmates might remain elsewhere at the prison, he said, while others would be sent to other institutions.

The last execution at San Quentin was in 1967, when Aaron Mitchell, a Sacramento man, died in the gas chamber for killing a policeman.

Drunken Driving Case Taken To Superior Court

The president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to face a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from an early morning crash in San Rafael last month.

Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled there is enough evidence to try James Irwin Steele, 33, of 18 Leafwood Circle on the charge filed after the car he was driving went off the road, hit three small trees and a telephone pole at 1927 Fifth Avenue at 3:25 a.m. on May 7.

His wife was trapped in the heavily damaged car for more than an hour before she was freed and taken to a hospital with a fractured skull and broken pelvis.

Another couple riding with the Steele's also suffered injuries in the one-car accident.

Retired Postal Clerk Found Dead

Daughn Leehan Becker, 66, a retired postal clerk, was discovered dead at his home, 193 Marin Valley Drive, Novato, early today apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas.

Becker, who had suffered from lung cancer, died of a gunshot wound to his head at 1:18 a.m. today, Thomas reported.

Becker was a postal clerk in Minnesota. He is survived by his wife, Izola.

Development On Ridge Approved

Wolfback Ridge may be developed as long as certain natural features are preserved, the Sausalito Planning Commission has decided.

The commission thus rejected a recommendation from the city's open space committee, a group charged with reviewing remaining undeveloped property in Sausalito and deciding which parcels should be preserved.

The committee, composed of citizens and representatives of the city council, planning commission and community appearances advisory board, had proposed the ridge be preserved as open space "if at all possible."

If development must occur in the area, the committee suggested certain features of the area remain untouched, a recommendation which the planning commission accepted.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission agreed Tuesday night that natural springs, certain ridge lines, knolls and stands of trees should be saved, whatever development occurs.

The decision, which will be forwarded to the council, would clear the way for a plan to develop 160 acres of the ridge for a single-family residential subdivision.

Owners Frank Lynch and Edward R. Fitzsimmons have been trying to develop their land for two years and their latest subdivision map is now pending before the city ouncil, which had continued the matter while awaiting the open space report and planning commission action.

The subdivision was stalled in April when the council declared a moratorium on all new subdivisions in order to give the open space committee time to decide which lands should stay undeveloped and be acquired by the city.

Condition Of Driver Serious

A San Rafael man was seriously injured at 1:15 a.m. today when his car ran into the rear of a milk tank truck on Highway 101, near St. Vincent's Hill, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Billy Mack Munns, 32, of 15 Garden Avenue, was reported in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital with head injuries, broken ribs and internal injuries.

According to the patrol, the Mustang he was driving crashed into the milk tanker driven by Wilbur R. Russell, 66, of Salinas. His car was then struck in the rear by one driven by Charles H. Emery, 39, of Las Vegas.

Humphrey Admits Mistakes, But 'I'm Still Best Man'

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says his own mistakes and a flawed selection process have helped Sen. George McGovern become the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey said in an interview that he still thinks he's the man best able to defeat President Nixon in November and said more Democrats support him than support McGovern.

He said he would campaign for McGovern if the party nominates him, although he would like to see his rival change his views on defense, taxes and welfare.

Excerpts from the interview:

Q. Can you beat Richard Nixon in November?

A. I believe that I am best capable of beating Mr. Nixon. In 1968, with almost insuperable odds against me, I came within a hair of defeating Mr. Nixon.

I also believe I can best carry the campaign against Mr. Nixon. He is vulnerable primarily on the social and economic front. It is here that I have spent much of my political life.

The highest unemployment in a decade, the highest inflation in two decades, the highest budget deficits in four decades, the highest balance of payments deficits in eight decades, and the highest interest rates in 100 years. These points have to be hammered home, and I can do it.

Q. Do you believe that Sen. McGovern or Sen. Muskie can beat Mr. Nixon?

A. I think that a Democratic party that's united can mount a campaign that can defeat Mr. Nixon. I would say, however, that Sen. McGovern is vulnerable on some of the issues that he's raised and not fully clarified. Particularly the issue of his income redistribution plan, his tax program and his massive cuts in national defense. Sen. Muskie and myself are pretty much on the same wavelength.

Q. If you were the nominee, how would you prevent a walkout or sitout of the campaign by supporters of the other nominees?

A. One of the advantages of this particular year for the Democratic nominee is that there is time to heal wounds. In 1968 our convention was over on the 30th day of August. We had no time to do the job of planning a campaign, raising the funds, healing the wounds, talking to the people who had been in controversy and competition.

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

In 1972 the convention will be over in mid-July. There will be lots of time to talk to governors, state chairmen, delegates, factions, to work with the political leadership old and new, to put the party back together.

But I would hope that we would be able not to have a walkout. I don't want any of the Humphrey delegates to walk out.

Q. What can you do to rally young people behind you if you're the nominee?

A. I don't believe any of these people want Richard Nixon in the White House for four more years. I will go to the young people, or anybody else, to point out a record of performance over the years, in the field of civil rights and health legislation, care of the elderly, of the children, deep dedication to public service and the public interest, and ask them to look at that record.

I will also appeal to their sense of the future. I believe that I have outlined in this campaign more programs and policies for the future than any candidate.

Q. Is it possible to stop McGovern from getting the nomination, and if so, how?

A. I realize that my tauk is much more difficult, because I do not have that number of votes, of delegate votes. But his is likewise difficult. I think we have to keep in mind how these votes were accumulated. For example, in the New York primary where Fen. McGovern received a very large number of delegates, about 12 per cent of the eligible Democratic electorate participated.

Q. But there was no opposition.

A. Now I believe it's fair to say that our selection process itself is found wanting. And not only for Sen. McGovern, but the rest of us.

Q. The thrust of your remark seems to be the large number of delegates Sen. McGovern has pledged to him doesn't represent his true support in the Democratic party. Is that true?

A. To put it in the affirmative, I believe that I have a broader base of support.

Q. You mentioned some flaw in the selection process. Is it in the process or in the way that you and Sen. Muskie and other opponents of Sen. McGovern have used the process? In other words, have you made mistakes that, had you not made them, might have made a difference?

A. Oh, yes. I'm sure of that. I commend Sen. McGovern's organization and the enthusiasm of his people. I think it's well known that it's very difficult to get people out to precinct caucuses and into primary elections.

Q. How would you end the Vietnam war and get our prisoners back?

A. The procedure is to set a date and announce that date to Hanoi, as to the time of withdrawal of all American forces, provided that within that frame of time that North Vietnam release our prisoners of war and identify the missing in action. I would seek international supervision. I would also seek a cease-fire, but I would not condition our withdrawal on a cease-fire.

Q. So actually there's no substantial difference between your position and the President's?

A. And the latest position of the President. Prior to that the President had conditioned the withdrawal of forces from Vietnam on the basis that there would be no take-over of the government of South Vietnam.

Q. Earlier you outlined an indictment of President Nixon's handling of the economy. But there are some good signs, too. The economy is expanding, millions of new jobs have been created, inflation is down to roughly half its peak, an inflation that started when you were vice president. What would you do that Nixon hasn't done to improve the economy?

A. Well, of course, the population of the country grows. You've got to create jobs. The point is that the number of jobs that were eliminated under the Nixon tight-money, high-interest-rate policy of the first couple of years of his administration.

Trouble is, inflation hasn't been curbed. The wholesale price index went up three-tenths of one per cent this last month. And all the projections are that food prices are going up again.

Q. How would you improve it?

A. By enforcement, with severe penalties for violations.

Q. Would you retain the present form of controls?

A. I think for the immediate period of time, until you get inflation pretty much under control, you ought to continue what you have, with enforcement. But as you taper off into what you call Phase 3, I would then go only to the large industries and into the areas of big capital and large work forces.

Q. What specific punishments do you favor for smoking marijuana, possession of small quantities and sale for profit?

A. I don't think that's the issue. I think the question is whether or not you want to legalize the sale of marijuana or its possession. I do not. There's no reason why we should legalize a substance around which there's so much controversy and so much uncertainty.

I would favor no criminal penalties for possession and use.

Q. On the question of abortion. Do you belive that states should prevent women from getting them?

A. First of all, I do not favor federal legislation in this area. I believe that any legislation that takes place should take place at the state level.

Q. Then your position is no different from Sen. McGovern's?

A. I think we are basically the same on that issue, yes.

Q. When, and under what specific circumstances, should the federal government allow Vietnam-era draft evaders to go unpunished?

A. There is no precedent for general amnesty. Therefore, I oppose unconditional general amnesty. I would, however, like to see those who have left this country be given the opportunity for repatriation, if they're willing to serve a couple of years, at least, in some form of needed civilian activity.

Sony introduces the 15-inch-diagonal Trinitron SONY COLOR TV

We're proud to announce a giant step backwards.

Having started with a modest 12 and 9-inch diagonal screen—having progressed to a sizeable 17—Sony now adds a fourth size.

Like every TV set Sony makes, the new KV 1510 has 100% solid-state circuitry. And an Instant "On" picture. There's also a one-button automatic color/automatic fine-tuning control.

In addition (and this is brand-new) an ingenious way to tune in UHF. The tuner homes straight in on each UHF channel with a definite click of the dial.

Most important, the picture. All we ask is that you (and your customers) look at our color picture next to anyone else's.

Days Before War, Drugs

By FRANK FARRARA

Newspaper reading was less of a strain on the nerves about a century ago before big, bold headlines about war, inflation, racial strife and drugs.

At least it was that way for those reading the Sacramento Daily Union in the summer of 1869, judging by a small collection owned by C. E. Brannon of 10 Plaza Loma, Novato.

Brannon, a 79-year-old retired instrument technician for Standard Oil Co., came upon the century-old newspapers while searching for "odds and ends" at an auction in Oakland several years ago.

The newspapers were lining the bottom of the "dog basket" that contained his purchases, he reported.

Glancing through the pages the readers learned from an advertisement that George W. Chesley and Co. had received a supply of Crowder's Bourbon Whiskey in "the first shipment by way of Panama."

L. Powers and Co. announced on page one it was offering a $250 reward for a bookkeeper 'who absconded on the night of Wednesday, May 19, 1869, with about $1,000, the safe and store keys."

He was described as about five feet, six inches tall, bowlegged, with grey eyes and short brown hair, wearing a moustache, walks slowly, an inveterate tobacco chewer. Age about 82 to 88.

Scanning the overland telegraph column, the reader learned:

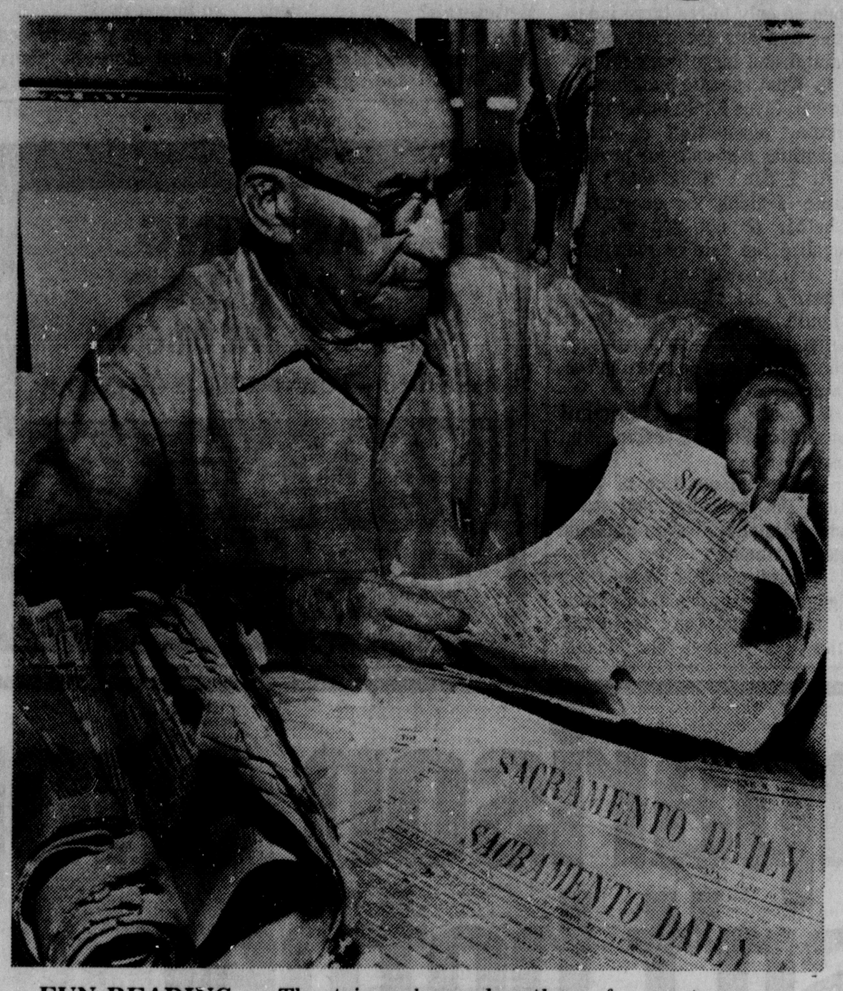
"A New York policeman was sunstruck on the battery today. He will probably die.

"Dartmouth College will give $25,000 toward erecting and furnishing an agricultural college and the state of New Hampshire will appropriate $15,000."

The short pithy headlines that caught his eye were: "A Sad Honeymoon — An Insane Bridegroom." "Gov. Scott Of South Carolina Explains Why He Is Governor." "A Child Poisoner."



FUN READING — The triumphs and pathos of a century ago are brought to life in tattered copies of the Sacramento Daily Union, property of C. E. Brannon of Novato. Brannon came upon the papers after buying articles at an Oakland auction several years ago.

"The celebration of the 'glorious fifth' in Elgin was attended Monday by a serious accident, which effectually broke up the festivities at an early part of the day and threw citizens into a state of consternation.

"The new iron bridge across the Fox River, which was but recently completed in place of the old one which fell last summer, gave way suddenly precipitating a large crowd of men and women into the river and involving a serious amount of damage to life and property."

Listed in the "sale" column were "the Occidental Steam Flour Mill in the town of Petaluma," "farming lands in Los Angeles County," and "Twelve pack mules."

The personal column noted "there are messages at the Western Union office for S. W. Belcher," and the wanted column sought agents for Horace Greeley's New Work "Recollections of a Busy Life."

The California Steam Navigation Co. offered riverboat rides from Sacramento to San Francisco at prices of $2.50 in cabin and $1.50 on deck.

Brannon, who has a keen interest in items of the past including an old railroad lunch bucket, a herb scale and buggy lanterns, said he had preserved the old newspapers by wrapping them in wax paper.

Pilots Warned: Watch The Holiday Drinking

Just as the California Highway Patrol alerts drivers to the dangers of holiday driving, so the Federal Aviation Administration is alerting pilots to holiday flying hazards.

"We're trying to cut down accidents," said Thoville G. Smith, accident prevention specialist with the FAA's Oakland General Aviation District office, on a visit to Gnoss Field yesterday.

With the Fourth of July holiday weekend near, Smith advised that pilots shouldn't "mix alcohol with either road or air travel," overload their aircraft or operate them in adverse weather, terrain or airport conditions.

Even one drink has a greater impact at a higher altitude than it does at ground level, Smith explained.

In hot weather, pilots should be aware that heat at higher altitudes decreases the performance of a plane.

Francis E. Torr, airport manager, who was appointed FAA accident prevention counselor at the airport, said takeoffs and landings at the field are 30 to 40 per cent higher on weekends.

Torr reported tpat Gnoss Field has two remote and one master communication station to advise pilots on local conditions.

Dating Game Flourishes

SANTA MONICA (AP) — The business card for Maurice Wooden's dating service boasts he introduces "the loveliest females to charming and competent male companions." But his clients are really all dogs.

Wooden boasts he has registered "300 studs and females", and "accomplished 75 datings" in recent weeks.

Wooden operates a canine dating service. And there is no room in his business for pet peeves.

His business card reads: "We will discover a compatible mate for your canine lover. We'll arrange a romantic holiday. Introduction of the loveliest females to charming and competent male companions. Our dignified service includes computerized and personalized canine matching."

Theft Case Moves To Superior Court

A 29-year-old Woodacre man, arrested after a Forest Knolls man followed a truck carrying his possessions to the defendant's home, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a burglary charge to appear July 12.

James Mike Booth was arrested May 24 by sheriff's deputies after William F. Wright of Linares Road reported he had seen a rug stolen from his home in the rear of a pickup truck he followed to Booth's residence.

Minority Hiring 'At All-Time High'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The number of minority groups members holding higher-paying federal jobs climbed to an all-time high in the 12 months ending last November, a Civil Service Commission report said today.

The report said blacks, Spanish-Americans and other minorities accounted for one-third of the year-long increase of 31,485 in white collar federal jobs. It said gains were reported at every grade level, except for the lowest, GS1-4.

Bus Bill Reintroduced, Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate supporters and opponents of forced busing were caught off guard late Wednesday when Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. —without advance notice — reintroduced his narrowly-defeated bill to bar federal courts from ordering busing in school desegregation cases.

However, he later withdrew the measure after a heated exchange with acting Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. Byrd angrily accused Griffin of attempting to snarl expected approval of a $9.7 billion antipoverty bill.

Byrd said that a bill vital to the orderly operation of the government —a measure extending the national debt ceiling at $450 billion beyond its expiration at midnight Friday —would not be called up until the poverty legislation was acted upon. Griffin, the assistant GOP leader, then backed down but said he would offer the anti-busing proposal again as a rider to some other bill.

Griffin's fellow law-makers were stunned when he reintroduced his busing legislation as an amendment to the antipoverty bill.

The proposal, which was killed by just three votes in February, would not only strip the federal courts of power to order busing, but would block implementation of earlier busing orders for 18 months.

Griffin said he acted in part because of his concern for Detroit, in his home state, which is threatened with massive busing between the inner city and the outlying suburbs. A federal judge will select a multidistrict busing plan for the Detroit area within 45 days.

"If we're going to be sure that the (Detroit busing) order is going to be stayed, it seems to me Congress has got to act," Girffin told reporters. "Time is running out."

Byrd, in accusing Griffin of stalling tactics involving the anti-poverty legislation, said "it has been obvious since last Friday that there has been a mini-filibuster going on against this bill. I am going to do everything in my power to break this filibuster."

The poverty bill would expand and extend through mid-1974 programs of the Office of Economic Opportunity designed to aid an estimated 46 million Americans who are classified as poor or near poor.

Delta Flood Victims See Their Homes

ISLETON (AP) — One week after a levee break opened 20 square miles of rich Sacramento Delta farmland to disastrous flooding, many of the 3,000 citizens left homeless by the flood were back at their homes — but only for a look.

Disaster relief officials said yesterday it will be at least seven months before they can pump the water out of flooded Brannan and Andrus islands "if everything goes just right."

But it will be a year or more before most of the families left homeless by the freak flood can return to live on their property, officials said.

In Isleton, the only incorporated community in the flood area, disaster officials predicted they might be able to allow some residents to return to their homes within four months.

About two-thirds of Isleton is under one foot to eight feet of water, compared with flooding as much as 14 feet deep in other sections of the two inland delta islands.

But health officials have not allowed any of Isleton's 1,400 residents — even those who live above the high water mark — to return to their homes because flood waters have disabled the city's water and sewage systems.

Police were allowing residents to enter Isleton to pick up belongings or move merchandise from stores, and the town's one bank reopened yesterday to help residents straighten out financial affairs.

But in other parts of the flooded islands — where 500 homes are still under water — residents were able to reach their homes only by boat.

Nixon Takes Aim At Detroit-Area Busing

DETROIT (UPI)—President Nixon promised in a letter to Michigan Congressman William Broomfield Wednesday night his administration will "leave no stone unturned" to prevent busing in the Detroit area.

Broomfield sponsored a busing moratorium in the Higher Education Act signed into law by Nixon last Friday, but Nixon had contended that the "Broomfield Amendment" would have no effect on the Detroit busing issue.

However, in the letter hand delivered to Broomfield here by one of the Congressman's aides late Wednesday, Nixon said he had "directed the Department of Justice to make full use" of the amendment, "notwithstanding real concerns of the department as to the efficacy of that provision in the Detroit situation."

"Under the circumstances, We must leave no stone unturned and I am determined that the Executive Branch will do whatever it can to secure a stay of such a busing order affecting the greater Detroit area," Nixon said.

Nixon's letter came in response to a plea from Broomfield on Monday, when the Michigan Republican urged the President to "marshal the full authority of the administration" to stop an anticipated court-ordered busing plan involving Detroit and 52 suburbs this fall.

U.S. District Court Judge Stephen J. Roth set up a nine member panel in a June 14 ruling to begin formulating details of a desegregation program for Detroit's largely black school district. The plan is expected to include massive busing of some 800,000 children between the city and 52 predominantly white suburban districts.

Broomfield's amendment seeks to postpone all court-ordered busing until all appeal possibilities of the orders have been exhausted. The section expires at midnight Jan. 1, 1974.

Park Rangers To Wear Guns

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —California's park rangers will start carrying guns for the first time Saturday because of an increase in youthful disorder, petty theft and drug use at some parks.

Jack Smyre, the state park system's new police chief, said the decision to issue .38-caliber revolvers to some rangers was made as a "precautionary" measure to prevent the spread of urban crimes of violence to the outdoors.

Smyre said state parks now are a safe place for families to visit, and "the new program of providing arms for rangers is designed to keep the parks this way."

OPENING SOON — The paraphernalia of workmen clutters the grounds of the old Stinson School, to reopen Saturday with a new lease on life — as a recreation center for the youth of Stinson Beach. The project was the idea of the community fire chief, made possible by donated materials, money — and muscle.

RENOVATION — Two unidentified workmen, part of a cadre of volunteers, refurbish the inside of Stinson Beach's new recreation center. Lack of such facilities has been an acknowledged shortcoming in the community, the project's supporters say.

Stinson Beach Young Have Place To Do 'Their Thing'

By PAT ANGLE

But the small community of Stinson Beach, plagued by increasing vandalism, petty thefts and burglaries, has another approach to the problem.

Stinson Beach is building a youth center. And its supporters hope fervently that it will provide about 30 young people better things to do than break windows, set illegal fires on the beach and generally annoy older residents.

Almost anyone who lives there will readily admit that the West Marin village's most serious shortcoming as a family community has been its lack of recreation facilities for youth.

While adults in Stinson Beach keep entertained by their community meetings and controversies over sewage treatment systems, water supplies and area planning, young residents have been left to their own devices. To date, most recreation activities have been limited to a weedy lot in the center of town, the often-crowded state beach and the pool parlor behind a local saloon.

But several months ago a former teacher teamed with a retired regional director for the Federal Bureau of Narcotics to give "the kids" a place and a means to "do their thing."

The idea for the center was that of Co.. George H. White.. As the community's fire chief, ambulance administrator and unofficial constable and juvenile officer, White — who formerly headed federal narcotics operations in the Midwest, New England and the West Coast — had usually been called to pick up or chastise youthful offenders.

After several years of firsthand experience with juvenile delinquency in Stinson Beach, White came to the conclusion that most youngsters who got into trouble did so out of sheer boredom.

He passed that thought to his neighbor, Andrea Tadlock, a retired teacher with a consuming interest in young people, and she lost no time in getting to work.

She first approached community residents for assistance in getting a center going. "Over and over people told me, 'That's a wonderful idea, Mrs. Tadlock, you go ahead and do it,' " she recalled with a laugh.

But after collecting more than $2,000 from residents, Mrs. Tadlock enlisted the support of youth and anyone else who could contribute materials, money or elbow grease to the project.

She persuaded the Bolinas-Stinson Union School District board to turn over the burned-out Stinson School, wrecked in 1970 by arson, for $10 a year rent. For the first time in its history, Stinson Beach had the makings of a youth center.

For the past several months, the energetic columnist for the Point Reyes Light headed work parties to convert the ruined school — located just north of town — into a decent recreational facility.

The transformation is nearly complete now, thanks to 540 hours of volunteer work, donations of materials from several Marin firms and the services of contractor Neil Burton, who planned and coordinated the renovation.

On Saturday, Mrs. Tadlock, jokingly known as "the godmother" and her "junior mafia" will open the center, with high hopes that the town's approximately 30 young people, aged 14 to 30, will use and enjoy their "own place."

Once it gets rolling, the young people who frequent the center will be in charge of planning its activities.

Initial recreation facilities and programs offered will include an athletic field, pool tables, games, classes (author-humorist Peg Bracken, who lives in Bolinas, has promised to teach cooking), guest lecturers and two movies a week.

The center hopes to add a tennis court in memory of the late Edward Z. Lewis, longtime Bolinas-Stinson Union School District trustee, an amphitheater and a basketball court, among other things.

Two local physicians, George and Carol Flynn, have said they will spend one night a week at the center, discussing medical problems in which center members may be interested.

"Thr possibilities and potential of the center are unlimited," Mrs. Tadlock said. "Whatever the kids want, I will try to get."

She is applying for a $10,000 grant from a foundation which funds youth recreational activities and hopes to expand the center to include a facility for the younger children.

The approximately $1,500 needed annually to operate the center will. come from fund-raising activities and an assist from the Marin County Youth Commission, which has offered to provide matching funds of up to $1,000 a year.

Youthful volunteers weilding hammers, paint brushes and putty knives in preparation for the opening also expressed enthusiasm for the center. George Laton, 24, seemed to speak for most of the volunteers when he said "kids are tired of getting in trouble with the law. We're building a place where they can have fun and keep things on the up and up."

The center's seven-man board of directors, five youths and two adults, is currently deciding on rules for the facility and has already outlawed drinking and smoking ("until we get fire insurance") on the premises.

But mostly it will be as loose an operation as possible, guided and directed by youth with adult assistance if needed.

Except for one older resident who predicts the center will be a "den of beer, pot and sex," most residents are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping it will curb the petty crime which has become a major irritant.

The crusty White, in his typical dry fashion, explained the community's purpose in building the facility. "We can't claim these little bastards are complete bastards until we've given them a little clubhouse where they can vent their energies." He chuckled and added: "If this fails, we'll throw them all in juvenile hall."

Another supporter of the center, which has come to be known as "Andy's Last Chance Club," put it another way. "At least the community can have the satisfaction of knowing it has tried to do something for its youth," she said.

South Vietnam Aide Sees Peace

CANBERRA (UPI) — South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam said today he expected peace in Indochina in "the next few months."

Lam was addressing the National Press Club after attending a ministerial meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Wednesday as an observer.

Referring to the war in South Vietnam, Lam said, "Some light seems to be appearing at the end of the tunnel. I am convinced we are going to have peace in the next few months."

But Lam said any proposals for a cease-fire would have to be based on the eight-point peace plan proposed by the South Vietnamese and U.S. governments in January.

More Fluoride In Water Sought

The question of whether Marin Municipal Water District should increase fluoridation content of its water, a topic which caused considerable controversy in Marin in 1959 and 1969, was raised again yesterday.

District directors learned that a group of county residents is circulating a petition designed to increase the amount of fluoride in the water from one-tenth of a part per million to one part per million.

Headed by Theodore A. Murray and orthodontist W. James Dawson, the group hopes to collect enough signatures to put the issue to district voters.

Signatures of 10 per cent of the district's approximately 80,000 registered voters are needed to put the matter on the ballot at a general election, while 15 per cent are needed to call a special election.

The Children's Dental Health Committee, in its statement of intent to circulate the petition, noted that water containing one part fluoride per million produces teeth three times more resistant to decay than water with one-tenth as much.

The same proposal was defeated in district elections, in June and November of 1960. The measure lost by approximately 100 votes in the first contest and by a 6,000-vote margin in the second.

Both elections were initiated by the dental health committee.

If the petitioners collect a sufficient number of signatures, the MMWD board can grant the request to increase the fluoride content or put the measure to voters.

Marin Municipal Water District Board also:

CONNECTION BAN — Scheduled for July 12 discussion of a moratorium on new connections because of possible water shortage after being roundly scolded yesterday by Joan Panek of Mill Valley who said if the board — which she accused of yielding to pressure from special interest groups — did not enact such a ban, and water rationing ensued because of less water and more development, she would suffer and her property decline in value.

BONDS — Voted to sell $7 million worth of bonds, approved by voters in November 1970 for improvements to the district water supply and distribution system to the brokerage firm of Halsey, Stuart and Co., Inc., whose high bid for interest was 5.0066 per cent.

PRINTING — Awarded the contract to print the bonds to Northern Bank Note Co. whose low bid was $790 and designated Wells Fargo Bank as the paying agent for the bonds.

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to hire these persons at these monthly salaries; Sandra M. Clayton and Fannie M. Coleman, Junior Clerks, $477; Michael Beaver, engineering aide, $723, and John A. Carrino, gardener, $649.

MEETING — Set a joint meeting with the Improvement District advisory committee and environmental advisory subcommittee for Aug. 16 in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael. A consortium of engineers hired to prepare plans for a consolidated system of waste treatment and disposal for Southeast Marin will present its preliminary plans at the session.

STUDY — Agreed to undertake a study to determine if it is feasible for the district to purchase Stinson Beach Water Co. from George P. Leonard. Community organizations in Stinson Beach, including the county water district and fire protection district boards, have asked the district to buy the system and take over its operation. At present, according to a recent study, the system is incapable of providing water needed for firefighting in that community.

BIKE PATHS — Passed a resolution requiring the district to cooperate with cities and county agencies in acquiring and developing bicycle paths. The resolution recommends the district develop such paths along distribution lines, on access roads to tanks, reservoirs and transmission lines and on other district rights-of-way that are suitable.

FORECAST — Decided against hiring a private firm, at a cost of $1,800 for a six-month period, to provide the district with long-range weather forecasts.

CREEK — Agreed to maintain the creek adjacent to the San Geronimo treatment plant in as natural a state as possible during expansion of the plant and to make the creek accessible to the public.

EMERGENCY — Agreed to provide surplus water — on an emergency basis — to Richard C. Smith of Lucas Valley whose well is failing because of low rainfall and cannot deliver sufficient water for his family and horses. Director John MacPhail dissented, saying the district board has declared that a threatened water shortage exists in the district and consequently has no surplus water to provide. Director Jack R. Felson was absent.

CONSULTANTS — Authorized the general manager to recommend a consulting firm to decide what kind of contract the district should secure to obtain water through its North Marin intertie and whether it should depend on surplus water from North Marin County Water District and Sonoma County Water District, which will supply water through the line, or to contract for a supply. The consultant, once hired, also will study alternatives proposed to increase the district's current water supply, then make recommendations to the board.

RELOCATION — Agreed to relocate pipeline to the Parkside apartments in San Anselmo with the cost of the work to be paid by the apartment owner, Ross Valley Co.

EXTENSION — Approved a pipeline extension to serve three parcels owned by Albert and Bernice Boyajian on Winding Way in Ross.

FIRELINE — Approved installation of 250 feet of fireline pipe on El Portal in Sausalito at a cost to the district of $4,045.

REPRESENTATIVES — Appointed Mill Valley City Councilman Robert E. Capron and Donald W. Davis, member of the Belvedere Sanitation Committee, to the Improvement District A advisory committee.

Record $15.3 Million Water District Budget; Hearing Set

By PAT ANGLE

A $15.3 million Marin Municipal Water District budget for 1972-73, largest in district history, was reviewed briefly and without comment by the district board yesterday.

Directors set a hearing on the fiscal program for their July 12 meeting.

The budget is approximately $5 million higher than this year's $10.4 million spending program and includes nearly $9 million in capital improvements.

Most of the income for capital work to district lines, facilities and equipment, will come from an $11.5 million bond package approved by voters in November 1970.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said the proposed budget includes district operating expenses of $4.7 million, approximately $750,000 higher than 1971-72 operating expenditures.

Expenditures proposed in the operating budget are: construction and maintenance, $984,320; engineering, $344,660; water treatment and distribution, $1,039,860; land management, $200,330; financial services, $1,187,895; administration, $292,130; property taxes, $11,000; depreciation, $752,210.

Although the district board also voted yesterday to increase water rates for its larger users by approving a flat rate structure for water, no matter how large an amount is used, Seeger said the move was designed to conserve water, not produce revenue. (Large users will be charged 30 cents per 100 cubic feet by Oct. 1, rising to 34 cents by July 1, 1973.)

The rate hike, which will not affect small users who comprise 89 per cent of district customers, will generate approximately $200,000 in revenue. Estimated revenue anticipated from water sales next year is $5.5 million.

The proposed spending program calls for nine additional employees raising the district total work force to 225 and for salary increases of $85,131. The salary increases will bring the district payroll to $1.8 million.

Seeger said the figure includes a 5 per cent raise for all employees which may be necessary during 1972-73 to bring district salaries into line with those paid by similar Bay Area agencies, a plan the board has endorsed.

Other expenses in the budget are: bond redemption and interest, $1.7 million; replacement fund, $225,000; new service installations, $98,373; fire lines, $58,000; capital work (paid for by revenues rather than bonds), $507,390; Improvement District A, $110,000; tank and storage fund, $110,000 and automotive and equipment funds, $145,060.

Among the capital items financed by revenue are the $155,000 Lagunitas booster station; relocation of pipeline in San Rafael ($130,000), and replacement of three sections of worn pipeline ($75,000).

Seeger said this is the first year the district has developed a "budget" rather than a "fiscal planning program." The main difference is that, under the budget, the district board must approve any expenditures over approved budget amounts in the various accounts. This was not true under the fiscal planning program.

Water Board President In Surprise Announcement

Robert G. Anderson Sr., president of the Marin Municipal Water District board and a district director for 24 years, announced yesterday that he will leave the board July 27, four months before his term is due to expire.

The 62-year-old Anderson said in February that he would not seek another term.

In presenting his early resignation to startled fellow directors, he said he was leaving early "to complete my retirement." He retired in January as sales manager of All-Trans Express Co., a San Francisco trucking firm he once owned but sold in 1945. He continued to work for the company after the sale.

His Division 5 seat will be filled by Ronald T. Stafford, a Sausalito physician elected to the seat on June 6 after defeating Anderson's son, Robert Jr., who also was a candidate for the post.

The veteran board member called being a director "a most rewarding and enjoyable experience in my life" in his brief letter of resignation.

Anderson had kind words for the district's staff. "We have one of the finest municipal water supply agencies in the country and this surely could not have come about without our dedicated staff," he said.

Anderson was first elected to the board in 1948 and subsequently reelected five times.

During his tenure the district constructed the Bon Tempe, Kent Lake and Nicasio reservoirs and built the Bon Tempe and San Geronimo treatment plants, the major southern and north Marin pipelines and the Corte Madera office and maintenance yard.

The director is a former Sausalito School District trustee and a past exalted ruler and 32-year member of the San Rafael Alks Lodge.

A native of Sausalito and a lifelong resident of Marin, he resides at 205 Valley Street in Sausalito. He and his wife Claudine have three grown children.

20th Anniversary As University Boss

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)— Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh observed his 20th anniversary as president of the University of Notre Dame Wednesday.

During his tenure from June 28, 1952, enrollment increased from 5,400 to 8,200, the budget from $10 million to $55 million, and the endowment from $8.5 million to $67.9 million.

Verdict Law Changes Urged

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—A gathering of the nation's attorney generals ended Wednesday with a call for states to repeal laws which require mandatory unanimous verdicts in noncapital criminal cases.

The resolution, approved by a 21-9 vote, suggested that states approve laws where "substantial majority" of a jury could convict a person if the death penalty is not involved.

The issue was the most hotly debated of 10 resolutions approved by delegates to the National Association of Attorneys General.

Others included support of a consumer protection authority for the Federal Trade Commission, creation of a committee to investigate antitrust violations in the retail gasoline industry and an expression of concern for prisoners of war.

Anderson, Albertus Work To Be Shown

An all-member show —featuring the work of George Sumner Anderson and a retrospective exhibit of paintings by George Albertus — will be held at Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley throughout July.

The show opens Saturday, with doors open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the gallery, which is upstairs at 2 Millar Avenue in Mill Valley.

Time To Put Limit On Federal Debt

Article XVI, Section 1, of the California State Constitution says:

"The Legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of $300,000 . . . unitl, at a general election or at a direct primary, it shall have been submitted to the people and shall have received a majority of all the votes cast . . ."

Constitutions of all but 10 of the 50 states contain some such restriction on state indebtedness, some even tighter than that in California, some not so tight.

Twenty-four of the states require, as does California, that any state debt issue by submitted to voter referendum.

FIGURES PREPARED by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations show that as of 1970, the average per capita debt for state governments in the U. S. was $208. The highest per capita state debt was $768 in Delaware, which has no constitutional restriction on indebtedness. Next highest was $686 in Hawaii, which has a restriction full of loopholes. California's state debt was $267 per capita.

The Constitution of the United States, however, contains no restriction on how much the government can go into debt, and no provision for federal bond issues to be submitted to the people for ratification.

That is $1,230 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It is approximately six times the average debt of the state governments.

RESIDENTS OF Missouri and Iowa — assuming they bear average shares of the federal debt burden — could retire their states' entire debts with what they must pay in taxes for interest on the federal debt. Missouri's indebtedness per capita as of 1970 was $30; Iowa's, $35.

Nearly the same is true for residents of Tennessee (state debt of $45 per capita), Idaho (46), Nebraska ($50), Arizona ($51), and Arkansas ($52).

The federal debt, meanwhile, continues to rise faster and faster. The deficit this fiscal year is expected to be around $26 billion.

The federal debt ceiling set by Congress is meaningless, since it can be raised by Congress at any time. In recent years, it has been raised so routinely that it might as well not exist at all.

EVERY DOLLAR that the citizen is taxed to pay interest on the federal debt adds to inflation.

The United States Constitution has been amended 26 times since its adoption in 1788, indicating that the founding fathers, despite their astonishing foresight, overlooked a few things.

One thing they overlooked was putting a limit on the federal debt.

It's time that was done.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

Corte Madera Fortunate With City Councilmen

I find it very distressing to read of the abuse heaped on our Mayor and Councilmen Colthurst and Wagstaff in the recent zoning controversy. Surely, their stand was confirmed by a court decision as having been the proper one and it would seem the malcontents should abide by same, rather than start wild actions toward recall.

The town of Corte Madera is, and has been, most fortunate to have men of such high integrity and unselfishness serving its citizens over the years, bearing in mind, that most of these years of service were without monetary compensation.

McGovern's Platform Abandons Promises

I have just listened, on a national TV network, to the new, revised "non-platform" of Sen. George McGovern, who seemingly has the nomination for President sewed up at the forthcoming Democratic convention.

Everything Senator McGovern has proposed during his campaign has been shunted aside by his platform committee.

His $1,000 for every man, woman and child has been scrubbed, but nothing has been substituted. His pronounced views on abortion, homosexuality and amnesty for draft dodgers has been set aside, with nothing offered in its place.

This man, and/or his committee, wants the American people to hand him a blank check to do with as he pleases.

I urge all Americans to read this new "non-platform" very carefully.

Reader Offers Course In Constitutional Law

Your editorial writer (June 27) should be given a refresher course in constitutional law. He has puffed up and come forth with a wondrous doctrine indeed. Even though a law is unconstitutional, and he agrees that it is, it should be used to punish an act which is not forbidden except by the law in question. Presumably, he would have the court inform the defendant that the defendant's conduct had broken no law, but if there had been a law against such conduct he would have broken it so he will be sentenced anyway. To quote your editorial, "this is a departure from common sense."

If you wish to be taken seriously by anyone except half-wits in your attacks on the judicial system, I suggest you relegate the writer in question to some job where thinking is not required.

If you manage to find a writer with some intelligence, perhaps he can address himself to the more salient issue of why the burning of a piece of cloth should be considered a crime in the first place. What interest can the government possibly have in such an occurrence? The only one I can see is smog abatement.

Government Control Of Land Use Difficult

The article "Sonoma ABAG Pullout Illegal" (pg. 12, June 21) and Paul Peterzell's editorial, "Land Developers Eager for Sonoma to Quit ABAG" (June 26) points out problems in land usage, utilization of natural resources, and the effect of planning.

These articles also indicate the effort that is exerted to permit some groups to operate without significant governmental control.

I was the AAG spokesman appearing before the Council of Intergovernmental Relations on June 14 at what appeared to be an unsuccessful effort to retain Sonoma County in the Bay Area for planning purposes. Fortunately, improper usage of California law frustrated what could have caused great future damage to Sonoma County and Bay Area problems.

It is remarkable that a group of Corte Madera people were preparing a petition of recall against me because I allegedly "supported developers. . ." . . ."has not acted. . . to preserve open space. . ." etc., just about the time I testified before the CIR on the detrimental effect that withdrawal of Sonoma County would have, not only on the future of Sonoma, but also upon significant portions of the Bay Area planning region.

The inconsistencies between my actual actions, as evidenced by my appearing as the ABAG spokesman, and the ill considered claims as stated in the recall petition should be apparent to Corte Maderans.

Availability Of Guns Responsible For Deaths

Re: Letter in June 26 issue of the I-J from Mr. R. Frankoni in which he states that enforcement of existing gun laws rather than additional restrictive laws are needed:

Mr. Frankoni states that "full execution of current laws" is ". . . . . the answer to the criminal use of guns." I suggest that Mr. Frankoni as well as certain of our legislators acquaint themselves with some of the particulars which attend the criminal use of guns in the United States.

Death by firearm occurs in one of three situations: accidental discharge of weapon, suicide, or homicide. Annual fatalities in each of these categories is approximately 2,500 lives, 10,500 and 7,800 respectively. The greatest percentage of these lives could be saved by severely restricting possession of guns. Mr. Frankoni must know that no amount of enforcement of existing laws will eliminate or reduce substantially the victims of suicide or accidental death by firearm.

As to the number of homicides, most of them interestingly enough are not committed by known criminals but by individuals without a previous criminal record. . .

The convenient availability of these weapons enables them to commit murder or suicide. Were the gun not available most of these heretofore law abiding citizens would get over their anger or despondency. . .

Simply put, the question is, would the prohibition or severe restriction of gun possession be too great a burden on all of us in order to save the greater percentage of the 20,000 law-abiding United States citizens who die each year at the muzzle of a gun?

SACRAMENTO SCENE

County Superintendents Superfluous But Powerful

By EARL G. WATERS

The state constitution,nt Article 9, Section 3, provides: "A superintendent of schools for each county shall be elected. . . ."

In the early period of California, the schools were administered by a teacher or a principal who usually had teaching duties. The function of the county superintendent was to coordinate the public education program within the county and to maintain standards.

With the growth of the state and the enlargement and unification of school districts, there came into being the district superintendent. Gradually the original and basic functions of the county superintendent became largely superfluous. While some new and added duties have been assigned to him over the interceding years, the educational program would be just as well off if most, if not all, of these were performed by the districts or the state or not at all.

TWO STUDIES conducted by impartial bodies reviewed the role of the county superintendent. One was by the office of Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post. The second was by a blue ribbon commission appointed by Governor Reagan. Both groups concluded the county superintendent job to be archaic and no longer serving a useful purpose.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cordy, D-Anaheim, and Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, both sponsored efforts to follow through on the recommendations of the two reports.

Cory proposed eliminating the county superintendents and replacing any of their indispensable functions with regional offices to serve as intermediary agencies between the districts and the state. He has made several runs at the problem. This session his bill made more progress than usual. It passed one committee but was defeated in ways and means.

Green sought to solve the problem with a constitutional amendment. This would have wiped out the county superintendents and made it optional for the Legislature to establish intermediate agencies if and where necessary. His measure made progress after he accepted amendments omitting charter counties from the bill. It was defeated on the floor of the Assembly.

THERE ARE 11 charter counties in the state. Excepting for Tehama, Butte and Orange, they are the most populous counties. The irony of the amendment is that if there is a shred of evidence of need for any county superintendents despite the findings of the studies, these would be the ones least in need.

But the muscle brought to bear by the county superintendents and their employees, who eat up more than $100 million a year of educational money that could be much better spent according to the reports, is great.

As Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, has learned in his valiant effort to eliminate the multitude of costly and unnecessary special district governments, such reforms are not likely to be achieved unless a strong governor like Ronald Reagan launches a vigorous campaign to get the job done.

It is possible in the case of the county superintendents that actions of the Supreme Court will eventually dispose of the issue. For the ramifications of the Serrano case, decreeing a new system of financing the public schools, may ultimately make the state responsible for all compulsory education. When that happens the county superintendents will be even more superfluous than they are now.

"The way things are in the city, I said to myself, 'Why not?' So I moved out here to the suburbs myself."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The increasing decadence of our theater, our films and the fiction we read is a matter of particular concern. All have deteriorated to such a degree that families are ashamed to share them together. They become more degrading as time passes, while producers and writers continue to justify what they are doing by saying that they are merely satisfying the public demand, failing to recognize that they themselves whet the public appetite by salacious advertising and by creating works which trespass on our community standards of frankness in the relations of the sexes. — Earl Warren.

Vietnam War May Yet Become Major November Election Issue

WASHINGTON — By way of Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon, South Vietnam's President Ngyen Van Thieu sent a warning the other day that the decision makers here can hardly ignore. Thieu said that the chance of a new North Vietnamese offensive in October could not be written off.

Coming at the climax of the presidential campaign, it could make the Vietnam war a principal issue. It would shatter the comfortable conviction of Republican strategists that, with Vietnamization and the effectiveness of surgical, push-button bombing,the war can be ruled out of the campaign.

HAVING BEEN DERIDED as a one-issue candidate George McGovern could in the event of a new offensive from the north challenge the President's claim to end the war and bring peace to Indochina. Under the circumstances, with the cost of the air and naval war escalating in new billions of dollars, this could be a vital issue once again.

Every effort will be made by the Nixon administration to see that this does not happen. With a flurry of rumors coinciding with Henry Kissinger's latest visit to Peking, the goal is a negotiated settlement, or as a minimum before November a cease-fire and an exchange of prisoners.

But those who should know within the government here see nothing in progress looking to serious negotiation. Recent remarks by China's Premier Chou En-lai indicate his belief that the war will go on and surely be a factor in the American election. He was reported as asking visiting Americans about McGovern's chances in November.

DESPITE THE MINING of the harbors and the bombing of rail lines close to the Chinese border, China and the Soviet Union have it in their power to fuel a new offensive. For the current offensive the Russians supplied advanced weapons, including the Strela missile. The Russians have, however, withheld certain far-out rarities in their arsenal.

One is the mysterious Styx surface-to-surface missile, with a reported range of at least 14 miles. Weaponeers in the Pentagon know little about the Styx other than its reputed immense destructive power. They would give a lot to get their hands on a Styx so it could be broken down and analyzed. That may be one reason the Russians have kept it out of Vietnam.

The administration drive, coupled with the ingenuity and the diplomatic finesse of Kissinger, cannot be dismissed in keeping the war off the political state. The scenario for next month offers some extremely interesting possibilities.

The Democrats will be meeting in Miami Beach and their platform is likely to put the war high up on the issue list. Former Secy. of Defense Clark M. Clifford, testifying before the Democratic platform committee, said it would be the "cardinal issue." The President and Kissinger will be in San Clemente, and taking the headlines away from Miami Beach will have priority. What better way than to announce a new step toward a negotiated settlement of the war?

AS A PAWN in the presidential campaign, the Vietnam War blacks out the horrors of the past three months — the dead, the maimed, the starving, those horribly burned with napalm, the thousands of new refugees herded into hastily improvised camps. These are Vietnamese, added victims of the surgical war that has ravaged not less than one-third of the entire population of Vietnam.

The conscience of America may be so numbed by years of this unending war that these nameless victims, these small yellow people who stand defenseless under the rain of bombs from the B-52s, can no longer stir any chord of compassion or indignation. And yet who can ever forget that news photo of children fleeing with terror and pain on their faces from the napalm attack that, by a mistake on the part of South Vietnamese pilots, fell on a civilian refugee center? We supply the napalm. We supply the planes. We pay the pilots. The accidents of war, yes, but will anyone be able to tell that girl of 11 or 12 who had ripped off her clothes in her agony why it happened?

The President has always had the option of hardening American opinion behind a "support your President in a war" majority. That is apparently what is happening. But if the American conscience, the last best hope of earth, is a casualty, then the price is very high.

Joy Denied Big City Dweller: The Clear Blue Expanse Of Sky

One of the benisons of moving from a big city to the hinterlands is that you rediscover the beauty of the sky.

(The sky, for the benefit of those urbuanites who rarely if ever can see it through the smog, is that part of the upper atmosphere which you see, or at least ought to be able to see, when you look up.)

PEOPLE WHO LIVE in town-and-country America can enjoy often the dazzling spectacle of a blue canopy specked out with puffs or streaks of white cloud.

The precise shade of blue varies with the season, the time of day, and the weather. The poets' favorite word for the sky's color is "azure." I doubt if any technical term from the lexicon of artificial pigmentation can do justice to the reality, so I prefer the old, question-begging description, "sky-blue."

It's a blue unlike any other blue, and you can stare at it for an hour and still be enchanted by it.

A solid blue sky is lovely enough. But its beauty is vastly enhanced by the kind of color contrast provided on a summer afternoon by puffy banks of white cumulus clouds.

Even more striking —and this fact demonstrates that man's touch is not always and necessarily vile —are the white streaks which high-flying jet planes create with their r contrails. They are like chalkmarks on a blue-board, and the speed with which they dissipate into wavy uncertainty is part of their special charm.

SCIENTISTS SAY the blue our vision seems to perceive in the sky is a function of the vast depth of the upper atmosphere (when it is not blacked out by low-hovering smog). This explanation, while doubtless correct, leaves me wondering why anybody feels impelled to explain rather than simply enjoy a blue sky.

In the same vein, clouds can be defined as bodies of very fine droplets of water or particles of ice dispersed in the atmosphere at altitudes ranging from a few hundred feet to several miles. But who in his right mind wants to define a cloud? The only decent thing to do with a cloud is look at it and try to think who or what it resembles.

This paean has been concerned thus far with the sky by day. The night sky sometimes is even lovelier. If there is a full or half moon, it is irradiated with soft white light which hides any ugliness that may mar the landscape as effectively as a blanket of snow in winter. Moonlight, when very bright, causes trees and shrubs to cast a pale shadow. Usually it just turns them into silhouettes against the sky.

WHEN THERE IS little or no moon, stars bedeck the dark blue bowl of the heavenly hemisphere, sparkling like tiny diamonds set in a gigantic sapphire. Some people derive pleasure from identifying the various planets, stars and constellations. I admire but do not envy their expertise. My own familiarity with the names of the stars has long since atrophied to the point where I can speak confidently only of Orion, the Big Dipper and the North Star.

But ignorance, fortunately, is no barrier to the delights of star-gazing. To look intently at a tiny spot of twinkling light and realize that it is a sun, perhaps the center of a solar system similar to ours billions of light years away, is to reexperience the feelings of the ancient Hebrew poet who said:

"When I look up at Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers,

"The moon and the stars set in their place by Thee,

"What is man that Thou shouldst remember him,

"Mortal man that Thou shouldst care for him?"

How To Halt Loose Spending: Count Out Money In Cash

WASHINGTON — My friend Duncan is worried. "There is too much loose talk in this country lately about billions of dollars," he said. "Not very long ago, we talked about millions of dollars, but all of a sudden we lapsed into billions. No self-respecting politician now will ever mention a million when a billion will do."

"I guess," I told Duncan, "for the average person it doesn't make much difference. He's never seen a million dollars, and he's never seen a billion. As far as he's concerned they're interchangeable."

"THAT'S JUST the point, no one has ever seen a billion dollars," Duncan said. "Not one of the men who has ever asked for a billion knows what it looks like. He rolls it off his tongue like he's talking about a dozen eggs. Until the people in power know what a billion dollars is, they will never stop playing with the taxpayers' money."

"But what's the solution?" I asked.

"I believe a law should be passed that says anyone in the government who asks for money for a project that costs over a billion dollars must personally count it by hand."

"You're out of your mind, Duncan."

"FOR EXAMPLE," he said, "suppose Sec. of Defense Melvin Laird says he wants $10 billion for 10 new Trident submarines. Good. We tell him he can have it, but he must take it in cash. Laird must go to a bank with a chit from Congress and present it to the cashier. The cashier will hand it over in tens and twenties, and he will be required by law to make sure it is the correct amount.

"After Laird finishes counting it, the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have to count it to make sure he didn't make a mistake. If Laird made a mistake he would have to count it all over again."

"He'd have his work cut out for him," I said.

"IF A CONGRESSMAN asks for a billion dollars for an appropriations bill, he would be required to count the money before proposing the bill," Duncan said.

"The money would be set aside in a vault on Capitol Hill and after the bill was passed, each person who voted for it would have to count it. That means if 340 congressmen voted 'yea,' the money would have to be counted 340 times. If a congressmen refused to count it, his vote would be considered invalid."

"That would be a lot of work during an election year," he said. "Tell me, would you ask the President of the United States to count out the billions he requests in his budget?"

"Of course not," Duncan said. "The President's much too busy with other things. I think his wife and family should be required to count it for him."

"His wife and family?"

"YES. WHENEVER the President figures out how much money he will need to run the country, Brink's trucks would bring it over to the White House in sacks and the President's wife and family could start counting in the upstairs quarters.

"I believe if a President saw his wife wearing green eye shades, sitting on the floor of the Lincoln bedroom counting billions of dollars, it would have a very sobering effect on him."

"Duncan, you have proposed a very radical solution, but I must admit it does have merit."

"I think," he said, "that once we start giving out our appropriations in cash instead of checks, a new era of fiscal responsibility will be upon us. All we have to say to the people in charge is, 'If you want the money — count it.' And you'll see how fast all this loose talk about billions comes to a halt."

12 Students Complete Pilot Reading Program

Twelve out of 20 students have completed successfully a performance contract in the Sausalito School District and advanced one year in reading skills during the past school year.

The results of the contract with Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto, a pilot program in the district, were announced to the district board Monday.

Twenty students —10 from lower grades, 10 from upper grades — enrolled in the program in September. The laboratories supplied materials and provided teacher training in use of the materials.

At a cost of $100 per student, the firm then guaranteed the students would advance one year in their ability to read. The money was to be paid only for those who made the necessary progress.

Trustee Betty Times said six students had not achieved a one-year advancement and two broke the contract because of excessive absences.

She said the board voted to pay the laboratories $1,300, including payment of $50 apiece for the two who defaulted on the contract.

The Sausalito School District board also:

OUTDOORS — Approved a contract with the Marin County Schools Office for a one-week outdoor education program for sixth-graders next year.

PAYMENT — Voted to pay six teachers working on the central Stull Bill committee $200 apiece for their services this summer. The committee is making plans to implement the bill, which requires annual evaluation of teacher and student performances, formulation of district goals and job descriptions for the employees.

New Revisions May Trim Mill Valley Tax

The Fluctuating tax rate in Mill Valley has taken a few more bounces at the city council received revised 1972-73 budget figures from City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Working with new figures at the budget hearing Tuesday night, Cunningham estimated that the new tax rate could be dropped by 12 cents, from $2.88 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.76.

His revised estimates took into consideration previously uncalculated expenses and a recently discovered 9 per cent increase in assessed valuation in the community.

Mayor Jean S. Barnard told the Independent-Journal she favors a tax rate even lower than Cunningham's estimate — down to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation for the city's $2.3 million tentative budget.

Cunningham's new figures were based on information received from the county assessor's office. He originally planned his budget based on an assessed valuation of $47 million. That figure now has been increased to $50.4 million.

The increased revenue raised from the higher property value will be partially offset, however, by an additional expenditure of $100,000 for employees' retirement benefits. The $100,000 expense wasn't included in the original budget Cunningham said.

In fact, the entire budget will undergo substantial revision following completion of contract negotiations with employees.

The council, although receiving the revised figures, took no formal action Tuesday to change the tax rate.

After reviewing the accounts of seven departments, the council wound up adding about $22,000 to the projected budget.

The biggest increase went to the streets account, which was swelled by about $15,000 for additional roadwork.

The city's sewer infiltration project also came in for a windfall. Cunningham told the council he had discovered about $80,000 in funds in the city's sanitary account which could be applied to several sewer infiltration projects.

The $80,000, Cunningham said, had accumulated in part due to an influx in sewer fees last year and last year's city employee strike, which saved the city one month's payroll.

The council asked the public works department to prepare a list of projects on which the discovered money could be spent.

The council also boosted the corporation yard account by more than $8,000, to $24,000, by hiring an additional mechanic.

It then cut $3,300 from the city's equipment replacement fund that had been allocated to replace the city manager's automobile in a few years.

After adding $500 to the finance department budget, the council tabled nondepartmental and retirement accounts pending the outcome of contract negotiations.

Sierra Club Suit Forces Halt To Timber-Cutting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further timber cutting in undeveloped national forest areas will be halted briefly next month under a temporary restraining order issued yesterday by U.S. District Court here.

The order, by Judge William B. Jones, prevents the U.S. Forest Service from entering into new timber contracts in such areas for 10 days beginning July 1.

Forest Service officials said yesterday the order stemmed from a lawsuit filed last Friday by the Sierra Club and other environmentalist groups.

The Sierra group objected to a Forest Service plan under way for more than a year to study roadless forest areas with the intention of setting aside some of the land to preserve its natural state.

Under the plan, areas judged not suited for wilderness designation then would be available for development, including road building, logging and public use.

The Sierra lawsuit contends, among other points, that not enough time and study has been allowed by the Forest Service in its review of roadless forest area.

An official proposal for setting aside wilderness areas is scheduled to be made by the Forest Service by the end of this year.

J. W. Deinema, an associate deputy chief in the Agriculture Department agency, said the plan is aimed at preserving suitable wild areas until Congress has had an opportunity to designate them officially.

Override Try Fails On Funds For Deaf

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Democrats and Republican defectors narrowly failed Wednesday night to override Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of $700,000 to establish a new school for multiply-handicapped deaf children.

Democrats insisted during emotion-charged debate that the issue wasn't "partisan" and that there was no place for children whose mothers suffered German measles during pregnancy to go for special education.

One Republican, Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia, charged the override attempt was a "Democratic ploy to bring something sensitive forward to cause the governor to look bad."

After a long roll call which spanned two hours, the override was defeated 25-14, two votes short of the 27 necessary for approval. Four Republicans, including Sen. Peter H. Behr of San Rafael, joined all 21 Senate Democrats in voting to reverse Reagan.

No veto has been successfully overridden by the full legislature since 1946 when Earl Warren was governor.

The override effort was aimed at restoring funds cut from the $7.4 billion state budget to establish a Northern California school for multiply-handicapped youngsters at Mendocino State Hospital, which is being shut down this year.

Reagan blue-penciled the sum on grounds that a study is currently under way at the Berkeley School for the Deaf and any changes should be "considered on a long-range basis."

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, a veteran legislator who is retiring, charged Reagan was "misinformed and misled" when he struck the funds and said there were 8,000 California children who in addition to being deaf have other handicaps such as brain damage and blindness.

Teale, an osteopath, said most are victims of the rubella epidemic which swept California several years ago and could be "salvaged" if they received special education before reaching age 8. He said the Mendocino hospital could handle 50.

The $700,000 appropriation was inserted into the budget by a two-house conference committee of legislators which wrote the final state spending program behind closed doors.

Marathon Bicycle Ride Nets $1,500

Youth Against Cancer's marathon bike ride last month drew 50 participants and brought in a total of $1,500 for the American Cancer Society, according to a spokesman for the society.

Eileen Hotchner, chairman of YAC, will present a check for that amount on July 10 to the Marin County unit of the American Cancer Society.

Pesticide Safety Bill Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has narrowly approved a bill requiring agriculture and health officials to regulate safety standards for pesticides that can be poisonous to farm workers.

The measure by Assemblyman Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, was sent to the Finance Committee Wednesday on a 7-4 vote, the bare minimum necessary, by the Health Committee.

The bill has already been passed by the Assembly.

The proposal is an attempt to resolve a long-standing jurisdictional feud between the state agriculture and health departments. Similar measures have been killed in past years.

But the bill met stiff opposition from a spokesman for the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee who called it a "growers trick to circumvent meaningful pesticide control."

The bill gives the Agriculture Department the final authority to set regulations and enforce them. But it requires that the Public Health Department help in writing the regulations and enter the investigation if the public health is endangered by use of pesticides.

GOP Leaders Back School Tax Shift

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Senate Republicans stood behind a compromise $1.2 billion property tax shift-school finance plan today but top Senate Democrats shied away from the proposal.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, the influential chairman of the Finance Committee, said, "I told Moretti I don't see any way of doing it.

"In the face of a $450 million plus (budget) surplus, how do you come out and ask for more taxes," Collier told newsmen.

Moretti, D-Van Nuys, accompanied by Reagan administration officials, made an unusual personal presentation of the compromise measure to a closed-door meeting Wednesday of the entire Senate—Republicans and Democrats alike.

Senate GOP leader Fred Marler Jr. of Redding said the proposal was a "worthy" compromise acceptable to most Republican senators.

He said the proposed income tax increase in the plan would fall "quite heavily" on lower income persons. He added that it contained no provisions for closing tax loopholes, such as the oil depletion allowance or requiring a minimum tax on wealthy persons.

Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, Democratic floor leader, said he was taking a "wait and see" position on the plan pending completion of his staff's analysis of it.

Complete details of the proposal have not been disclosed but Moretti said Wednesday it would provide $715 million in property tax relief and some tax breaks for renters.

About $530 million in "new" money would go to public schools, including a so-called "urban factor" to help out big city schools.

The Moretti-Reagan proposal would also raise state income taxes, the 5 per cent sales tax and bank and corporation taxes.

In rival tax shift plans introduced earlier this year, both Reagan and Moretti recommended increasing the sales tax from five cents on the dollar to six cents and bank and corporation levies by 1.4 per cent.

Moretti denied that the compromise measure constituted a tax increase.

Bill Killed On Heroin Smuggling

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Ways and Means committee has rejected a bill designed to encourage foreign countries, such as Mexico, to crack down on heroin smuggling into Califgrnia.

The measure by Assemblyman John Briggs, R-Fullerton, was defeated Wednesday on a 6-8 vote despite a plea by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco.

"For once," Burton told his colleagues, "We've got a chance to do something about the drug problem. A vote against this bill would be in favor of increased importation of heroin."

The bill would have required posting of warning signs in stores handling products from countries determined by the state Department of Justice to be ones that produce, process or supply heroin for use in California. The signs would state that such products were being handled by the store.

SPARS: One Woman Who Thinks It's A Good Thing

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

At age 51, just two years away from retirement, she believes the service offers security and excellent retirement benefits, and young women now beginning careers will be able to advance in rank as high as their qualifications allow.

On active duty as a yeoman first class, Mrs. Wells does secretarial work in San Francisco in the office of the Regional Emergency Transportation Representative, which is under the commander, U.S. Coast Guard western area.

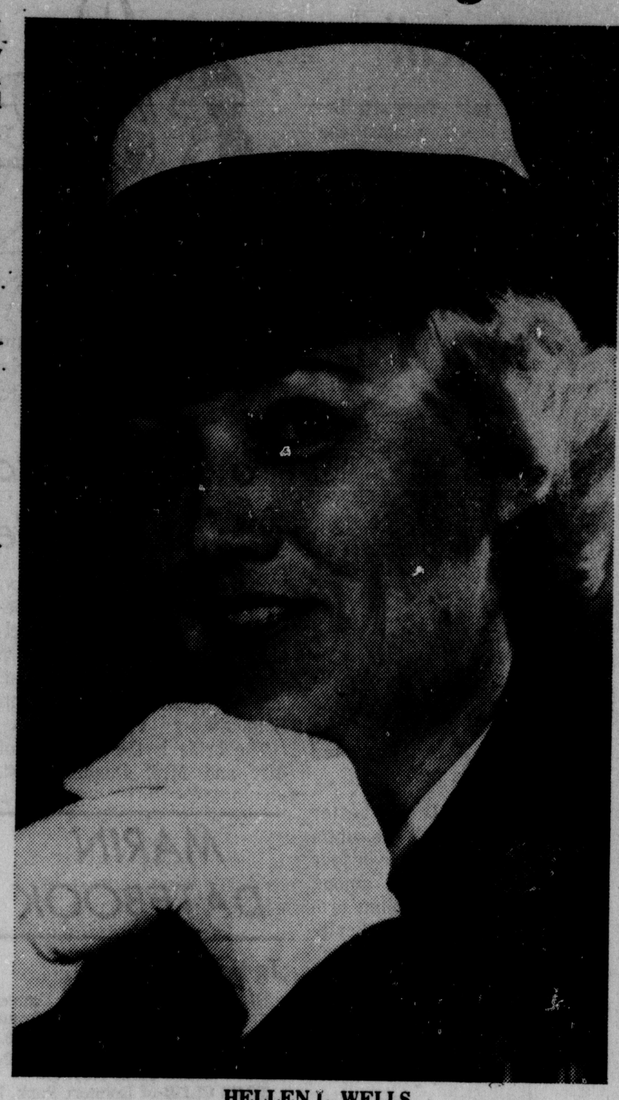
"There are only 28 women on active duty in the SPARS throughout all 50 states now," she said, "and they are yeomen, storekeepers or hospital corpsmen, but the SPARS are the only women in U.S. armed forces at present with reserves."

Hellen Wells enlisted in the service in 1943 and received training at the United States Naval Training Station at Hunter College in New York City. She was then stationed as part of the permanent staff for the training station for SPARS, established durieg World War II in the Biltmore Hotel in West Palm Beach, Fla.

During World War II she met her husband, Howard Wells, who was a Coast Guardsman, and they have lived in Mill Valley since 1946. During a 10-year break in service she worked five years for the late Mill Valley jeweler Manuel Gomez and then did office work five years in San Francisco. She returned to active duty in the SPARS in 1957.

In the future, Hellen Wells will be increasingly occupied in the work of the Rebekah Lodge, since she was recently elected district deputy president of District 61. In this capacity she is a deputy under the president of the Rebekah Assembly of California and will be in charge of supervising five Rebekah lodges, Mill Valley's Blythedale 305, of which she has been a member since 1950, Tamal and Golden Star of San Rafael, and the Petaluma and Sebastopol lodges.

With a staff of 25 to 35 persons, her main job will be installation of officers and conducting schools of instruction.



HELLEN L. WELLS
Believes her career a good one

Her association with the loge began when she was a charter member and president of the Delta Theta Rho Girls Club No. 4, the junior Rebekah group, from 1934 to 1940 in Hood River, Ore., where she was born and graduated from high school.

Hellen Wells also is a member of the Fleet Reserve Association, Mount Tamalpais Branch 254 in San Rafael. Hobbies are gardening and keeping a history of the Coast Guard SPARS. She is national coordinator for the 30th SPAR reunion to be held in San Francisco in October this year.

Never Let A Picture Slip Past

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you are being married soon, chances are you've hired a professional photographer who has the experience, skill and other gifts needed to get the best photographic coverage of your wedding.

But if, in addition, a friend offers to take an informal picture story of the occasion, Mark Malstaff has just one word for you: "accept."

The youth also aspires to a career as a professional photographer.

"There never was a bride who got too many photographs at her wedding," said the Hoosier who photographs "at least 15 weddings a year" to help pay his college expenses. "Photography records the present which all too soon becomes the past."

"It is more than a science. It is a form of art and communication."

Malstaff said when accepting such offers of an informal record of pictures taken by friends and relatives, you advise them about what photos you will most appreciate.

"A bride knows the photographs the professional is taking," he said. "She definitely should ask the amateur to stay out of this working man or woman's way and not interfere or try to compete.

Other tips from this young photographer:

—If your professional photographer's coverage will be extensive, you may wish the amateur to concentrate on supplemental photographs of specific wedding guests. Probably you will have certain situations in which you would like them photographed—the best man dancing with the maid of honor, your grandfather throwing rice, or your little sister admiring your wedding ring.

—If you do not expect the professional photographer's coverage to be broad, you will want the amateur to photograph some of the important traditional wedding scenes, such as the receiving line, you and the bridegroom cutting the cake and both of you waving goodbye from your honeymoon car.

Malstaff's final advice: ask the amateur photographer to be "candid" but kind. His photographs will be examined, treasured, passed about now and in years to come. If the photographer does his best, he and his pictures both will have a special place in everyone's memories.

Los Angeles Witch Prefers A Jet To The Traditional Flying Broom

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Louise Huebner is the only witch I ever met who travels on a jet instead of a broom.

Come to think of it, Mrs. Huebner is the only witch I ever met outside of Hallowe'en masquerades. But there she was the othar day in New York, billing herself as the happy medium and official witch of Los Angeles County, mistress of the occult and also mistress of a household that includes a husband and three children.

"You're kidding me," I said. "You're kidding yourself about witchcraft."

She laughed and said, "Well, I'm not uptight."

Mrs. Huebner said there are lots of forms of witchcraft in resurgence today. She mentioned the Satanic ("sick and perverted") and the Druid (based on religion of the ancient gods and goddesses.)

Mrs. Huebner doesn't use her alleged supernatural powers for anti-social or evil purposes. She calls herself "the good witch of the West." She lives in Los Angeles.

"I work by triggering the subconscious," she said. "To cast a spell, you have to be emotionally involved...psyched up."

She became the Los Angeles County "official witch" because when the city and county were having an anniversary in 1968, they staged a series of events in the Hollywood Bowl. One was Folklore Night and she was asked to "cast the world's largest spell."

"Why not make me the official witch?" she asked. So she received a certificate affixed with the County Seal and signed by the chairman of the board of county supervisors, Ernest E. Debs.

MRS. HUEBNER said she chose to cast a spell for increased sexual vitality in the county and had 11,000 people chanting — "jumping up and down, anything to make them feel alive."

LOUISE HUEBNER
Good witch of the West

But when she began to flaunt her title on record albums, book jackets (one of her books is "Never Strike a Happy Medium"), and in interviews, she said Debs "grew nervous" and had the county attorney request that she relinquish the title.

Mrs. Huebner retaliated with a news conference in which she threatened to "de-sex" the 77 cities in the county, beginning with Debs himself. The matter was dropped, she said.

I met Mrs. Huebner when she came to New York for the annual book and stationery show. She'd done nine minibooks for Hallmark's Springbook line; with such titles as "In the Palm of Your Hand" and "Your future, It's in the Cards."

She said her psychic powers were inherited. Her grandmother, born in Yugoslavia, had them. So did her mother and an uncle.

In high school, Mrs. Huebner began to entertain at school parties, reading palms, cards and horoscopes. This carried over to college, then to women's club groups, businessmen's organizations. Soon, she turned pro and did radio and television shows in Los Angeles.

SHE WILL start another radio show in the Los Angeles area in the fall and continue with her lectures before college audiences, talking of witchcraft, astrology, numerology, telepathy, and making predictions.

Her husband, Mentor, is production designer for films "so he understands my career," she said. "And this will help to send the kids through college." Her three children are a 17-year-old and twins, 10.

Mrs. Huebner claims (and says she can document the predictions) she was the only psychic to predict President Johnson's retirement, Nixon's first term as president, and both Kennedy assassinations.

Would Sen. Edward M. Kennedy seek the Democratic nomination?

"I don't think so," she said. "Oh yes, I predicted something like Chappaquiddick."

Then who would be the Democratic nominee? "To tell the truth,"," she answered, "I don't care."

The Reasons Why Knits So Popular

Odds And Ends Are Requested For Fall Bazaar

Mrs. Glenn H. Wolfe, chairman of in-service activities for the Los Robles Social Club, is requesting Novato and North Marin residents for donations of odds and ends which can be used by club members in making items for their fall bazaar to benefit the Novato Boys Club.

There is a need for yarn scraps, pale green winebottles in one-half or gallon sizes, which can be used for terrariums, small dolls not larger than three inches, plastic bottles, lace trim, jewelry, braid, beads, sequins and even tin cans.

Donations should be marked for the Novato Boys Club Bazaar and delivered to the Los Robles Club house, 100 Bel Marin Keys in Novato.

Clothing Care Labels Go Into Effect Monday

Caring for new miracle fabrics now on the market can lead to wash day confusion — until Monday. That's when the Federal Trade Commission's Regulation Rule on care labeling goes into effect.

The Commission will require permanent care labels on most clothing and piece goods to be converted into apparel.

J. C. Penney Company recently introduced such a labeling practice, extending it to a much wider range of fabric merchandise, including curtains, draperies, sheets, towels, area and scatter rugs.

New Knits, Stealing Home Fashion Scene

One company's records, for example, shows a 24 per cent increase in knits in little over a two-year period. Double knits are leading the way.

Yes, 'Mrs.' Does Mean A Lot To A Young Bride — Keep It

HELEN AND SUE:

I read somewhere that "Ms" for Miss or Mrs. has been adopted and everyone will be using it. Say it isn't so! As long as I can remember I've been waiting to be called "Mrs." and now that my wedding day is near, I'm not too happy to know I may be just an undescriptive "Ms." — AGAINST LIB TALK

AGAINST:

It's still our choice, and I agree: "Mrs." means a lot to a bride. I can't understand the big hassle over a couple of words, so let's call ourselves what comes happily. Okay? — SUE

DEAR AGAINST:

If your bliss is in Mrs. then give Ms. the biz. The change-over isn't official: Ms. is still used mostly by people who aren't sure whether you're Miss or Mrs. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

When you marry someone, you marry the person, not the family. At least that's what people say. But should you marry him if you can't stand his family?

I really love John and, when we're alone, everything is great. But that doesn't happen much because his folks are always planning things and having parties and anyone on the "outside" really feels left out.

They can be mean and cutting and he doesn't see it. But if I act that way to them, he thinks I'm terrible. Seems like I'm always wrong and they're right, when he's around his family.

Looking into the future, I just don't know. Would it work? — TROUBLED

DEAR T:

It might — if you move far away and gradually learn that John's family isn't as bad as you now think.

Could some of that "meanness" you describe be caused by your edginess? Maybe you expect his relatives to gang up on you and therefore read double meanings in every remark.

If you're not accustomed to large, outspoken families, they can be pretty frightening, especially when a girl wants her man all for herself. — HELEN

DEAR TROUBLED:

It's easy enough to say, "Marry and move far away" but that might not solve all the problems.

If John has been raised in a family that enjoys cutting on people and thinks only its ways are best, he's bound to have picked up some of those little meannesses. (He stands up for them, doesn't he?)

Perhaps he'll start using them on you — or he might bring up his family to be like the ones you hate.

Stand back and take a serious look at the kind of guy he is — and then imagine what he'll be like in a few years. If what you see worries you — go easy! — SUE

DEAR RAP:

This is in answer to "Shocked" who felt his university was protecting criminals by offering free analysis of illegal drugs.

I do volunteer work for a hotline phone service. A lot of kids who call us need straight information on the purity of a drug they have already taken. To have this on hand, we collect samples of illegal drugs off the street and the university pharmacy department analyzes them for us. We do not do this to protect pushers, but to help human beings. — LE ANN

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style! Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Facts On Birth Control In 1920

Margaret Sanger's book, "Women and the New Race," published in 1920 was one of the first to contain birth control information, but its essential message had nothing to do with limiting population.

The author's concept was that contraception was a means for impoverished wives to control the size of their families and for middle class women to be freed from "the drugdery of a monogamous marriage."

PARENT AND CHILD

Teachers In P-TA: Participation Small

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The following is typical of the way many Parent-Teacher Association groups work.

One parent is president; another vice-president; yet another is program chairman. The P-TA president and the school principal work and confer together. If there is an outside speaker at a program, the parents always make sure he or she is introduced to the principal.

But what about the teachers? Generally they sit together in a group, nod to the parents they know, and keep to themselves. Very seldom do they take more than a spectator role in the proceedings.

What is supposed to be a forum for active discussion among teachers and parents generally is nothing more than a show-and-tell program run by the parents, approved by the principal and reluctantly attended by the teachers.

ONE REASON teachers are disinterested in parent-teacher meetings is their low level of achievement. When curriculum or teaching decisions are to be made, they are made by the teachers and administrators meeting as a professional group; parents are very seldom included in such sessions.

But, let teachers take note, parents are becoming increasingly dissatisfied with the traditional P-TA role. They are beginning to revolt against the gulf between what goes on every day in a school's classrooms and what is decided at parent-teacher meetings.

Parents and taxpayers have heard about "accountability" and they like the concept. They have given their money and their children, and they want to know what schools are doing with both.

As school costs rise and taxpayers become more skeptical that they are getting value for their money, teachers need all the allies they can muster. They need the parents on their side.

If teachers are serious about wanting cooperation from parents, about wanting due recognition for the difficult job they do, then they could start out next year's parent-teacher meetings with a new focus.

WHAT WOULD be better than showing parents the subtle differences among three or four teaching methods, or among three or more curriculum programs, or between radically different methods for teaching beginning reading? If they prefer group to individualized instruction, they could explain to the parents why some methods are better.

Newest Styles Feature Height

Every way you turn, both sexes will be standing taller because of the quantities of platform soles and soaring heels making the scene. Naturally, in an election year, you would expect designers also to think platforms. They go from sports and daytime right on into evening wear.

The American Footwear Institute (AFI) in its styles forecast for the coming season puts things this way: "The big news story is. . . height! More abundance of sole and taller, broader heels. . . no doubt about it, the sole is a superstar. . ."

SOME OF the women's shoes perch milady on a two-inch platform that pushes the heel to four inches.

The men's platforms, in assorted styles, feature heights up to three and one-half inches.

But Alice Regensburg, AFI director, says these are "extremes." Most masculine heights are more conservative.

Note another trend: Soles on women's shoes done in sections, like the tracks on a tractor or tank. Golo does them in boots with black patent uppers and cork soles.

Boots go the platform route too, for day and evening. To go with the pantsuits, there's a pant boot that just grazes the ankle. Hailing the return of short evening dresses are boots that end just below the knees.

Footwear was one phase of the new ready-to-wear for fall and winter the nation's fashion reporters are seeing.

OTHER FOOTNOTES: A big push for the clog which AFI said "just possibly may be the sports shoe of '72." The clogs, which began coming to this country from northern Europe several seasons ago, now run through both women's and men's footwear.

The lace-up shoe comes on in quantity. You'll see it in three, five, even nine lacings. Sandals swing right into fall, many with a sling back and a more covered-up front. Also watch for T-strap buckle shoe.

Men's "active" footwear includes waffle-soled hiking boots, with rough finish or waxed leather. Says AFI, "The advance guard is tucking its jeans into the streamlined motorcycle boots that go to the knee in smooth black leather buckled in brass as many as seven times up the side.

"Yes, this is where the hardware went."

Takes 20 Years For Voting Rights

In Washington Territory women's suffrage was granted in 1883, then declared invalid by the courts in 1887. It was reenacted immediately and again declared invalid by the courts.

When Washington became a state in 1889, women's suffrage was defeated in a popular vote two-to-one, but in 1910 the measure was finally passed when an initiative vote was carried with little discussion.

Shorter Hair

Shorter — but not short — hair is prejicted for American women by Vogue magazine. Side or center-parted, hair will fall just above the collar to match the ease of softness of the new clothes. More often a hat will top tresses than in past years, the fashion magazine predicts.

Idaho Women Attack; Frontierism Spirit

"They might not put it in terms of women's liberation," one leading advocate of female rights said. "But Idaho's women retain a touch of frontierism which gives them a deep and sensitive understanding of independence, freedom and equal rights."

Many females in the sparsely populated state (714,000) are not familiar with the works of Kate Millett, Germaine Greer, Betty Friedan, Dana Densmore, Valerie Solanis or Robin Morgan.

But because of their inherent instinct of independence and freedom for all, they may be ahead of their urban sisters in the quest for equality.

June Hall, an art instructor at Idaho State University, contends that women's liberation goes much deeper than what some groups are trying to accomplish by collective coercion. She maintains that the pursuit of individual equality is an "introverted process" of self-realization.

MANY OF those advocating women's rights agree that Idaho is not in the mainstream of activities that pulsate from coast to coast and women's liberation may be late getting a hold.

But more and more w men in the state are taking action against discriminatory practices in private business and state government.

Judy Grimes, a 29-year-old attorney who is director of the state Commission on Human Rights, says sex discrimination complaints have been increasing at an annual rate of 50 per cent since 1969.

Miss Grimes said she discovered sex discrimination in Boise shortly after she arrived to take the directorship of the commission last September.

While filling out a lengthy form to open a checking account in a downtown bank, an official commented freely on why the bank would never have a female officer.

"He didn't know that I was about to take a job with the commission," she said. "I just couldn't imagine him saying something like that about a minority group member."

Sue Reents, one of several women on the commission, bluntly said Idaho's men are "not very sophisticated" when it comes to sex discrimination.

"I THINK MOST of them don't even know it is against the law to discriminate against women," she said.

"It is the way they have been doing it for years," she said. "It will be a hard habit to break. But it has to be changed."

Rose Bowman, one of the first women in Idaho to run for a major political office, says in her travels through the state she has found few female liberation activists. But she said the women understand equality and the changes which have to be made to correct the system.

The U.S. senatorial candidate said the Democratic party system at the local level made her very aware of sex discrimination.

She said women are in many cases thought of as voluntary workers and it causes some party problems when one of these workers decides to run for office.

"I have been raised a female and I know all about sex discrimination," she said. "But a liberation activist, I am not."

Opening lead — ♠ K

A TOP SPADE

West opened the king of spades, and East signaled enthusiastic encouragement by dropping the ten of spades. West had a shrewd idea of the spade position from the fact that South had been unable to suggest notrump, so he led the deuce of spades at the second trick instead of cashing the ace of spades first.

East won the second trick with the queen of spades and promptly led the nine of spades. This gave South the impression that West had opened a doubleton and was now hoping to overruff declarer.

THE PROBABILITIES

South remembered the probabilities from one of the bridge books he had read. "The chance of a 2-2 trump break," he muttered to himself, "is 40%. But there's also the chance of dropping a singleton jack of clubs. So if I ruff with an honor, I still have better than an even chance to avoid the loss of a trump trick."

South therefore ruffed the third spade with the queen of clubs. This was, of course, the end of him. West eventually took the setting trick with the jack of clubs.

WERE CORRECT

South's figures were correct, but he forgot that East had passed over the opening bid of one diamond. If West had led from a doubleton, East must have started with six spades headed by A-Q-10-9. But East would never pass with such a strong spade suit. Therefore West's opening lead was not from a doubleton, and it was quite safe to ruff low.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold:
♠- A k 5 2
♡- 10 8 5 3
◆- 4 3
♣- J 9 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. If partner has four hearts, he will raise; if he has four spades, he will bid that suit. You will thus find a 4-4 fit in either major.

'Matt Dillon' Can't Help Friend McQueen

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Actor Steve McQueen failed to make the great escape Wednesday as he was apprehended by a policeman. Sheriff Matt Dillon stood by.

The arrest came after police saw a car making circles in a downtown street in the early morning. Bystanders said McQueen jumped out of the car and addressed the arresting officer:

"Hi, I'm Steve McQueen and I'm having a good time in your little two-bit town."

"Hi, I'm a policeman and you're under arrest," came the reply.

Standing by was James Arness, television's Matt Dillon, who was with McQueen when he was arrested.

A REVERSE TACK

Rising Star Leaving Metropolitan Stable

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Frederica von Stade, young Metropolitan Opera mezzo soprano and a major emerging talent, has more than a trace of stardust in her eyes.

At the end of this season, at age 26, she is taking a reverse tack, and leaving the Met — that career pinnacle to most singers, to broaden her experience in other U.S. and European opera houses. It was a big decision to make, for since joining the Metropolitan in 1970, she has moved, with steady recognition, to increasingly important roles.

The other night I heard her sing Theobald, the page, in "Don Carlo." During spring tour (Boston, Cleveland, Atlanta, Memphis, New Orleans, Minneapolis, and Detroit) audiences will hear Cherubino in "The Marriage of Figaro," Siebel in "Faust" and Flora in "La Traviata."

Just three years ago she was one of seven finalists in the national semifinals of the Metropolitan Opera's eastern regional auditions. She was in her last year at Mannes College of Music here, and before she could compete in the finals, she was offered a soloist's contract with Rudolf Bing. Within two weeks she was the Third Genie in "The Magic Flute" and launched an operatic career that many feel will have "star" scope. Her "star" will carry her to San Francisco this fall.

I interviewed this slender, pretty, and delightfully unpretentious girl in her walk-up West Side apartment. She smiled at me with direct green-blue eyes and said with refreshing candor, "But I'm not that interesting." I said we'd see.

"I grew up in Oldwick, N.J." she began, "without a bit of music in my background — no trace. As a kid, I adored popular music and Broadway musicals and in high school I did summer stock at Long Warf Theater in New Haven. After high school, I spent a year in Paris, learning French and playing nanny to three French children.

"Then I was working at Tiffany's — dreaming of diamonds dripping through my fingers but actually selling stationery. Someone bet me that I could really sing if I tried. I enrolled at the Mannes College of Music and discovered I could graduate in four years instead of five if I got into the opera workshops.

"That meant studying with great coaches like Sebastian Engleberg, Paul Berl, and Otto Guth — learning roles, playing little scenes, and even staging productions which we staged in sets made of cardboard boxes."

By the time the Metropolitan auditions rolled around, her bright talent had been definitely noted.

The young singer has found both opportunity for growth and ample encouragement at the Met. She has been allowed to grow into such roles as Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana," Maddalena in "Rigoletto," Nicklausse in "Tales of Hoffman," Hansel in "Hansel and Gretel," Suzuki in "Madam Butterfly."

She admires such stars as Joan Sutherland, Birgit Nilsson, and Montserrat Caballe. "Yes," she admits, "I'm absolutely stagestruck. I adore the whole thing —every single ounce of opera. I love watching people take their curtain calls. I love the wig lady, and the make-up man, and the costumer.

"I've never met nicer, kinder, and more generous people anywhere than in the music world. And the biggest thing I can think of is the music. It is this passion that overrides all else and makes it all worthwhile — all our jumbled-up living and miles of traveling."

Though critics have applauded her acting, her "brilliant coloratura singing" and the fresh, lyrical "fine, light voice" her own candid comment is "I don't particularly like the sound of my own voice. It doesn't appeal to me. But you have to sing with what you have, just as you have to take your face as it is. And, you know, I can't sing high F's. Even if I took warm baths and flew to the moon I could not sing high F's."

"You know," she reflects, "it takes a long time to become a real artist — a total, first-rate artist who has talent, instincts, interest, and determination, and who knows how to coordinate voice, music, theatrics, and production circumstances. You have to care a lot to make it.

"Once," she said, "I was afraid I couldn't even walk across a stage on cue, and it is at the Met that I've learned to follow a conductor even though he seems a city block away."

As for leaving the Met to try her vocal wings elsewhere, she says simply, "I have to try. I have to put myself to the test and see if I have the stuff in me to become a more important artist or not. I am taking a risk, hoping that one day the Met will take me back — a better soprano than before."

This summer at the Santa Fe Opera, she will sing the role of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni" and Melisande in "Pelleas et Melisande." In September, she will do "The Marriage of Figaro" at the San Francisco Opera. She will appear with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic late next winter, and in April she will make her European debut in a glittering new production of "The Marriage of Figaro" at the Paris Opera Huse, with Georg Solti conducting under the new general managership of Rolf Liebermann.

In the summer of 1973, she performs with the Hamburg Opera Company and at the Glyndebourne Festival in England. She will continue her concert and solo recital work as well.

Her management speaks of her in superlatives. "This girl is a sweetheart. She is hard-working and steady and has no egotism or temperament. She has looks and personality and has already earned the respect of the conductors and others who work with her. With her talent, can there be any way but up?"

NOT STANDING STILL — Opera star Fredrica von Stade is moving on. She has decided to leave the Metropolitan Opera stable where she has made a name for herself in a few short years. Her schedule this fall will see her in the San Francisco Opera production of "The Marriage of Figaro."

Ross Loses Teacher Of The Young

By PAT PERRY

In an ideal world, a frightened 5-year-old starting kindergarten could choose his first first teacher. She would be little and friendly and fun and have kind, brown eyes.

Which is why generations of Ross kindergarteners have been so lucky. They've had Rena Safford to welcome and guide them through that first year of school for 23 years.

Everyone in Ross knows Rena Safford. She's led the Halloween parade around Ross Common every year, dressed in the same old witch's outfit.

Every Ross child has been king or queen for the day on his birthday and worn the royal robe and gold crown that Rena Safford made. The kids whose birthdays fell during school holidays are feted on rainy, boring days during the winter.)

Everyone in Ross has watched play and shows and entertainments that Rena Safford wrote and directed and played in.

But everyone in Ross doesn't know that Rena Safford has retired from Ross School after 23 years as a teacher there.

She wanted it that way. She handed in her resignation at lunchtime on the last day of the summer term. "Because I'm just too emotional, I knew I'd get too upset. As it was, I spent the whole afternoon in tears.

"Besides, on the last day of kindergarten I pin big badges on the children saying "First Grader" and they all promised to come back and see me next year. I couldn't bear to tell them they wouldn't."

Mrs. Safford, bouncing with energy and verve, says she decided to retire "because there's something about getting out when you can still deliver."

She certainly is not resting. At the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club, where she's lived for the past two years in a magnificent mobile home at 3 Wild Oak Drive, she is social director of the club.

In fact, she is already using some of the costumes and equipment at club events that she used for years at Ross School kindergarten.

"Everyone likes to pretend, no matter their age," she said.

Mrs. Safford, a divorcee, never had any children of her own, and now she thinks perhaps it was part of a pattern — "I say all the children in Ross are mine, I really feel that way, I know all the families so well. I get so many christening and wedding and graduation invitations. . .these great big G.I.'s come back and see me. . .I can hardly believe 23 years have gone by."

"The reason I've been so happy is teaching is what I love. And 5 is the magic age, you can live in a world of make believe. It's when their habits are formed, learning about their surroundings and how they can fit into the world."

"Each child is different, each one is something special. I search for that in every child and try to develop that distinct personality."

Born in Reno, Mrs. Safford nearly got named Juneau — her father, who'd been gold-prospecting in Alaska, wanted to name her Juneau, her sister Fairbanks and her brother Dawson. Her mother settled for Rena, Nevada and Lawrence.

Later her father, who had acquired a grocery store in Reno, insisted his six children get a good education, and they all worked their way through college. The young Rena worked in the grocery and ushered in a movie theater at nights.

She taught school in Reno and in Oregon, and during World War II enlisted in the Armed Forces special services program. She was director of the special services program at Camp White, Medford, Ore., running social events and recreation for 35,000 troops.

"For the weekly dances I used to go in a Jeep and comb all the little towns and stores and recruit girls. I'd send out buses to collect them," she recalled.

She landed in Ross almost by accident — a friend told her there was a job at the school.

"And I thought it was such an affluent community. I was very much intimidated —I had to take a bus to work."

She admits today, however, that the town's very affluence made her job easier.

"Because it's such a family community, you see, the children come from families that do things together, with good backgrounds. By the time they start kindergarten they've been exposed to many different things, trips, museums.

"And I'm a firm believer in meeting parents and asking them to participate. I've always felt like I was the mother's friend, not the teacher, which is a very rare thing, I know."

TAUGHT GENERATIONS — After 23 years as kindergarten teacher at Ross School, Rena Safford has retired. She made her resignation almost secret so that she — and the children — wouldn't be upset.

Blaze Cause Under Probe

San Rafael firemen today were still probing the charred remains of two downtown stores, trying to find the cause of the huge fire Tuesday night.

"We have not found the cause of the fire and it appears as though it will be hard to find," said Robert H. Franzel, battalion chief.

Estimate of the damage to the Classical Lighting at 1233 Fourth Street and Brat-Haus restaurant at 1235 Fourth Street, still remains at $250,000, Franzel said.

The fire, which was reported at 10:43 p.m., also damaged the Cottage Bookshop next door the Classic Lighting and the five-story Reynolds-Johnson building at Fourth and C streets.

College Board Gives Budget Tentative Nod

The Marin Community College District board last night approved a record $12,869,830 tentative budget, up $2.5 million from this year's $10,308,053.

The budget will require a district tax rate hike of about 8 cents, to approximately $1.085 per $100 assessed valuation, from this year's $1.005.

Two of the board's six members at last night's budget meeting abstained from voting to approve the figure, according to Earlene Jones, district publicist. She said trustees Francis Compton and Charles W. Gray object to approving lump sum figures rather than line by line items.

Their principal objection, she said, was to approving new jobs by appropriating money for them when the proposed new jobs had been neither reviewed nor justified.

Included in the budget were funds to hire about 20 full and part-time employees, both teachers and nonteachers.

The budget was approved by trustees Donald K. Felt, Martin J. Dean, Charles Best and Theodore C. Wellman. Robert E. Oliver was absent.

The biggest increase in the proposed budget is for capital outlay, matching funds for state approved projects, which total $3,629,537.

Norman Bird, business manager, said the largest sum, $949.657, is for completing the new library on the Kentfield campus. ($600,000 was budgeted for this building in this year's expenses.) Also to be spent on the Kentfield campus is $383,178 for remodeling the old art building adjacent to the new Fine Arts building, and $189,332 for remodeling the chemistry and business facilities.

Taxing to build had been promised by the board with failure of a bond issue for that purpose last fall.

A pumping station to be constructed on the marshland behind the P.E. facility on the Kentfield campus will cost an estimated $205,297, and development of outdoor facilities a further $172,935.

Bird said another reason for the increase in this year's tentative budget total is salaries — with 4 per cent raises being approved for teaching administrative and other employees in fiscal 1972-73.

Supplies and equipment have greatly increased in cost too, said Bird. Equipping the new library (which is expected to be completed in late spring) will cost an estimated $276,912, principally in shelving, furniture and storage units.

Administration $13,131 (6.6 per cent); instruction $547,000 (12.6 per cent); transportation $1,788 (7.5 per cent); maintenance of plant $54,564 (26 per cent); operation of plant $10,019 (1.9 per cent); fixed charges $80,041 (15.3 per cent); education expense $704,126 (12.2 per cent); community services $97,022 (37.2 per cent); capital outlay $2,321,803 (177.5 per cent); and general purpose reserves $849,233.

The tentative budget will be published next month, with the board meeting for its adoption Wednesday July 12 at 8:30 p.m. at the college. Public hearing on the final budget is set for Aug. 2 at 8 p.m.

New Marin Grand Jury Is Selected—Howell Foreman

A group of 19 predominantly middle-aged and older Marin residents was selected today and will replace the 1971-72 grand jury whose young members bathed the jury in publicity.

The 19 were drawn from a list of 26 final candidates, then presiding judge Henry J. Broderick appointed William L. Howell of Tiburon as foreman of the 1972-73 grand jury.

Howell, now retired, formerly ran his own public relations firm in Tiburon and is a former president of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. He replaced Milen C. Dempster.

The jury headed by Dempster was split when 24-year-old Richard W. Beban was suspended from committee duties for conducting an independent investigation, then later refused to turn over his copy of a report on the Sausalito Police Department that was leaked to the press.

Gerald Hawes resigned to protest murder indictments against six San Quentin inmates in connection with what prison officials called an escape attempt by inmate George Jackson last August.

To prevent the new grand jury having more of what judges considered obstructive behavior on the outgoing jury, prospects were required to sign a statement pledging to work within the grand jury framework.

Broderick said an effort was made to make the jury representative, but Beban called the jury "predominantly white, predominantly over 40. It's the same old grand jury."

In contrast to recent juries which worked on the calendar year, the new jury will work for a fiscal year.

The last two juries each worked 15 months to effect the transition designed to permit the jury to monitor better the county government, which runs on a fiscal year.

The jurors who will serve with Howell are:

Wins Senate Approval

Giacomini Ranch Wanted, But Price Snags Action

By JEFF GREER

SACRAMENTO — State Wildlife Conservation Board members agreed yesterday they want to buy 516 acres of southern Tomales Bay marshlands from rancher Waldo Giacomini — but snagged on the price tag for the proposed wildlife refuge and public fishing area.

State appraisers put a "fair market value" of $200,000 on the land. An appraiser hired by Giacomini has valued the property at $450,000.

After extended debate, the board instructed its staff to determine whether the board was bound to the state appraisal or could consider the land's ecological value — which state appraisers admitted they ignored — in trying to reach a compromise figure with Giacomini.

Giacomini was in the audience, but made no public statement. He has refused the $200,000 offer, according to Raymond J. Nesbit, executive officer of the wildlife board.

Last year the Point Reyes rancher applied to Marin County officials for permission to dike part of the land and reclaim it as pasture for his cattle. He postponed the project when Nature Conservancy obtained an option on the land to preserve the marsh habitant for its rich variety of water fowl and other wildlife.

Giacomini told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the Nature Conservancy had dropped its option when the state budgeted up to $550,000 to buy Tomales Bay lands under the Conservation Act of 1971, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley yesterday urged the board to act swiftly. He stressed both the desirability of the wildlife preserve and the fame of salmon and steelhead fishing on Papermill Creek, which runs through part of the proposed purchase site.

He suggested that the state law creating the Wildlife Conservation Board envisioned that the board not be bound by "fair market value" alone in buying nature preserves. Adding in land's ecological value is "totally legitimate and necessary," he said.

"This is one of the last remaining pieces of such marshland in the state," Russ said. He asked state appraisal officials why they "couldn't take that into consideration."

Townsend declared the land's value would "never go down" and asked where similar potential preserves could be bought more cheaply. He moved to offer Giacomini $300,000, but got no second.

"The toughest thing in the world is trying to appraise property" of special interest, explained Vaughn W. Miller, chief of the state's land acquisition office. "Our approach under the property acquisition law is based on fair market value. . . a typical buyer and a typical seller. The fact that it's a great fishing area just doesn't add to the value."

The board executive officer, Nesbit, told the board that it has some condemnation powers, but a longstanding policy against their use.

The board instructed Nesbit to seek legal opinions as to whether the board can go higher than the state appraisal; to hire an outside appraiser if necessary, and to seek a compromise with Giacomini.

Board member G. Ray Arnett, state director of Fish and Game, proposed Nesbit either poll members by telephone or arrange a special meeting of the board during the summer, if needed to approve a purchase price. The board agreed.

Bagley later said he hoped enough of the $550,000 would be left over to acquire other Tomales Bay lands adjoining Giacomini's property.

Giant School Budget For San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A record San Francisco school budget of $134.4 million — $5.4 million more than this year's — has been unveiled.

Should the budget made public yesterday be approved, it would mean a tax hike of 25.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and the school rate tax would jump from $4.10 to $4.35.

The board of education gets a look at the budget tonight, and if it approves, a public hearing will be scheduled with final approval Aug. 10.

School Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen said he was pleased that the proposed budget included restoration of some $1.5 million in programs eliminated last year.

Myers Criticizes Sex Course Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Episcopal bishop of California, has criticized a priest in his diocese who plans to teach a sex course for children.

"There is a conflict between his adventures in therapy and the mainstream of Christianity with respect to sexuality," the bishop said Wednesday.

He was referring to Rev. Robert W. Cromey, who operates a private "growth center" and has announced he plans a course during which children and parents will watch explicit motion pictures.

Bishop Myers said the course was discussed a diocesan council but no action was taken.

PUBLIC NOTICE

RESPONSE OF MAYOR H. S. "PETE" NORVILLE TO THE PETITION FOR RECALL

It is claimed that as Mayor and Councilman I support developers and multiple density housing, against the express will of the people.

This is not true.

Within the past 18 months I voted to zone one parcel of approximately 78 acres of land to low density residential (R-2). I voted in this manner, as did all other councilmen, to insure that the land was annexed to the Town prior to any further zoning or development, and also to insure that the Town had maximum control over the development. This area is generally called "Meadowsweet Station." All phases of the development of that site, the impact of its development on the community and ecology, were subject to detailed analysis by our planning consultants and underwent many public hearings and review by the Planning Commission. The review process is not complete but will continue for several more years. The 528 units now allowed as a maximum may still be reduced during further review. This number is significantly less than could legally be allowed for R-2 areas, and is only six to ten percent more households than could be allowed if single family residential (R-1) zoning were utilized to the maximum land coverage. Every effort in planning Meadowsweet Station was directed toward maintaining open space and preserving existing natural features, trees and the open ridgeline.

Toward providing acceptable density, I appeared numerous times before the County Supervisors and Planning Commission in an effort to reduce the density established by the County on the 8 acre parcel south of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista. I was finally successful in having the Supervisors recommend that this be considered for R-2 zoning, a reduction of 29 units. I also reconsidered and voted to rezone a seven acre parcel just north of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista from maximum density residential (R-4) to light industrial. At the present time I am on record, as are other members of the Council and Planning Commission, to reduce the density of the "Quarry Site" behind the Library from maximum density residential (R-4) to a less dense and more appropriate zoning.

I have encouraged the development of the 80 acre Regional Shopping Center east of the Freeway, and consider it important to the future economy of the Town and to the well being of Corte Madera residents.

Finally, the decisions reached by me, as Mayor and Councilman, must attempt to reach an effective balance in satisfying interested and concerned individuals and groups the "silent majority," the recommendations of our Town Staff, our consultants and various commissions, and still reflect the best solutions for Corte Madera now, and in the future.

Your refusal to support this recall petition will endorse the majority of the forward looking Town Council policies which now exist not only in matters of land use and zoning, but also in matters of police and fire protection, public works, parks and open space, recreational programs and facilities, general government, and taxation.

Welfare Recipients Must Sign For Work Saturday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting Saturday, some 1.5 million men and women on welfare must register for work or job training, and can have their government benefits reduced if they don't sign up or if they refuse jobs offered them.

The aim of the new "workfare" program is to get people off the public dole and into self sufficiency as job holders and tax payers. But nobody in government is making any predictions at this point that much of a dent will be made in the sharply rising number of families on welfare.

Assistant Labor Secretary Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., said the first year goal of the program for adults receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) is to place some 200,000 of them in jobs or job training.

But this won't offset the number of new people coming onto the AFDC rolls. Last year the rolls increased by 347,000 families to an all-time high of 2,935,000, and an additional 37,000 were added last February alone.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told UPI there is no way to know how many new AFDC recipients will be added, "but we say that this program will markedly increase the opportunity for welfare recipients to gain training and gain entry into the world of work. That in itself should help."

Workfare is a key part of President Nixon's overall welfare reform and family assistance plan still pending in Congress. The work requirement feature was lifted out and passed as a separate bill late last year.

But the administration regards it as only a partial program pending adoption of the welfare reform bill that would provide a guaranteed income for the working poor as well as for welfare recipients.

The work requirement has not been without its detractors, mainly organized labor and welfare groups such as the National Welfare Rights Organization. NWRO Chairwoman Beula Saunders said "workfare is a farce" because with unemployment at nearly 6 per cent, there are few jobs available for welfare recipients.

In an interview with UPI, Lovell conceded that finding jobs in the private economy would be a tough task but he said employers can get tax credits for hiring welfare recipients under the program. Also, he said one third of the proposed $405 million budget will be spent to create 8,000 public jobs and 2,500 training positions.

Lovell said about half of the nearly 3 million adults on AFDC, most of whom are mothers, would be exempt from the program because of having to care for pre-school children, being ill or for various other reasons.

Of the remaining 1.5 million, he said the Labor Department expects to register 750,000, or half of them, during the coming 12 months, and get the remainder in the following year.

Actor Claims He Was Very 'Gentle'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor Elliott Gould told a court he was very "gentle" with a freelance photogrrapher who sued Gould, and his wife at the time, Barbra Streisand, for $200,000 for allegedly roughing him up in 1968.

"I never struck him in any way. I was very careful putting him down as gently as I could," Gould said referring to Anthony Rizzo, who claimed Gould grabbed the neck strap of his camera, hauled him over to a car and bounced him against it. The court dismissed the suit against Miss Streisand and awarded Rizzo $6,501.

One Saigon Legislator Is 'Misled'

SAIGON (UPI)—Sen. Vo Van Truyen said today he was lured out of Saigon and left stranded in the countryside to keep him from voting against the bill granting special powers to President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The controversial bill gives Thieu nearly unlimited powers over the next six months in the areas of defense, security, economics and finance. It was passed by a bare quorum of pro-Thieu senators meeting after curfew late Tuesday night and was signed into law by the president early Wednesday. No opposition senators were present for the vote.

Truyen, 70, first vice speaker of the Senate, told newsmen pro-Thieu senators Tran The Minh and Nguyen Van Ngai offered to take him to breakfast before the scheduled Senate session Tuesday.

Instead, Truyen said, the two senators sent a car for him and the driver and an Army captain took him to his country home 50 miles north of Saigon.

Truyen said he was left there all day without transportation but in the evening the pro-Thieu senators offered to bring him back to Saigon by helicopter. Truyen said he suspected a plot against him and refused to leave.

"I was misled," said Truyen.

By the time Truyen returned to Saigon, the bill had been passed.

The upper house had been expected to kill the bill if it had come before the full 60-member Senate, as originally planned for Tuesday morning.

The senate session that Truyen missed recessed in an uproar over accusations that another senator, Tran Duy Don, had been kidnapped to prevent him from opposing the bill.

Don walked into the session just before the recess and denied he had been kidnapped — just deliberately delayed. He told newsmen today that the same two pro-Thieu senators who lured Truyen out of town also made him late for the session.

He said they had invited him to breakfast but took him instead to the home of a friend and asked him to wait until they came back. After two hours, Don said, he left for the Senate.

Reconsideration Of Budget Item Asked

By DAVID DIETZ

Although it may be too late, the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen asked the county board of supervisors last night to reconsider a budget decision that will mean higher taxes to city residents.

By unanimous vote at its monthly drink-and-dinner session at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito, the council protested a $20,000 cut in structural fire protection spending in the unincorporated area next fiscal year.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said the move, taken during recent county budget hearings, means that noncity residents will pay 4 cents less per $100 assessed valuation in 1972-73, while city residents will be assessed a half-cent per $100 more.

As pointed out at the time the cut was made, trims in spending for structural fire protection in unincorporated areas — for which only noncity residents pay — cause an increase in the county fire department's general budget, supported by both city and county residents.

Led by Fairfax officials and Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones, the council voted to send a letter to the supervisors urging restoration of the sliced funds.

Fairfax City Councilman Robert R. Souza caustically thanked the supervisors for giving city residents "the shaft," while Jones said the county had reneged on earlier promises.

Barrows told the council, however, that the action may be futile since county budget deliberations have ended. Council members noted, in turn, that the county tax rate has yet to be set for 1972-73.

In related action, the group said it would consider at its next meeting on Sept. 27 in San Rafael a proposal by Jones to revive the council's tax equity committee, which in the past dealt with city-county support of county sheriff and fire services.

City-county planning, another source of intergovernmental bickering, also was debated at last night's session. Holding to form, the officials clashed over the scope of municipal compliance with provisions of a countywide general plan under consideration.

On one side, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini said his city would withdraw from the City-County Planning Council, the body in charge of preparing the plan, if what he called a "superagency" were formed to oversee compliance. On the other hand, speakers said the intent was not to infringe on local planning, but rather to establish advisory procedures.

The council left the matter without voting a stand.

Marin Council of Mayors, Councilmen also:

ELECTED — Named San Anselmo Mayor Warren R. Perry new chairman, succeeding Holmes S. Norville, mayor of Corte Madera. Perry got eight of the 11 city votes in defeating Mayor William G. Fleckles of Larkspur and Councilman John A. Miskimen of San Rafael.

APPOINTEES — Reelected Norville as its representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments; named Mayor Robin Sweeny of Sausalito to a three-year term on the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council and chose Fairfax Mayor Albert E. Gately as a delegate to the North Bay Regional Criminal Justice Planning Board.

PARK — Let stand its vote at the last meeting in support of formation of a regional park district in Marin to acquire open space, despite Barrows's remarks that it would be a new and unneeded layer of government.

BOTTLES — Tabled by a 6-5 vote a proposal by Mill Valley that cities consider ordinances placing signs outside certain businesses urging public purchase of nonreturnable bottles in the interests of economy and the environment. Tiburon City Councilman Allan N. Littman said the scheme was unnecessary.

Agency Hit On Costs Of Infant Care Program

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Family Service Agency of San Francisco has been accused of "insane" spending on an infant care program which had 25 children for six months at a cost of more than $10,000 each.

Charles Clay, spokesman for a citizens' committee organized to look into the Family Service Agency, said at a meeting of its directors it got a $258,000 federal grant last year to care for 50 infants for a year. He said that in fact only 25 children were cared for, and for only six months.

Most of the money intended for child care went to salaries of the agency, Clay charged. He said the money should be taken from the Family Service Agency and given to other community child care centers.

A Stop Dumping Order Is Issued

The board ordered the port to stop the dumping of garbage in a 100-acre area for the Pier 94 project. The port also was told to halt seepage of polluted water from the filled land into the bay.

Sidney Lippow of Martinez said that in his six years as a board member the port had "a poor track record" in complying with antipollution standards.

Richard A. Bobier, associate counsel for the port, said illegal refuse was dumped in the Pier 94 area by private contractors and the general public. Signs prohibiting the dumping have not discouraged it, he said.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Felony Theft Charge Dropped

A Marin Municipal Court jduge has dismissed a felony theft charge against a 27-year-old Oakland man charged with taking $1,500 in painting equipment from a San Rafael business.

Soviet Press Looks At The Campaign

MOSCOW (UPI)—The way the Soviets see it, George McGovern recognized the depth of America's crisis and surged to the forefront of the Democratic Party with a clear, simple program.

Richard Nixon, thanks mostly to his successes in improving Soviet-American relations in Moscow last month, is in better shape than ever and still the overall frontrunner in the race for the presidency.

Under the headline, "When the Prophets Erred," the newspaper called McGovern a man "of great personal courage" who "understood the depth of crisis in the Democratic party and the sense of despair in America."

"Once considered quixotic, he is now thought of as a sober politician," it said. The South Dakota senator formulated his program "clearly and simply," realizing "acute problems must have radical solution."

One of the biggest boosts to McGovern came from Gov. George Wallace, "a 100 per cent demagogue" who "didn't say anything concrete," it said.

McGovern's biggest task now, the newspaper said, was to win over Humphrey and Muskie to unite the party. He also must "pacify trade union boss George Meany as well as the influential mayor of Chicago Richard Daley, who is opposed to him, and neutralize Wallace, who has enough votes for political bargaining."

The newspaper said there had been talk of a possible Humphrey-Wallace ticket to stop McGovern.

The article also suggested McGovern had eased up on some of his proposals "which created the deepest concern and anxiety among the Democratic bosses."

Edward Kennedy was still a factor with "rumors spreading that he may agree to be on the ballot with McGovern as vice president." But the newspaper also noted Kennedy had repeatedly declined to be included on a ballot.

Taking no chances on its accuracy on political prognosticating —especially in a capitalist society—the newspaper said it was anybody's guess what would actually happen in Miami Beach.

San Anselmo To Hold Flea Mart

The San Anselmo Country Fair Days committee decided last night to hold a flea market July 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the parking lot across from Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo.

Fond Memories Of Waldorf Recalled

By RALPH CHATOIAN

As he sat there and answered questions from the sports writers gathered in front of him, the years were talked about with fond memories — years like 1922, 1936, the late '40s and the early '50s.

He was talking about his first year of playing college football at Syracuse University, his years as coach at Northwestern University and then University of California...the years that Cal went to the Rose Bowl three straight times.

PAPPY WALDORF

The man, of course, was Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf, discussing his more than half a century in football during a press conference in the Fairmont Hotel to announce his retirement as full time director of personnel for the San Francisco 49ers, a post he has held since 1957.

Director of personnel? That means the guy who is in charge of drafting new talent. When you look at the 49er team, you see the direct result of the draft system. As 49er president Lou Spadia pointed out, "Of last year's 40 players on the roster, 32 were the direct result of our drafting." In announcing the retirement, Spadia said Waldorf will still remain active with the 49ers on a "consulting basis."

"I don't want to take all the credit of our drafting," said Waldorf who started listing all the people involved in drafting from general manager Jack White down. But Pappy is the man who put the draft organization together.

When asked to name some of the years that stood out in his mind, Waldorf started with the three-year period of 1922-24, his college playing days at Syracuse when he began as a 177-pound tackle. "We lost only four games in those three years."

Pappy started his college coaching right after Syracuse, at Oklahoma City University. "The first day of practice there were only 14 players out for the team," he laughted, adding that he had to quickly do some recruiting. "In our fourth game we broke the school record for gate receipts — $87.50."

There was a season as line coach at University of Kansas, then five years as head coach at Oklahoma A&M, winning two Missouri Valley Conference titles, a year at Kansas State, then 12 years at Northwestern University. His 1936 team won the Big 10 title.

Pappy hit the Bay Area in 1947 when he started a 10-year stay at Cal. His teams of 1948-49-50 represented the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl.

When asked what he remembered about those three Rose Bowl years Pappy quipped, "The principle thing I recall is that we lost 'em all."

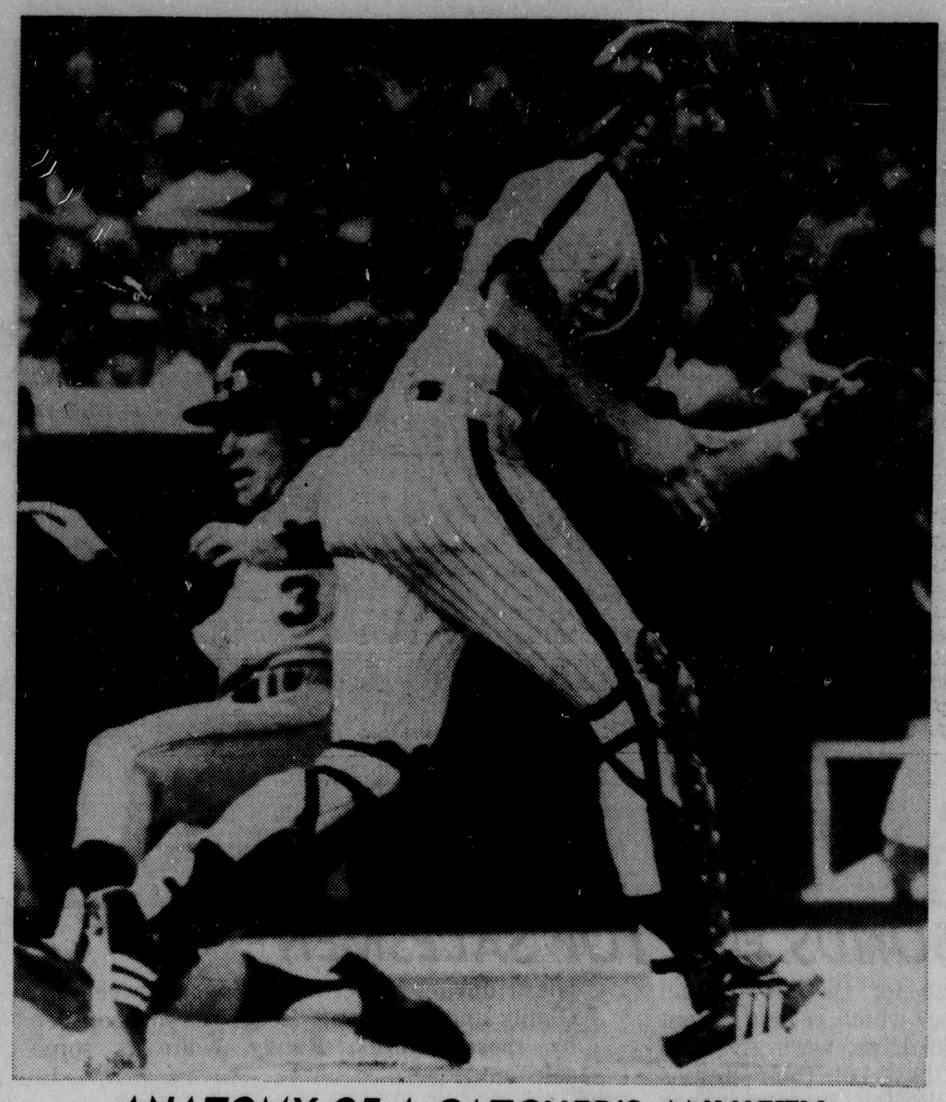
But they were all good football games, he said, then ticked off the Rose Bowl scores: 1949 — Northwestern 20, Cal 14; 1950 — Ohio State 17, Cal 14; 1951 — Michigan 14, Cal 6. Yes, Pappy, they were close games. In the Rose Bowl game just before his three tries, Michigan pasted USC, 49-0, and in the game just after his three-game streak, Illinois dumped Stanford, 40-7.

Pappy's 10-year record at Cal was 66-32 with four ties. His overall 31-year coaching record was 174-100-22. In 1966, with good reason, the National Football Foundation inducted him into the Hall of Fame.

Over the years, said Pappy, football has gotten better because of better coaching and improved skills by the players. Were the players "hungrier" then? The good players are still hungry."

Waldorf will be 70 in October, "the age of discretion," in his words.

So, what next? Traveling.



ANATOMY OF A CATCHER'S ANXIETY

Philadelphia catcher John Bateman anxiously waited for a tardy outfield throw as New York's Bud Harrelson (3) went around the Phillies' backstop to score on a fourth inning double by former San Francisco Giant Dave Marshall in Philadelphia last night. New York won, 3-2. See story, page 33.

Sharon Walsh Bows In Wimbledon Net

Mrs. King Tips Gal Of San Rafael

Bookies saw Mrs. King in action on the center court at Wimbledon Wednesday will have to start laying off money against her taking her fourth singles title.

The bespectacled girl from Long Beach, Calif., started the tourney an 11-8 favorite but must shorten in price after her ruthless dispatch of Miss Walsh.

DEVASTATING

In blasting Sharon aside 6-2, 6-0 in a mere 30 minutes Billie Jean looked the most complete and in-form player in either the men's or women's ranks. She was devastating.

Her swift surgery on Sharon was a contrast to the dithering form of Evonne Goolagong, the reigning champion from Australia and number one seed here.

But Billie Jean has paced her form to hit her peak for the title she still regards as the big one.

ALL GEARS

All the gears of her game are engaging smoothly and in the match against Miss Walsh, her backhand volley—one of the finest in tennis history—has never looked deadlier.

Miss Goolagong's face was heavy with thought as she left the stadium after watching Billie's Jean's massacre.

Fourth seeded Chris Evert, playing with mechanical efficiency and displaying an ice cool temperament, moved into the third round of the women's singles at the 86th Wimbledon lawn tennis championships today with a straight set victory over Janet Newbury.

The 17-year-old schoolgirl from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. needed 50 minutes to register a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Miss Newbury of LaJolla, Calif.

The men's top seed, Stan Smith of Sea Pines S.C., will have to lift his form well above his scratchy second round effort to handle Alexander Mayer of Woodmeare, N.Y., without big worries in the third round.

The young New Yorker showed he was well equipped in all departments with a four-sets win over Japan's Toshira Sakai. Smith, however, is too cool-headed and thorough to go into another match oozing with over-confidence.

HEWITT

With the thin but impressive scalp of seventh-seeded Bob Hewitt on his belt, Connors spread his fan club with a handsome win over experienced Greek Nikki Kalogeropoulos 6-3, 7-5, 8-6. in the second round.

Southpaw Connors' concentration can be shaky but his speed, anticipation and raking forehand have already established him as a man the top players would rather watch than play against.

Youthful Giants Suffer Loss To Experienced Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Growing up can be painful. And the San Francisco Giants are suffering pains.

With perhaps the youngest lineup in the major league, the Giants lost to the experienced Cincinnati Reds 4-2 at Candlestick Park Wednesday.

"We have to go with the kids and hope they learn something from the experience," Manager Charlie Fox said.

Don Carrithers, a 21-year-old righthander, was the major casualty of the Cincinnati bats that boomed out six doubles and a home run.

"He's got the best arm on the team," Fox said of Carrithers. "His fast ball is alive and he throws a good curve.

"But he needs experience. That's where a veteran catcher would come in handy but we don't have one.

"It's no criticism of our catcher but a young guy will usually go too much with the pitcher's best pitch. Carrithers would be a more effective pitcher if he would use his changeup more."

Carrithers lasted only 2 1-2 innings in which he gave up six hits and three runs.

"If he doesn't learn from games like this, we're hurting," Fox said. "He has all the tools. Now he has to learn to use them."

The Reds scored a run in each of the first four innings. John Bench increased his major league lead in runs batted in by bringing two of them home. He now has 58.

"I'm waiting for the pitches now," Bench said of his dramatic comeback from a 1971 slump. "And we're winning. That's always an incentive to do better."

Bench noted a big difference in Candlestick Park now that it is enclosed.

"I used to hate to come to San Francisco in the old park. The wind was discouraging. It put you down. San Francisco is a nice town but it was no place to play baseball."

Tony Perez, who had a homer and a pair of doubles, also noted a big difference in Candlestick.

"The ball goes better to left field now," he said. His homer was over the left field fence.

"I always hit good in this park and now it's even better for me," he said.

The Reds' bullpen was a big factor in the victory as Pedro Borbon and Tom Hall shutout the Giants to save the triumph for starter Ross Grimsley, now 5-2.

Borbon retired the only two batters he faced after Bobby Bonds doubled to lead off the eighth inning.

Hall came in to pitch to Willie McCovey with Bonds on third and two outs. McCovey grounded out to first base to end the inning.

Hall then struck out two of the three batters he faced in the ninth inning.

Chris Speier continued to sparkle at bat for the Giants. He accounted for the San Francisco runs with a two-run homer in the third inning. It was his eighth of the season, equalling his total for the entire 1971 campaign.

Van Breda Kolff Is Phoenix Coach

Self-Imposed Exile Ends For Ex-Laker Boss

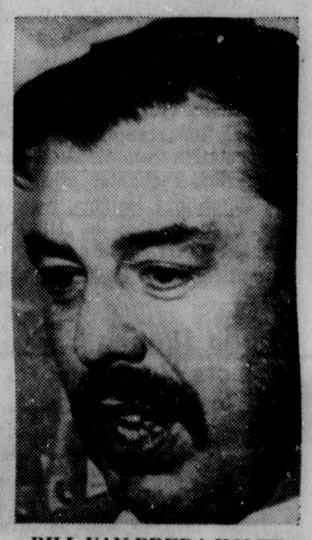
PHOENIX (UPI) —Bill Van Breda Kolff will leave his short self-imposed exile from coaching to return to the National Basketball Association as coach of the Phoenix Suns.

Van Breda Kolff, who coached the Los Angeles Lakers two years and the Detroit Pistons two years before resigning from Detroit early last season, was hired by Phoenix Wednesday to replace Cotton Fitzsimmons, who resigned to become coach of the Atlanta Hawks.

"I missed the game, the association with the players, the competition," said Van Breda Kolff in explaining why he decided to return to coaching.

He described the Suns as "a club with a lot of maneuverability and explosiveness," saying as many as five of the players could switch between two positions.

Suns General Manager Jerry Colangelo said, "Bill fits all the qualifications we were looking for. He is a contemporary coach who is familiar with both our personnel and our league."



BILL VAN BREDA KOLFF
New Phoenix coach

Van Breda Kolff played with the New York Knicks four years before coaching at Lafayette, Hofstra and Princeton until 1967 when he moved to the NBA. He took the Lakers to the playoffs in 1968 and 1969, then moved to Detroit.

He holds the dubious NBA record of most technical fouls in one season, 42 in 1970-71.

White Sox Blast Three Homers Off Army-Bound Blue; A's Lose

CHICAGO (UPI)—Vida Blue is heading into the Army where the shelling may be slightly less severe than what he got from the Chicago White Sox.

Blue was touched for home runs by Dick Allen, Walt Williams and Tom Egan en route to a 6-4 White Sox win over the Oakland Athletics Wednesday in the opener of a four-game series. The fastballing left-hander of the A's was removed at the end of 5 1-3 innings and wasn't around for the decision.

Today the two top teams in the American League West play a twi-night doubleheader with Jim Hunter (8-3) and John Odom (4-2) of the A's going against Tom Bradley (9-3) and Wilbur Wood (11-7).

Allen hit a bases empty blow off lue in the first inning, Williams led off the third with

Mitchell Ready For Cleveland Golf Go

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (UPI) — Defending champion Bobby Mitchell feels his chances of winning the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament, which starts today at the Tanglewood Country Club, are "as good as anyone else's."

"I'm hitting the ball real well," said the Danville, Va., native, "But my putter hasn't been real hot."

Mitchell fired a 22-under-par 262, including a final round 65, last year for his first victory on the PGA tour. It earned him a spot in the Tournament of Champions and he also won that event, adding $33,000 to his $30,000 Cleveland winnings, the same as this year's top prize.

The Tanglewood course, only five years old and hit by a nearly five-inch rainfall last week, has drawn criticism from some of the professionals, but Mitchell preferred to talk only about its "very demanding" fairways.

"It's a little on the tight side," he said, adding that he would rather play a demanding course because "it keeps you thinking."

Jim Jamieson, who carried an eight shot lead into last weekend's Western Open and ended up winning by six for his first tour win, was one of the last to tee off in the opening round and said he could use the rest.

Olympic Track Trials To Start

And foremost among those who will need a little luck as well as talent to make it to Munich in August are Jim Ryun and Gerry Lindgren, a couple of game performers who've known both the joys and heartbreaks of their lonely sport.

Eight years ago Ryun made it to the Tokyo Olympics as a 17-year-old while Lindgren ran Russia's best distance runners into the ground as an 18-year-old. Since then, it has been nothing but misery for Lindgren while Ryun had a few bright moments before joining Gerry on the sidelines more often than on the track.

Ryun, who beat mononucleosis and is still fighting allergy problems, and Lindgren, who has suffered a torn achilles, a jammed knee and respiratory ailments, are in action today on the opening program of the track and field trials both hope will propel them back on the world stage at Munich.

The Trials run for 10 days over an 11-day period and when they are over, the first three finishers in each event will be the ones who will represent the United States at Munich.

Novato Woman Heads NorCal Indoor Sports

Josephine Hendricks of Novato has been elected president of the Northern California District of Indoor Sports Inc., a club for physically handicapped.

Mrs. Hendricks, elected and installed at the northern district convention in San Francisco last weekend, has served two terms as president of the San Rafael Chapter, Indoor Sports Inc., the lone chapter in Marin County.

Russell A. Bohlke of Larkspur was elected treasurer and Margaret (Midge) Christie of Novato, recording secretary.

William G. Christie of Novato was elected second vice president of Good Sports, able bodied helpers, who held its convention at the same time, Mrs. Hendricks reported. Glenn A. Hendricks of Novato was named a district director.

The San Rafael chapter, Indoor Sports Inc., won first place in travel league bowling competition with a team headed by Terry Henne and second place with a team headed by Walter M. Hughes of Kentfield.

About 150 persons attended the joint convention. Anyone interested in joining Indoor Sports, Inc., can obtain further information from Mrs. Christie, San Rafael chapter president, 96 Cambridge Heights, Novato, or from Hughes at 1125 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, Mrs. Hendricks said.

Marin Skating Club Selects New Officers

Other officers will be Mrs. Barbara Kraszulyak, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Austin, secretary; Mrs. Shirley Andrews, treasurer; Mrs. Fern Redden, test chairman; and Max Lockman, Ken Westerman, Mrs. Rachael Connor and Mrs. Sonja Morrai, board members.

Calgary Beats Grid All-Stars

CALGARY (UPI)—Jim Lindsey, southpaw Calgary Stampeder quarterback, came off the bench in the second half Wednesday night to help the Stampeders make Canadian Football League history.

Lindsey, 23-year old from Abilene Christian, threw two touchdown passes with just over two minutes remaining to lead the Stampeders to a 23-22 win over the Candian Football League All-Stars.

It marked the first time that the Grey Cup winner has defeated the All-Stars. In 1970, the Ottawa Rough Riders were beaten 39-14 while last year the All-Stars thumped the Montreal Alouettes, 30-13.

Trailing 22-9, Lindsey threw his first touchdown pass to tight end Herman Harrison with 2:09 remaining. The play came in from one yard out on second down. "We were hurting them with rollout plays before," Lindsey said in explaining his play selection.

On the winning touchdown, he pitched 42 yards to Jesse Mims with 36 seconds left in the game. Lindsey afterwards said that his primary receiver on the play was Jon Henderson but that Henderson was covered on the play so he went to Mims.

Mims and Garney Henley, earlier announced as the game's Most Valuable Players, both leaped up for the ball, both touched it before it deflected into Mims' hands. "I gave it away on the one play," said Henley.

"At first I was going to go for an interception but then I decided to play it safe and knock the ball down but I didn't hit it the way I wanted to."

The teams were tied 0-0 after the first quarter. The All-Stars led 15-6 at halftime. The score after three quarters was 15-9.

Calgary's other touchdown came when defensive tackle John Helton recovered a fumble from Winnipeg Blue Bomber quarterback Don Jonas and Helton went 40 yards for the score on the first play of the second quarter.

All-Star touchdowns came from Jim Young of the British Columbia Lions and the Montreal Alouette pair of Peter Dalla Riva and Terry Evanshen.

Ken Phillips of BC also kicked a field goal while quarterback Joe Theismann booted an 87-yard single.

The game was televised to the United States as the first in a series of Wednesday night TV telecasts of Canadian ball in the U.S.

Gal Track Mark Tied

WARSAW (UPI) — Pamela Kilburn of Australia Wednesday equalled the world record in the 100 meter hurdles at the International Track and Field competition. Miss Kilburn was clocked in 12.5 seconds equalling the record set by Renata Erhard of West Germany several weeks ago.

Ramos Wins By Split Decision

MADRID (UPI)—Mando Ramos of Los Angeles sent Pedro Carrasco to the canvas twice in the first two rounds and withstood a strong comeback by the Spaniard to win the World Boxing Council (WBC) lightweight title on points in a 15-round bout at the Madrid Sports Palace Wednesday night.

It was a split decision, with Mexican referee Ray Solis giving the nod to Ramos, 144 to 142 points, and the two judges disagreeing among themselves — Henry Alisbaru of the United States putting Ramos ahead, 146 to 142, and Sanchez Villa of Spain giving the fight to Carrasco, 145-142.

Ramos' closely fought victory, before a partisan crowd of 12,000, made the Mexico-born fighter a rival of Panama's Roberto Duran who beat Ken Buchanan of Scotland for the World Boxing Association (WBA) version of the title in New York Monday.

For Ramos, 23, it was his 33rd victory in 38 pro bouts. Carrasco, 28, suffered his third defeat in 95 fights.

ATHLETICS

his first homer of the year and Egan homered with Carlos May on base in the fourth.

Sal Bando, moved back into the cleanup spot for the A's, drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly in the fifth and a single to tie the game 4-4 in the seventh.

Oakland's other runs came when Tim Cullen doubled home Mike Epstein in the second and Joe Rudi sprinted home from third on Dave Lemond's wild pitch in the third.

May slapped a two-run, bases-loaded single off reliever Bob Locker in the seventh to settle the issue. Locker was charged with the loss, his first after four wins.

Meanwhile, the A's purchased infielder Art Shamsky from the Chicago Cubs for an undisclosed price. He appeared in only 16 games, mostly as a pinchhitter, with the Cubs and had a .125 batting average.

Shamsky, who is one of the holders of the major league record for hitting home runs in four consecutive turns at bat, has been with the Cincinnati Reds, New York Mets, St. Louis Cards and Cubs during his National League career.

The addition of Shamsky brought the A's roster up to the 25-man limit.

Milestone For Braves' Aaron

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chalk up another milestone for Hank Aaron.

The Atlanta Braves' slugger, who is making the modern day player look rather good in comparison with the old-timers in the Hall of Fame, passed Lou Gehrig Wednesday night and moved into second place on the all-time runs-batted-in list.

Aaron's latest feat came when he hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Atlanta Braves a 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres in the first game of a doubleheader before the Padres came back to win the second game by the same 4-2 score.

Aaron's homer was the 653rd of his career and gave him 1,992 RBIs, one more than Gehrig. Ruth leads with 2,209 RBIs and 714 homers.

In other games, New York downed Philadelphia 3-2, Montreal stunned Pittsburgh 3-1, Cincinnati downed San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles blanked Houston 5-0 and St. Louis outslugged Chicago 8-4.

Earlier this week, it looked as if Pittsburgh was ready to take charge in the NL East. The Pirates had a three game lead with two games coming up against the second place New York Mets followed by a series with lowly Montreal. But the Pirates lost both games to the Mets and were beaten by Montreal as Bill Stoneman tossed an eight-hitter to hand Steve Blass his second loss.

The result was that the Mets' victory over Philadelphia moved them into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh as Tom Seaver pitched a seven-hitter.

Lou Brock had two hits, scored one run, drove in another and stole a base to lead St. Louis past Chicago.

Tovar Bat Valuable To Twins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tovar, who has previously filled any Twins' fielding void when called upon in recent years, displayed his potent bat yesterday in leading his team's 7-6 victory over California.

In other games, Chicago topped Oakland 6-4, Baltimore blanked New York 4-0, Boston beat Detroit 5-3 and Milwaukee swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 4-2 and 5-2.

Tovar's run-producing single in the eighth broke up a 6-6 deadlock and won the game for the Twins while Harmon Killebrew and Bobby Darwin each drove in a pair of runs. Killebrew hit his 10th homer of the season in the third and Darwin tripled in two runs in the first.

Mike Cuellar held the Yankees to just five hits in recording his second shutout of the year as the Orioles moved to within one game of the East Division-leading Tigers.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs as Boston came back from a 3-1 deficit to down Detroit.

Gary Ryerson, making his major league debut, spaced eight hits in the opener and veteran Jim Lonborg, with relief help from Ray Newman, limited Cleveland to seven hits in the nightcap as the Brewers swept a doubleheader. Ryerson, recalled from Evansville on Sunday, did not walk a batter and, except for the two runs he allowed in the second inning, allowed just two Indians to reach third base. Lonborg, continuing his comeback from three years of arm miseries, has now won three straight games and is 6-3 thus far this year.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Some Like Visual Aids

By LEE TREVINO

Actually, I don't go for visual aids — like a quarterback who writes plays on his wrist. Let Tommy Nobis or Dick Butkus see 'em and he'll draw back a nub.

A man asked me if the tape on my left arm was a sort of "cheat sheet." Like it might be a reminder to "keep your v's straight' or "don't belch on backswing." I carry my driver's license under that tape in case I drive into a little old lady on a blind hole.

Okay, I'm kidding. But the only player I know who visually reminds himself is Art Wall. A strip of tape on his driver says one word: "Tempo." It cautions him to swing at the same speed.

One or two words on a club or glove could help. But the cat who's looking at a bunch of do's and don'ts isn't visualizing what he should be visualizing, which is the next shot.

When my mental "film" is on I don't see anything but my ball's proposed trajectory, anyway.

Tony Jacklin opened his locker the last morning of the 1970 U.S. Open and found a poster Bert Yancey had stuck in there. All it said was "Tempo." He didn't write it on his club, but he remembered, and won.

Boldirev Signs Seals Contract For Next Season

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Ivan Boldirev, who joined the California Golden Seals in a trade last November, has signed a one-year contract for the 1972-73 season, Seals general manager Gary Young announced today. Details of the contract were not disclosed.

The 22-year-old center played 57 games for the Seals last season after being traded from the Boston Bruins. The 6-1, 195 lbs., native of Salt Ste. Marie, Ontario scored 16 goals, 23 assists for 39 points and 54 penalty minutes as a Seal last season. The total put him fourth on Seals' final point getting list.

"Ivan classes out as one of the most outstanding young center icemen in the National Hockey League today," Young said in announcing the signing.

Ex-Gal Umpire Fights 'Sexism'

NEW YORK — Bernice Gera wept when she ended her one-day career as a professional baseball umpire.

The petite housewife said Wednesday she was going to fight back against what she called "sexism and bias against women professionals in spgrts."

Mrs. Gera said as a start she had joined the National Organization for Women (NOW) and intended to become very active."

Hanging up her blue suit, spiked shoes and whisk broom was a traumatic affair for Mrs. Gera who fought for six years, primarily in the courts, to get her chance as a baseball umpire.

She thought she had overcome the last obstacle when she took her place as a base umpire last Friday night in a scheduled doubleheader between the Geneva Rangers and the Auburn Phillies in Geneva, N.Y.

The 5-foot-two-inch housewife was the first woman ever to officiate a professional game but her first game was also her last one.

She said that before the game she had a six-hour meeting with the other officials scheduled to officiate. "In that meeting I found out where I stood," she said.

The other umpires, she contended, refused to discuss their signals and their officiating technique with her. At that point she decided to quit.

"I love baseball," Mrs. Gera said, but because of her long battle with the baseball establishment she's spent "a lot of sleepless nights, many nights that I cried because I felt I did not deserve it."

Franklin Life Has Increase Prospects

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 500 shares of Franklin Life Insurance (OTC) which seems to be staying around $20. Should I continue to hold? — W. I.

A. Franklin Life, one of the strongest financially in the field, has experienced a slowdown in earnings growth in recent years which has been reflected in price action. A conservatively managed firm, Franklin has been slow to diversity and to expand its sales and agency staff.

An intensive program to rectify this latter situation resulted in a 16 per cent increase in the number of agents in 1971. Further, a major marketing effort is underway to promote the company's two newly established mutual funds and tax sheltered annuity.

In 1971 statutory results were $1.21 a share, flat year-to-year. Insurance in force gained 3.8 per cent to $8.2 billion. A good increase in adjusted earnings is anticipated this year. Hold.

Q. My husbnad would like me to buy tax-free bonds with some of our savings to help lower our tax burden. I would welcome your opinion on Minicipal Investment Trust Fund offered for sale about every month. The fund pays about 6 per cent. — M. R.

A. This trust fund, which offered its fifth monthly payment series in June, is sponsored by Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Bache & Co. and Walston & Co., three reputable national brokerage firms.

Sold in $1,000 units at a 3½ per cent sales fee, the units are redeemable by the trustee. In most cases units are also saleable on the over-the-counter market.

There is, however, no guarantee that you will receive the full purchase price upon sale or redemption, since price is determined by the value of the underlying bonds.

The rate of interest you receive on these units may vary as portfolio bonds mature, are sold or exchanged. Bonds in the portfolio are all rated BBB or better by Standard & Poor's and are judged to pay interest which is exempt from federal taxes. There are also a number of other series in this group which might be equally suited to your needs.

HOISTING A 'BULL' GEAR

Three riggers are required at Gulf and Western's E. M. Bliss heavy equipment division plant in Salem, Ohio, to hoist this massive "bull" gear. The gear is 14½ feet in diameter and weighs 19 tons. It is a part of a forging press which Bliss is building. (UPI Telephoto)

Changes Are In The Air For Securities Markets

NEW YORK (UPI)—After years and years of operating in traditional ways, the national securities markets are responding to public and governmental pressures by making or considering many changes.

The New York and American Stock Exchenges have revamped their boards of governors to provide more public representation. Fixed commission rates on large stock orders have been eliminated.

And there's pressure to make all trade competitive. A single ticker tape showing all transactions in all listed stocks seems just down the road.

Even more important to the securities field, as well as the small investor, is the possible creation of a unified national market system for trading. William McChesney Martin Jr., former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested such a system in the report he made about a year ago on possible changes in the securities market.

And it is more than a gleam in one man's eye. A recent announcement by Paul Kolton, president of the American Stock Exchange, indicates the backbone of such a system has been created.

Working with a $10 million commitment, the exchange has come up with AMCODE (The Amex's Computerized Orderly Display and Execution System.) It's an automated trading system designed to computerize the non-judgmental functions of the auction market.

Ultimately, AMCODE will receive, store, display and help execute all round-lot and odd-lot orders, effect the "locked-in" trade and report executions to member brokerage houses, the ticker and the clearing system.

Given AMCODE's design, it would be relatively easy to link computer components on other exchanges across the country. Kolton thinks it could be operational and embrace all exchanges within 18 to 20 months.

Of course, nothing can happen along these lines until the exchanges agree to a plan. But Kolton says AMCODE would have the capacity to handle trading volume of up to 100 million shares daily, to store 10 million open orders and to process 750,000 messages daily.

McChesney Martin, who proposed a national market system, has called AMCODE "ingenious." So it's bound to get a hard look in this period of transition on the exchanges.

Market Opens Again On The Lower Side

NEW YORK (UPI) —With the Fourth of July around the corner and concern abounding over international monetary problems, the stock market moved lower during the first two hours on the New York Stock Exchange Thursday.

Analysts said many investors are being cautious in view of the approaching holiday. Further, they have been cautious all week because of international monetary problems precipitated by Britain's floating the pound sterling.

Another dampening influence was tha government's index of leading economic indicators, which slowed its pace in May. This caused further concern about the economy already plagued by high inflation, analysts said.

Some Traits About Typical Policyholder

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) —If you are 58 years old, earning about $7,500 in a white-collar job and living in a town of 10,000 to 25,000 persons, you're halfway there to being a typical customer for mass-marketed health insurance.

Other traits of this typical policyholder, according to National Liberty Corp. are that he is married and living with his wife, has a high school education, owns the house in which he lives, has a conservative life style and travels infrequently.

Seoul General Is Given Death For Taking Bribe

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean army court sentenced an army brigadier general to death and another to life imprisonment today for taking bribes in connection with business deals involving military supplies.

The court, comprising four major generals, handed down the death penalty to Brig. Gen. Ha Jung-won and a life term to Brig. Gen. Kim Yong-chan for having conspired with businessmen in pursuit of personal gains.

At the same time the court sentenced four colonels also involved in the scandal to prison terms ranging from 10 to 15 years. All the defendants including the generals were former members of the Defense Ministry procurement bureau.

The court further ordered that all the money taken by the accused in bribes be collected as additional punishments. Brig. Gens. Ha and Kim were asked to pay $45,000 and $31,000 respectively.

It was the first time in 21 years a general has drawn capital punishment for involvement in a scandal. In July, 1961, an army brigadier general was sentenced to death for embezzlement of military supplies.

New Trial Set In Coed Assault

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A new trial has been scheduled to begin Aug. 1 for Larry S. Coffey, 23, of Santa Rosa, accused of raping an 18-year-old Sonoma State College coed.

Coffey's first trial ended in a hung jury last week with an 8-4 vote for conviction. Coffey is accused of raping the girl on March 14 as she walked to her home in Cotati from a night class at the college.

Coffey said he had been knocked unconscious by a hitchhiker that night.

8.5 Acres Sought For Housing 'Has Recreation-Use Potential'

The 8.5-acre piece of Paradise Drive land on which developers want to build 170 housing units has recreational value, the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission decided last night.

Commissioners had been asked by the town's planning commission to evaluate the proposed development. Planners on June 12 denied a zone-change application by Cal-Prop Corp. for the vacant land next to the Church of All Saints at 5300 Paradise.

The parks and recreation commission stated that the land, east of Highway 101 where there presently are no parks, "has a definite potential for future recreational use due to the area, size and location, and access for the future needs of Corte Madera."

Commissioners decided to recommend to the town council that two high school students with voting power be added to the seven-member commission.

According to Nancy Urbani, commission secretary, members want to broaden youth participation in the community's recreation programs.

The new park and recreation commissioners would serve two years, with the prerequisite that they must be high school students at the time of their appointment. One would initially be appointed for a one-year term, the second for two years, in order to provide an overlap.

After looking at plans of Town Park, the commission recommended the twon council grant Russ Aucoin's lacrosse team to play in an open meadow section.

Burglary To Superior Court

James Ray Rhoades, 32, no known address, has been bound over to Main Superior Court on a charge of attempting to burglarize a Novato business.

Rhoades, who has denied the charge, was ordered to appear in superior court July 12.

Rhoades was arrested June 14 by Novato police who found him on the roof of Max's Saw Service, 707 Grant Avenue. They were responding to a report from a citizen who saw a suspicious car in the area.

'Substitute' Convict Escapes

HOUSTON (UPI)—It was Charles Weinberg's day to be released from the Harris County Rehabilitation Center, but he said he was asleep when a jailer called out his name Wednesday.

A cellmate, Charles Edward Schoubroek, pretended to be Weinberg and walked out. A jailer led him into the waiting room to Mrs. Weinberg who had come to meet her husband.

Mrs. Weinberg said she was shocked to see a stranger approach her in her husband's clothing. But before she could alert authorities, Schoubroek escaped.

Budget For Novato Fire District Set

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night adopted a $756.282 budget for 1972-73, including a 5 per cent pay increase for firemen.

The budget is expected to require a tax rate of 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up 22 cents from the current rate, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The budget is up $138,637 from the current budget.

Directors adopted the budget without any changes from the tentative one which was adopted last month, the chief reported.

Chairman Peter J. Ferrarese and director Henry J. Alvernaz were named as a committee to meet with representatives of the Novato Professional Firemen's Association.

The board approved annexation of 35 acres adjacent to the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club area.

Directors Ferrarese and Dante Panfiglio were absent.

Sea Pollution Fight Under Way

MANILA (UPI) —A crackdown on sea pollution has been launched on foreign and domestic vessels polluting Philippine waters, Customs authorities reported.

A directive by Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina followed reports that the ships anchored in Manila Bay while awaiting discharge of cargo were polluting the area with irregular disposal of garbage and with oil slicks.

San Rafael Sanitary Board Adopts Budget

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night adopted $717,999 budget for 1972-73 after granting employees a 3.2 per cent cost-of-living salary increase.

The action is not expected to change the district's tax rate of 0.31 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Virginia Congdon, board secretary.

She said that the board adopted the budget after first cutting $500 from the district superintendent's vehicle allocation and $300 from the office supplies account. The salary increase for employees — who had asked for a 5 per cent increase — will cost the district about $2,500 but was already included in the budget, she said.

The board voted to proceed with plans to expand the district plant at Peacock Gap and will acquire the lands and easements necessary for the improvement, Mrs. Congdon said.

Plant expansion — which has been approved by the city council —will increase the carrying capacity by about 1,000 connections, she said.

The board set sewer connection rates for the newly formed Bayside Acres sewer assessment district according to the following schedule: single family residences, $125; multiple dwellings $125 per unit and commercial establishments, public schools and public agencies, $125 plus $15 for each fixture unit.

The board also authorized the Pressure Grout Co. to reconstruct the bulkhead and seal leaky joints at the Francisco Boulevard sewage pumping station at a cost of $3,910.

Police Tipped, Two Car-Strip Suspects Caught

A Fairfax resident and another man were arrested in San Anselmo last night on suspicion of burglary after police found them near a partially stripped car.

Richard James Giakovmis, 19, of 10 Gary Way, Fairfax, and Vincent James Holsten, 21, no known address, were booked into Marin County Jail without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a witness reported seeing two youths removing the bucket seats from a car owned by Virginia Gillford, 437 Scenic Avenue, and the pair were arrested nearby.

Holsten was sentenced to six months in jail last October after pleading guilty to burglary, and in 1969 served time in jail for resisting arrest in connection with a series of misdemeanors.

One Hurt As Car Hits Motorcycle

A 57-year-old commuting motorcyclist from Ross was injured at 8:15 a.m. yesterday on Highway 101 near the Tiburon Boulevard overpass, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Louis Oliver Britt of 3 Hillgirt Avenue was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital after being treated for a broken wrist.

His cycle was struck by a car driven by Thomas J. Uboldi, 27, of Napa, according to the patrol.

Soldier Plans To Recover War Loot

TOKYO (UPI)—Yataro Imaizumi, a Japanese soldier in World War II, claims he buried gold and Philippine banknotes valued at several million dollars in a mountain north of Manila in February 1945.

Imaizumi, 48, a taxi driver, told the Kyodo news agency there were so many gold bars in the cache that it took himself and six other soldiers half a month to bury it. He said he plans to return to the Philippines in October to recover the gold.

TRAINING SESSION — Linda Fukumoto was getting in trim today for an attempt on the world hopscotch record in Kentfield watched by her fellow hopscotchers (from left) Ann Trapnell, Kim Belshe, Annie Heller, Liz Penick and Rowena Kaiser. The girls begin hopping at 7 a.m. Saturday in the carpark next to Kentfield fire station and intend to keep hopping all weekend until — hopefully — 7 p.m. Sunday evening. Red Cross volunteers will work shifts scrutinizing the attempt. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

High Court Bans The Death Penalty

'Cruel Punishment' Key To 5-4 Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled today that the death penalty is unconstitutional "cruel and unusual punishment." The decision spares the life of 600 men now on condemned row.

There were 104 persons in California slated for death when the penalty was struck down — including five women at the Corona facility in Southern California, one man in custody out of state while awaiting a new penalty trial, one man at the prison system's medical facility at Vacaville and 97 on San Quentin's Death Row.

The momentous decision was by a 5 to 4 vote with all four of President Nixon's appointees dissenting.

Each filed his own opinion. This meant that all nine justices spoke out on the issue. The actual ruling came in a brief unsigned opinion.

The striking down of capital punishment throughout the United States came in a ruling on three test cases which claimed the death sentence was "cruel and unusual punishment" which is barred by the Constitution.

Two members of the majority, Brennan and Marshall, concluded that the 8th Amendment prohibits capital punishment for all crimes and under all circumstances because of the "cruel and unusual" features.

Douglas found capital punishment a violation of the 8th Amendment but did not seem to rule it out for all time.

Stewart and White relied heavily on the reluctance of judges and juries actually to impose the death penalty.

Stewart said, "These death sentences are cruel and unusual in the same way that being struck by lightning is cruel and unusual."

He said the men convicted of rape and murder in today's cases were selected to die on no particular basis.

"I simply conclude that the 8th and 14th amendments cannot tolerate the infliction of a sentence of death under legal systems that permit this unique penalty to be so wantonly and so freakishly imposed," Stewart commented.

Burger said in his dissent: "The highest judicial duty is to recognize the limits on judicial power and to permit the democratic processes to deal with matters falling outside of those limits."

He said pressure had forced the Court to go beyond those limits "while fortunately leaving some room for legislative judgment."

Burger said there was no clear-cut majority on the Court on the ultimate issue presented

TRY FOR RECORD

Six Girls Will Hop To It

Six Kentfield girls intend to attempt a world record this weekend. On one leg. Hopping and picking up rocks for more than 31 hours or more.

The girls, all 12 years old and entering seventh grade at Adaline E. Kent School in the fall, are Rowena Kaiser, Linda Fukumoto, Ann Tropnell, Kim Belshe, Liz Penick, Annie Heller.

They're not hopped up on hopscotch by any means. In fact, they say, they haven't even played hopscotch this summer.

"They got the idea browsing through the Guinness Book of Records," said Marge Kaiser of 3 Oak Knoll, Rowena's mother. "They want to raise some money for the Sacramento flood disaster victims."

And what started as a "wouldn't it be fun if ..." conversation has blossomed into a full-scale attempt on an offbeat world record.

The girls have taken a booth in the Kentfield Crafts and Open Market Fair to be held Sunday and Tuesday in the College of Marin parking lot next door to the Kentfield fire station. The organizers, the Subud Spiritual Brotherhood, have donated the space.

"Now they're looking for a sponsor," said Mrs. Kaiser, "and they're collecting pledges for each hour of hopscotch."

The girls — and their mothers — soon found that a serious attempt on a world record involves some serious paperwork. They have to arrange authentication, timekeepers and a host of supporters.

And late yesterday came bad news ... a horrifying rumor that last week some Los Angeles teen-agers already had broken that 30-hour record.

"But they're determined to break the new record whatever it is," said Mrs. Kaiser. "Even if they don't, they know they'll raise some money for chairty."

Lawmaker Immunity Is Curbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled today that the immunity of a senator or congressman from questioning by outsiders such as grand juries does not extend to matters other than immediate congressional business.

The 5 to 4 ruling means an aide of Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, must appear before a Boston grand jury investigating the leak of the Pentagon Papers.

In other major action on the final day of the 1971-72 term, the court:

Ruled that freedom of the press does not exempt newsmen from being summoned by grand juries and forced to answer questions.

Ruled that a member of Congress may be tried for conduct such as bribery even though the offense was tied to the legislative process. The action reversed a federal district court judge who threw out a bribery indictment against former Sen. Daniel Brewster, D-Md.

In the Gravel case Justice Byron R. White, speaking for the majority, ruled that Dr. Leonard S.Rodberg, a Gravel assistant must answer questions for the grand jury.

White said Gravel's arrangements to have excerpts from the secret Vietnam documents published by Beacon Press "were not part and parcel of the legislative process."

A congressman's immunity rests on the clause in the constitution which provides that " ... for any speech or debate in either House, the Senators and Representatives ... shall not be questioned in any other place."

In a discussion of the clause, White said earlier decisions have not extended it "beyond the legislative sphere."

"That senators generally perform certain acts in their official capacity as Senators does not necessarily make all such acts slative in nature," the opinion said.

In the press case, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today that the First Amendment does not exempt newsmen from the obligation to respond to a grand jury subpoena in a criminal investigation.

The opinion by White came in three test cases from Califor-

Reaction To Court Ruling Varies In Local Arena

By DAVID DIETZ

Reaction to the U.S. Supreme Court decision ranged today in Marin from jubilation on San Quentin Prison's Death Row to acquiescence and frustration on the part of law enforcement and correctional officers.

Death Row inmates were described by San Quentin information officer Joseph R. O'Brien as happy and jubilant upon hearing the news on radios, although some were still asleep.

The lives of the 102 condemned men already had been spared by a similar decision in March by the state Supreme Court, although an initiative measure to restore capital punishment had qualified for the November ballot in the state.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, cochairman of the initiative drive in Marin, said he was "distressed and fully frustrated" by the U.S. Supreme Court's vote.

He said, "This is but another example of our highest courts usurping the function of the Legislature ... I hope that I am wrong but I predict a new vista of violence in America. The five justices who voted to outlaw the death penalty (the court ruling was 5-4) must accept the responsibilitq for any bloody consequences."

San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson said the decision surprised him, adding he had believed the court would uphold capital punishment.

Nelson said he has "learned to live" with the state Supreme Court's decision and "I'm certain I can learn to live with this this."

While the U.S. court left the door open for legislatures to reinstate capital punishment in some circumstances, Nelson saw no theoretical difference between the murder of a policeman or correctional officer and the slaying of "the lowest stumblebum at Third and Howard streets in San Francisco."

In Sacramento, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said he has always been an opponent of the death penalty and views the eventual impact of the court's decision as probably minimal.

"No doubt dire consequences will be predicted ... by advocates of the death penalty," he said, "but I hope and believe that the decision will have no discernible effect."

Behr's Marin colleague in the

A FESTIVE FOURTH

A Wide Range Of 'Home' Events

Marin and Southern Sonoma residents who decide to spend the July 4th holiday at home can choose a barbecue, a parade, a fair and a fireworks display.

Marin's traditional Fourth of July celebration will be put on again by the twin cities of Corte Madera and Larkspur with the only parade in the county.

Kentfield will host a two-day fair, Sausalito will host the county's only professional fireworks display and Petaluma will hold a barbecue and hootenanny.

Ross will hold its "Grand Old Fourth" festival at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Marin County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli warns Marin residents that fireworks are prohibited under a county ordinance and even possession in the county is illegal. Only professional displays, such as the one sponsored by Sausalito, is allowed. No such ban exists in Sonoma.

The combined Larkspur-Corte Madera celebration will begin Monday at 6 p.m. with family picnics in Corte Madera Town Park.

The Corte Madera-Larkspur firemen will hold their annual water hose fight at 6:30 p.m. and the rival councilmen's horseshoe contest will follow at V p.m. There will be pipe bands highland dancers and a jazz band.

Flag-raising ceremonies in both towns at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday will precede a free pancake breakfast in the town park from 9 a.m. to noon.

The firemen's ballgame will be held at 10 a.m. at the Joe Wagner Field, Larkspur. An arts and crafts festival, music and a children's carnival will go on at the town park from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. A Little League game will be held at Wagner field from 1 to 3 p.m.

Marin's only parade, featuring dozens of marching bands, floats and drill teams, will start at 3 p.m. and wind through Larkspur and Corte Madera.

In Kentfield, the SUBUD Spiritual Brotherhood will hold a crafts and open market fair Sunday and Tuesday in the College of Marin parking lot next to Kentfield fire station. The fair will feature arts and crafts booths and entertainment and will be open from 11 a.m. to dusk each day.

In Mill Valley, a holiday celebration with music and booths will be held in Lytton Square Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In Sausalito, the only professional fireworks display in the county will be shot off a barge moored in the bay shortly after dusk.

In Marinwood, volunteer firemen will hold their annual pancake breakfast from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the community center and a watermelon feed at 4 p.m.

Petaluma will begin its day-long celebration at 11 a.m. with Mayor Helen Putnam inviting

President Announces Controls For Farm Products, Seafood

The action by executive order means prices of vegetables, fruits, eggs, fish and other agricultural commodities will be controlled when they are sold by processors, wholesalers and grocery stores.

The effect will be to squeeze the profits of grocers and middlemen by limiting price increases that can be applied to these items.

The order does not cover meat prices, which are already covered by controls below the farm level. On Monday, Nixon suspended quotas on imported meat in an attempt to increase the supply available to consumers and thereby drive down prices.

They include eggs, all fresh vegetables, all fresh or naturally dried fuits, potatoes, nuts and mushrooms. In addition, all raw seafood products are covered including those which have been "shelled, shucked, iced, skinned, scaled, eviscerated or decapitated."

The action covers about $12 billion worth of food transactions each year.

Prior to announcement of the new action, Rumsfeld called some farm state congressmen to the White House for a briefing, and representatives of about 80 food processing organizations were invited to a meeting at the Agriculture Department to discuss the policy.

In announcing the action at the White House, director Donald Rumsfeld of the Cost of Living Council said the tougher controls "cannot drive food prices down, only increased supply or reduced demand could do that, but they are designed to exert discipline on markups and margins at each step of the food marketing chain."

Together with the meat import action, Rumsfeld said, "There should be a cumulative effect which should help stabilize these volatile prices."

The food products affected by the order are those which retain their original physical form and include no processing. This covers items which show up on grocers' shelves in roughly the same form they left the farm or the fishboat.

Rumsfeld said consumers could look forward to at least two months of rising food prices before the effects of the new order begin to take hold. But he said the food industry should realize that overall costs, including labor, have been reduced by the economic stabilization program and should be in a better position to absorb the new controls.

"It is the President's goal to see that there is food in the shops at reasonably stable levels," he added.

The Cost of Living Council estimated that the food covered by the new order represents about 11 per cent of the average family's grocery budget.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Weyand Taking Over

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Frederick Weyand, who served as an intelligence officer in China in World War II, willl take command of the 134,000-man U.S. force in Southeast Asia that is fighting the Indochina war.

Weyand

President Nixon picked Weyand, 55, yesterday to succeed Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who has been nominated Army chief of staff.

Nixon announced the appointment shortly after declaring he would withdraw another 10,000 troops from South Vietnam between July 1 and Sept. 1, cutting the American force in Vietnam to 39,000.

Weyand has served as Abrams' deputy since September, 1970. The Pentagon said Abrams would stay on the job into July to help Weyand prepare to take over.

Poppies And Politics

ANKARA (UPI) — Hopes of wiping out the main source of heroin now being sold in the United States may be scuttled by Turkish politicians afraid of losing the farm vote.

One year ago Turkey agreed to ban growth and production of opium Dec. 31, 1972. The ban ended a decade of delicate negotiations between Ankara and Washington.

Yesterday, more than 100 members of the dominant Justice party bloc in parliament agreed to introduce a bill to allow continued cultivation of opium poppies, from which heroin is derived.

One factor behind the proposal to renounce the ban is the fact Turks will elect a new government shortly — just when has not been established. Political sources said they feared voters would reject any party supporting a ban on opium production.

Plan Wallace's Return

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A medical expert, surveying the governor's mansion in preparalion for the return of Gov. George C. Wallace, said yesterday he found the official residence fairly accessible to a person confined to a wheelchair.

Dr. George H. Traugh, an assistant professor of rehabilitation medicine at the University of Alabama and an expert on architectural barriers to the handicapped, inspected the mansion as evidence mounted that Wallace soon would return home.

Two top aides told television interviewers Tuesday that Wallace would be returning from a Maryland hospital "within four or five days."

Times Cited For Ad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The New York Times, which published an advertisement May 31 demanding President Nixon's impeachment, has been cited for apparent violation of a new federal campaign law.

The 1971 Federal Election Campaign Act includes a regulation requiring a newspaper publishing an ad attacking a federal candidate to obtain and publish a statement from the person who placed it saying that no other federal candidate paid for it, according to Phillip S. Hughes, Director of the Office of Federal Elections. The disclaimer was printed in the Times Wednesday's editions. A newspaper spokesman said it was inadvertently omitted May 31.

Snag At Summit

SIMLA, India (UPI) — A snag developed today in the summit talks between Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan postponing a second meeting between the two leaders.

The problem cropped up during a morning meeting of the official delegations of the two countries. A Pakistani official said the Indians wanted to discuss a package deal which would settle the border dispute in the Kashmir area and include a no-war pledge by Bhutto. He said the Pakistanis want to discuss the issues one by one.

Truman Hurt In Fall

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman was hospitalized briefly yesterday because of a fall he suffered in his home, but did not break any bones, doctors said.

Trumann, 88, underwent tests in Research Hospital in Kansas City, about 15 miles from his home, remaining less than an hour. He suffered the fall Tuesday, but was not taken to the hospital for X-rays until the next day when he began complaining about a pain in his lower back.

"All tests were negative," a hospital spokesman said. He said no further statements would be issued.

Militants Plot Blockade

BELFAST (UPI) — Militant Protestants today plotted a blockade campaign aimed at breaking the Irish Republican Army's IRA grip on barricaded "no go" Roman Catholic areas of Londonderry.

The action, planned for the weekend, threatened to shatter Northern Ireland's three-day-old peace.

The 13 commanders of the paramilitary Protestant Ulster Defense Association UDA conferred through the night over tactics for carrying out the decision announced last night in defiance of British pleas not to endanger the precarious truce.

IN SADDLE AGAIN — Governor Reagan doffed his hat yesterday as he rode in the Sierra, then announced that President Nixon has ordered a halt to plans for a trans-Sierra Highway because it would damage the environment.

A Budget Flap Stalls Recovery

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A state budget battle, coupled with what an angry Gov. Milton J. Shapp called "double talk and zero action" from federal officials, threatened today to stall Pennsylvania's recovery from its worst flood disaster.

Complaining of federal "red tape," Shapp urged the Pennsylvania legislature Wednesday night to appropriate $50 million for flood cleanup in the fiscal 1972-73 budget that must be passed before Saturday and leave him enough room to spend more.

"I'm a little fed up with this double talk and zero action I'm getting from Washington," Shapp said. "I say the hell with paperwork. We've got to get this work done."

In cities and towns across the commonwealth, residents displaced by tropical storm Agnes continued straggling to their homes to find ruin beyond their most pessimistic expectations. Some emerged from the disaster—which killed 44 Pennsylvanians and caused $1.5 billion in damage—with rearranged values.

Pound Slides, Dollar Weak

LONDON (UPI)—The British pound continued its downward slide today and the U.S. dollar remained weak on world money markets, reaching an all-time low in Tokyo. Gold prices soared again, a sure sign of world monetary crisis.

The pound dropped on the London market by another fraction to an effective devaluation of 5.4 per cent. The Hong Kong dollar is linked to the pound and Communist China entered the international monetary scene for perhaps the first time, revaluing its basic unit of currency, the renminbi, upward in relation to Hong Kong dollars.

Britain cut the pound loose from firm parity rates Friday, raising fears of a world-wide upheaval in currency exchange rates. European financial ministers met in Luxembourg Monday in an effort to avert a monetary crisis and pledged to continue their support for the dollar and the Italian lira, also weak because of Italy's poor economic situation.

The West German cabinet met in emergency session during the night and today to decide what to do about speculators cashing in huge amounts of pounds and dollars for the stronger German mark.

The pound traded at $2.4630 on the London exchange, a fall of more than two cents from Wednesday's final price. This made life cheaper for Americans visiting Britain, but cut the buying power of Britons visiting other countries.

The pound also was down 5.4 per cent in value on the Paris exchange and was off on the Tokyo market as well, trading for 711 yen.

The U.S. dollar sank to a record low on the Tokyo market, open today for the first time in four days, trading at the rate of 301.10 yen to the dollar.

Crime-Fighting Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An independent study group has proposed a national coalition of law enforcement agencies as the only means of arresting organized crime that is on the verge of destroying "American society as we have known it."

Reds Pushed Back As Key Battle Shapes Up

SAIGON (UPI)—A task force of more than 20,000 South Vietnamese troops backed by thunderous U.S. air and naval bombardments drove through North Vietnamese defenders today to within five miles of Quang Tri City in what was shaping up to be one of the key campaigns of the war.

The 20,000-man task force was joined today by 1,000 fresh troops flown in from Saigon aboard American helicopters and landed near the coast. Spearheads of the unit were reported to have advanced up to seven miles in a three-pronged offensive.

Quang Tri City fell to the Communist Spring offensive on May 1 and President Nguyen Van Thieu ordered his troops to recapture all lost territory. But whether the troops would actually enter the city or simply regain lost ground remained to be seen.

Field reports said the advancing columns have killed at least 350 North Vietnamese soldiers so far in the two-day drive and that government casualties were 15 dead, and 50 wounded. A senior Allied military source said resistance was "surprisingly light."

Communist forces in Quang Tri, estimated at remnants of four divisions battered by constant U.S. air strikes and more than 10,000 tons of bombs dropped by B52s in record raids, were estimated Wednesday at around 20,000 men.

Brig. Gen. Bui Thi Lan, commander of the South Vietnam Marine division that joined paratroopers and Black Panther commandos in the offensive, said Quang Tri City could be captured within four day if his men were ordered to do so.

Military sources said there was a dispute among Marine, paratrooper and infantry commanders over which unit would attempt to take the ruined and btackened city which has also been the target of air raids and naval bombardment since it fell.

With the South Vietnamese offensive pushing into Quang Tri there was no letup in the air war against North Vietnam. U.S. spokesmen said American planes flew 240 sorties Wednesday, much of them confined to the southern panhandle because of bad weather spawned by Typhoon Ora, now moving into China. But they did hit an air base 30 miles south of the China border.

UPI photographer Willie Vicoy, traveling with the paratroopers, said the government soldiers today freed 240 South Vietnamese men, women and children used by the North Vietnamese troops as slave laborers.

He said the civilians, many of them hungry and sick, were forced to harvest rice crops near the town of Tra Tri, seven miles southwest of Quang Tri City, for the North Vietnamese troops. He said the civilians were taken south of government lines and given medical treatment and food.

UPI Television News cameraman Tran Dai Minh, also with the paratrooper column, said two North Vietnamese battalions tried to halt the drive early today but were turned back. He said they were defeated in a battle six miles south of Quang Tri City in which 28 Communists and five paratroopers were killed.

Minh said the paratroopers had captured 13 antiaircraft guns, three howitzers and an empty Soviet-built T54 tank which was fully loaded and was found with its engine running.

The first prong of the government offensive — code named Operation Lam Son 72 after a victory over the Chinese 1,000 years ago — was a paratrooper unit moving on Quang Tri City from the southwest. Marines were moving in from the southeast and a second Marine column dropped today by U.S. Marine choppers was heading toward the provincial capital from the Northeast.

Castro Visits Soviet Manned Space Center

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba today visited the secluded home base of the Soviet manned space program with General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev of the Soviet Communist Party, the Tass news agency said.

They toured the laboratories and training centers of "Star City", in a Moscow suburb, Tass said.

PG&E Supports Telephone Cause

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas and Electric Co. here filed a "friend of the court" brief with the the California Supreme Court supporting part of Pacific Telephone's request for a rehearing.

On June 9, the high court voided a $143 million telephone company rate increase and ordered refunds made to customers.

The telephone company has petitioned for a rehearing and PG&E Wednesday backed the phone company's contention that the Supreme Court should not have annulled the entire rate increase but could have, and should have, rescinded only that portion of the increase which it found to be unlawful.

Some Arab Guerrillas To Defy Fight Halt Policy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some Arab guerrilla groups said today they would defy a reported agreement between Lebanon and the Palestinians to suspend temporarily military activities which have brought heavy Israeli retaliation against southern Lebanon.

One Syrian-based group said in Damascus its forces attacked Israeli bases in the occupied Golan Heights Monday night and killed a number of Israeli soldiers with rockets and machine-guns and damaged property.

Israel has warned officially of more land, air and sea strikes against guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon if there are more attacks, and an official Egyptian spokesman said in Cairo earlier this week Israel might annex the territory as part of its "Zionist imperialis.".

A communique was issued Wednesday night by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine General Command, the group which claimed responsibility for attacking an Israeli tour bus last week.

The Israelis responded to that raid by launching a week of air, naval and ground strikes against southern Lebanon.

Rifle Association Questions Gun Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Rifle Association said today that proposed legislation to greatly tighten gun controls would drastically increase local government costs and swamp the already overloaded judicial system.

Maxwell E. Rich, executive vice president of the NRA, told a House Judiciary subcommittee the NRA supports legislation to crack down on illegal use of weapons, but "to think that criminals would register their firearms defies logic."

Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides, giving the official administration position on gun control, joined the NRA in contending that registration and licensing of firearms should be left to state and local governments.

"In this way, the pattern of laws dealing with the subject can better accommodate the great differences that obtain among the several states," Rossides said.

"If we were to establish broad federal authority in this area, we would also create the need for a national police force for enforcement, which concept we strongly oppose."

The Senete Judiciary committee approved earlier this week a bill that would ban "Satarday night specials." The controls before the House group would be much stiffer.

Rich said state and local governments should make gun control decisions. "The general police power resides in the states and not in the federal government," Rich said.

The bill proposed by the Judiciary Committee chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., would require registration of all firearms and licensing of all gun owners.

A Big Blast At Corporate Voting

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., charged Wednesday that corporate elections in the United States are "as rigged as elections in the Soviet Union."

Metcalf said the proxies of a few key institutional investors decide such elections. Even if an opposition candidate gets on the ballot, communicating with voting stockholders in order to campaign for election is "difficult or impossible," Metcalf said. He said he would offer legislation to require corporations to make public the true identity of the proprietary owners—the voters—of significant amounts of stock.

Stolen Item 'Market' To Be Reopened

San Anselmo police still are trying to dispose of more than 1,000 items stolen from Morningside Court area homes since 1968, and recovered from an alleged burglar's home.

Chief Raymond R. Buchignani today announced that the department's "thief's market" will reopen from 9 a.m. to noon tomorrow for northern San Anselmo residents to view the loot and recover property. The display will be at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, site of the three-day display last week.

David Richard Massagli, 33, was arrested June 19, hiding in the kitchen of a house a few blocks from his home at 23 Brookside Drive. In Massagli's house, police said, they found $60,000 to $70,000 worth of loot taken during at least 50 burglaries in the Morningside Court area.

Massagli is due in Marin Municipal Court Aug. 1 for preliminary hearing on charges of burglary and obstructing an officer. He is free on bail.

Judge Takes Teacher's Ouster Case Under Study

OAKLAND (UPI) —Judge Lyle E. Cook has under submission the demand by a school teacher for the return of her job although she swore in the classroom.

Angela H. Mohr, 42, was fired by the Hayward Unified School District board which said she was unfit for service, had persistently violated rules and regulations and had engaged in unprofessional conduct.

The board found she gave cigarettes to students at La Vista Junior High School, referred to police as "pigs," swore and brought up the subject of sexual practices.

Mrs. Mohr told the court she believed such subjects were proper for discussion in schools.

Testifying for Mrs. Mohr on Tuesday, Rev. Cecil Williams of San Francisco's Glide Memorial Church said he could find no conflict between theological morality and the words the teacher used.

Meaning Of Story Cleared Up

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal altered the meaning of a statement drafted by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney intended to head off possible lawsuits in connection with an open space policy adopted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The word "recreational" was accidentially substituted for the word "representational" in the statement that any depiction or designation of private property was strictly for representational purposes and was not in any way a restriction on use of the property beyond that presently imposed by law.

In short, the supervisors wanted to reassure landowners that adoption of the policy was no threat to their property rights.

Cyclist Injured In Auto Crash

A 17-year-old motorcyclist was sent to the hospital at 5:30 p.m. yesterday after he crashed into a truck on East Blithedale Avenue, the Mill Valley police reported today.

According to police, his motorcycle crashed into a truck, driven by Beryl Lynn Beckett, 34, of 501 Murray Avenue, Petaluma, as the truck was pulling out of Meadow Avenue onto East Blithedale.

Introducing the Renault 17 Sports Coupe.

The Bosch fuel injection system takes continuous readings on variables like engine temperature, intake-manifold pressure and r.p.m.'s, and feeds the data into a 220 component electronic "brain".

The net result is a fantastically responsive gas pedal. Immediate. Unbalky. As advanced as the car it propels. If fuel injection is a better way to make an engine go, front-wheel drive is a better way to make a car go. Front-wheel drive allows our Sports Coupe to gobble up curves, ignore crosswinds, and sneer at ice and snow.

It also comes packed with these standard features: 4-on-the-floor gear box, rack-and-pinion steering, steel-belted radials, OHV hemi-head engine (0-60 in 11.9), disc brakes all around, tachometer, electric windows, molded bucket seats, carpeting, and tinted glass. We could go on.

Arrest Made For $502,000 Hijack

DETROIT (UPI) — The FBI announced today the arrest of Martin Joseph McNally, a former suburban Wyandotte service station attendant, in connection with the hijacking last week of an American Airlines jetliner that netted the hijacker $502,000.

McNally, 28, was arrested by FBI agents late Wednesday night on a Wyandotte street.

FBI agent Neil Welch said McNally would be charged later today with violation of the federal air piracy statute.

A bushy-haired young man hijacked the American Airlines plane June 22 en route from St. Louis to Tulsa, Okla., shortly after takeoff from Lambert Airport in St. Louis. The hijacker demanded and received $502,000 and two parachutes.

He bailed out over Peru, Ind., early Saturday morning.

Authorities, the pilot and the co-pilot of the hijacked plane said it would have been impossible for anyone to survive such a jump.

"The evidence would indicate the money blasted loose by the tremendous shock when he jumped from the plane," Welch said. "I thought the jump would kill him. Somehow he eluded authorities and got back to Detroit.

"I don't think we can say we know the particular mode of transportation. I don't want to say he had help, but we're investigating the possibility."

"We've been chasing him through four states, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Michigan," Welch said.

"We knew who we were looking for. The information gathered by the FBI agents in the four states has been pointing in his (McNally's) direction for several days and came together shortly before midnight."

About 200 federal agents and police have spent the past five days combing the sparcely populated, heavily wooded hill country near Peru.

McNally was described by authorities as a high school graduate and a veteran of the U. S. Navy. It was not known whether he had experience as a parachutist.

Welch saidMcNally's family was well known and is "substantial and established but not wealthy."

McNally had between $11 and $13 when he was arrested, Welch said.

COURT

"Rather than providing a final and unambiguous answer on the basic constitutional question, the collective impact of the majority's ruling is to demand an undetermined measure of change from the various state legislatures and the Congress," he said.

Burger said he believes legislatures under today's decision are free to "eliminate capital punishment for specific crimes or to carve out limited exceptions to a general abolition of the penalty, without adherence to the conceptual strictures of the 8th amendment."

"The legislatures can and should make an assessment of the deterrent influence of capital punishment, both generally and as affecting the commission of specific types of crimes.

"If legislatures come to doubt the efficacy of capital punishment, they can abolish it, either completely or on a selective basis. If new evidence persuades them that they have acted unwisely, they can reverse their field and reinstate the penalty to the extent it is thought warranted."

He said the five majority opinions today share a willingness to make "sweeping factual assertions" about the effectiveness of capital punishment in this country.

"Legislatures will have the opportunity to make a more penetrating study of these claims with the familiar and effective tools available to them as they are not to us," Burger said.

The Chief Justice said he would not try to make a "definitive statement" as to the extent of the Court's ruling but he noted that the two "pivotal" concurrences —those of Stewart and White —"turn on the assumption that the punishment of death is now meted out in a random and unpredictable manner."

On this basis, he said, "legislative bodies may seek to bring their laws into compliance with the Court's ruling by providing standards for juries and judges to follow in determining the sentence in capital cases or by more narrowly defining the crimes for which the penalty is to be imposed."

Opponents have argued that execution is a relic of barbarism and discriminates against the poor and minorities. Advocates have argued capital punishment expresses the community's "moral outrage" and deters crime.

The three test cases were brought to the court by:

—John Henry Furman, a Savannah, Ga., Negro convicted in 1968 of the fatal shooting of a householder, William J. Micke Jr., 29, who surprised him in a burglary.

—Lucious Jackson Jr., also a Savannah Negro, convicted of the rape of a doctor's wife in 1968. He was a convict who had escaped from a prison work gang. The victim was not seriously injured.

—Elmer Branch, a Vernon, Tex., black, who was convicted of raping a 65-year-old white woman in her rural home on May 9, 1967. She was not seriously injured.

According to the Citizens Against Legalized Murder, Inc., CALM of New York, 517 of the 600 persons on death rows were convicted of murder, 79 of rape and 4 of armed robbery. The racial breakdown is 247 white, 329 black and 14 others of either Mexican, Indian or Puerto Rican extraction.

nia, Kentucky and Massachusetts.

The conflict between a grand jury's subpoena power and the guarantee of a free press had never before been presented to the Court.

White said in the ruling:

"News gathering is not without its first amendment protections and grand jury investigations if instituted or conducted other than in good faith, would pose wholly different issues for resolution under the first amendment."

"Official harassment of the press undertaken not for purposes of law enforcement but to disrupt a reporter's relationship with his news sources would have no justification," he said.

"Grand juries are subject to judicial control and subpoenas to motions to quash. We do not expect courts will forget that grand juries must operate within the limits of the first amendment as well as the fifth."

One case concerned New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell, who refused to appear before a federal grand jury in San Francisco for questioning about the Black Panthers he had been covering. Federal District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli directed him to appear subject to specific conditions but the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled he did not have to appear.

Lawyers for the newsmen involved in grand jury summonses had argued that their sources would dry up and the free flow of news to the public would be curtailed if information given in confidence could not be protected.

In the Brewster case, the Supreme Court ruled 6-3 today that a member of Congress may be tried and convicted in court for conduct such as bribery even though it was tied to his legislative conduct.

Brewster had claimed that senatorial immunity applied to his case.

The constitutional clause provides that "... for any speech or debate in either house, they (Senators and Representatives) shall not be questioned in any other place."

Brewster faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in jail and a $20,000 fine if convicted on charges of soliciting and accepting a $24,500 bribe from a mail order firm to influence his vote on postal rate legislation.

Lagunitas Board To Talk Budget

The Lagunitas School District board will discuss budget priorities for the district's $542,000 proposed spending program for 1972-73 at 8 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley School.

The board will elect officers for 1972-73 and set meeting dates, according to Anna Mae Kondratieff, district secretary.

The board will meet in closed session at 7:30 p.m. to consider hiring a new teacher, she said.

Invalid, 79, Robbed By Four Thugs

Four hoodlums invaded an elderly man's home in San Rafael yesterday and robbed him as he sat helpless in his wheelchair, one of his assailants pinioning him to the chair, another holding a plastic toy gun to his head.

The men gained entrance to the home of 79-year-old Ralph D. Hoy at 1818 Fifth Avenue on the pretext of needing the television repair service he conducts there.

He told the invaders, according to police, that he had no money concealed in the house and they took his wallet containing $300. They then knocked him from his wheelchair and fled in a blue 1964 model car.

Hoy described his attackers thus: a man 18 to 24 years old, dark-haired and wearing a suede vest, another of similar description, a third of about the same age but lighter haired, and a fourth who seemed 13 or 14 years old and was wearing a maroon and white T-shirt.

state Assembly, William T. Bagley, also a San Rafael Republican, said he didn't know whetther the decision was "particularly good for society" but it is "pure historical fact that all over the world, the death penalty has eroded as a society has matured."

He believed the November ballot measure still would pass although that result would be nullified.

(Deputy Secretary of State Thomas Quinn told the Associated Press the measure would stay on the ballot unless forced off by a court ruling.

(Ken Brown, an official of the California Correctional Officers Association, said, "I have to assume this (the court decision) would make our effort on the initiative measure a meaningless one.)

Members of the Marin board of supervisors reached by the Independent-Journal were split. Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste said he agreed with the decision and looked forward to "new ways of handling criminals in this country," while colleague Louis H. Baar observed that "suddenly the great Supreme Court thinks we have been doing things wrong all these years."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said the decision didn't surprise him, although he believed the people have a right to vote on the issue.

Nelson said reclassification of condemned men was under way at San Quentin. Some inmates might remain elsewhere at the prison, he said, while others would be sent to other institutions.

The last execution at San Quentin was in 1967, when Aaron Mitchell, a Sacramento man, died in the gas chamber for killing a policeman.

Drunken Driving Case Taken To Superior Court

The president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to face a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from an early morning crash in San Rafael last month.

Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled there is enough evidence to try James Irwin Steele, 33, of 18 Leafwood Circle on the charge filed after the car he was driving went off the road, hit three small trees and a telephone pole at 1927 Fifth Avenue at 3:25 a.m. on May 7.

His wife was trapped in the heavily damaged car for more than an hour before she was freed and taken to a hospital with a fractured skull and broken pelvis.

Another couple riding with the Steele's also suffered injuries in the one-car accident.

Retired Postal Clerk Found Dead

Daughn Leehan Becker, 66, a retired postal clerk, was discovered dead at his home, 193 Marin Valley Drive, Novato, early today apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas.

Becker, who had suffered from lung cancer, died of a gunshot wound to his head at 1:18 a.m. today, Thomas reported.

Becker was a postal clerk in Minnesota. He is survived by his wife, Izola.

Two boats were stolen from their docks it was reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

L. E. Weisenburg Jr. of 29 Sorrento Way, reported that his 16-foot, two-seated boat and motor, valued at $4,000 was taken from the dock behind his house sometime Tuesday or yesterday.

Grace F. Gilliam of 260 Canal Street, Apt. 225, reported that her eight-foot boat and outboard motor, valued at $650, were taken from her dock somtime in the past two days.

Development On Ridge Approved

Wolfback Ridge may be developed as long as certain natural features are preserved, the Sausalito Planning Commission has decided.

The commission thus rejected a recommendation from the city's open space committee, a group charged with reviewing remaining undeveloped property in Sausalito and deciding which parcels should be preserved.

The committee, composed of citizens and representatives of the city council, planning commission and community appearances advisory board, had proposed the ridge be preserved as open space "if at all possible."

If development must occur in the area, the committee suggested certain features of the area remain untouched, a recommendation which the planning commission accepted.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission agreed Tuesday night that natural springs, certain ridge lines, knolls and stands of trees should be saved, whatever development occurs.

The decision, which will be forwarded to the council, would clear the way for a plan to develop 160 acres of the ridge for a single-family residential subdivision.

Owners Frank Lynch and Edward R. Fitzsimmons have been trying to develop their land for two years and their latest subdivision map is now pending before the city ouncil, which had continued the matter while awaiting the open space report and planning commission action.

The subdivision was stalled in April when the council declared a moratorium on all new subdivisions in order to give the open space committee time to decide which lands should stay undeveloped and be acquired by the city.

Condition Of Driver Serious

A San Rafael man was seriously injured at 1:15 a.m. today when his car ran into the rear of a milk tank truck on Highway 101, near St. Vincent's Hill, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Billy Mack Munns, 32, of 15 Garden Avenue, was reported in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital with head injuries, broken ribs and internal injuries.

According to the patrol, the Mustang he was driving crashed into the milk tanker driven by Wilbur R. Russell, 66, of Salinas. His car was then struck in the rear by one driven by Charles H. Emery, 39, of Las Vegas.

Humphrey Admits Mistakes, But 'I'm Still Best Man'

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says his own mistakes and a flawed selection process have helped Sen. George McGovern become the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey said in an interview that he still thinks he's the man best able to defeat President Nixon in November and said more Democrats support him than support McGovern.

He said he would campaign for McGovern if the party nominates him, although he would like to see his rival change his views on defense, taxes and welfare.

Excerpts from the interview:

Q. Can you beat Richard Nixon in November?

A. I believe that I am best capable of beating Mr. Nixon. In 1968, with almost insuperable odds against me, I came within a hair of defeating Mr. Nixon.

I also believe I can best carry the campaign against Mr. Nixon. He is vulnerable primarily on the social and economic front. It is here that I have spent much of my political life.

The highest unemployment in a decade, the highest inflation in two decades, the highest budget deficits in four decades, the highest balance of payments deficits in eight decades, and the highest interest rates in 100 years. These points have to be hammered home, and I can do it.

Q. Do you believe that Sen. McGovern or Sen. Muskie can beat Mr. Nixon?

A. I think that a Democratic party that's united can mount a campaign that can defeat Mr. Nixon. I would say, however, that Sen. McGovern is vulnerable on some of the issues that he's raised and not fully clarified. Particularly the issue of his income redistribution plan, his tax program and his massive cuts in national defense. Sen. Muskie and myself are pretty much on the same wavelength.

Q. If you were the nominee, how would you prevent a walkout or sitout of the campaign by supporters of the other nominees?

A. One of the advantages of this particular year for the Democratic nominee is that there is time to heal wounds. In 1968 our convention was over on the 30th day of August. We had no time to do the job of planning a campaign, raising the funds, healing the wounds, talking to the people who had been in controversy and competition.

In 1972 the convention will be over in mid-July. There will be lots of time to talk to governors, state chairmen, delegates, factions, to work with the political leadership old and new, to put the party back together.

But I would hope that we would be able not to have a walkout. I don't want any of the Humphrey delegates to walk out.

Q. What can you do to rally young people behind you if you're the nominee?

A. I don't believe any of these people want Richard Nixon in the White House for four more years. I will go to the young people, or anybody else, to point out a record of performance over the years, in the field of civil rights and health legislation, care of the elderly, of the children, deep dedication to public service and the public interest, and ask them to look at that record.

I will also appeal to their sense of the future. I believe that I have outlined in this campaign more programs and policies for the future than any candidate.

Q. Is it possible to stop McGovern from getting the nomination, and if so, how?

A. I realize that my tauk is much more difficult, because I do not have that number of votes, of delegate votes. But his is likewise difficult. I think we have to keep in mind how these votes were accumulated. For example, in the New York primary where Fen. McGovern received a very large number of delegates, about 12 per cent of the eligible Democratic electorate participated.

Q. But there was no opposition.

A. Now I believe it's fair to say that our selection process itself is found wanting. And not only for Sen. McGovern, but the rest of us.

Q. The thrust of your remark seems to be the large number of delegates Sen. McGovern has pledged to him doesn't represent his true support in the Democratic party. Is that true?

A. To put it in the affirmative, I believe that I have a broader base of support.

Q. You mentioned some flaw in the selection process. Is it in the process or in the way that you and Sen. Muskie and other opponents of Sen. McGovern have used the process? In other words, have you made mistakes that, had you not made them, might have made a difference?

A. Oh, yes. I'm sure of that. I commend Sen. McGovern's organization and the enthusiasm of his people. I think it's well known that it's very difficult to get people out to precinct caucuses and into primary elections.

Q. How would you end the Vietnam war and get our prisoners back?

A. The procedure is to set a date and announce that date to Hanoi, as to the time of withdrawal of all American forces, provided that within that frame of time that North Vietnam release our prisoners of war and identify the missing in action. I would seek international supervision. I would also seek a cease-fire, but I would not condition our withdrawal on a cease-fire.

Q. So actually there's no substantial difference between your position and the President's?

A. And the latest position of the President. Prior to that the President had conditioned the withdrawal of forces from Vietnam on the basis that there would be no take-over of the government of South Vietnam.

Q. Earlier you outlined an indictment of President Nixon's handling of the economy. But there are some good signs, too. The economy is expanding, millions of new jobs have been created, inflation is down to roughly half its peak, an inflation that started when you were vice president. What would you do that Nixon hasn't done to improve the economy?

A. Well, of course, the population of the country grows. You've got to create jobs. The point is that the number of jobs that were eliminated under the Nixon tight-money, high-interest-rate policy of the first couple of years of his administration.

Trouble is, inflation hasn't been curbed. The wholesale price index went up three-tenths of one per cent this last month. And all the projections are that food prices are going up again.

Q. How would you improve it?

A. By enforcement, with severe penalties for violations.

Q. Would you retain the present form of controls?

A. I think for the immediate period of time, until you get inflation pretty much under control, you ought to continue what you have, with enforcement. But as you taper off into what you call Phase 3, I would then go only to the large industries and into the areas of big capital and large work forces.

Q. What specific punishments do you favor for smoking marijuana, possession of small quantities and sale for profit?

A. I don't think that's the issue. I think the question is whether or not you want to legalize the sale of marijuana or its possession. I do not. There's no reason why we should legalize a substance around which there's so much controversy and so much uncertainty.

I would favor no criminal penalties for possession and use.

Q. On the question of abortion. Do you belive that states should prevent women from getting them?

A. First of all, I do not favor federal legislation in this area. I believe that any legislation that takes place should take place at the state level.

Q. Then your position is no different from Sen. McGovern's?

A. I think we are basically the same on that issue, yes.

Q. When, and under what specific circumstances, should the federal government allow Vietnam-era draft evaders to go unpunished?

A. There is no precedent for general amnesty. Therefore, I oppose unconditional general amnesty. I would, however, like to see those who have left this country be given the opportunity for repatriation, if they're willing to serve a couple of years, at least, in some form of needed civilian activity.

Sony introduces the 15-inch-diagonal Trinitron SONY COLOR TV

We're proud to announce a giant step backwards.

Having started with a modest 12 and 9-inch diagonal screen—having progressed to a sizeable 17—Sony now adds a fourth size.

Like every TV set Sony makes, the new KV 1510 has 100% solid-state circuitry. And an Instant "On" picture. There's also a one-button automatic color/automatic fine-tuning control.

In addition (and this is brand-new) an ingenious way to tune in UHF. The tuner homes straight in on each UHF channel with a definite click of the dial.

Most important, the picture. All we ask is that you (and your customers) look at our color picture next to anyone else's.

Days Before War, Drugs

By FRANK FARRARA

Newspaper reading was less of a strain on the nerves about a century ago before big, bold headlines about war, inflation, racial strife and drugs.

At least it was that way for those reading the Sacramento Daily Union in the summer of 1869, judging by a small collection owned by C. E. Brannon of 10 Plaza Loma, Novato.

Brannon, a 79-year-old retired instrument technician for Standard Oil Co., came upon the century-old newspapers while searching for "odds and ends" at an auction in Oakland several years ago.

The newspapers were lining the bottom of the "dog basket" that contained his purchases, he reported.

Glancing through the pages the readers learned from an advertisement that George W. Chesley and Co. had received a supply of Crowder's Bourbon Whiskey in "the first shipment by way of Panama."

L. Powers and Co. announced on page one it was offering a $250 reward for a bookkeeper 'who absconded on the night of Wednesday, May 19, 1869, with about $1,000, the safe and store keys."

He was described as about five feet, six inches tall, bowlegged, with grey eyes and short brown hair, wearing a moustache, walks slowly, an inveterate tobacco chewer. Age about 82 to 88.

Scanning the overland telegraph column, the reader learned:

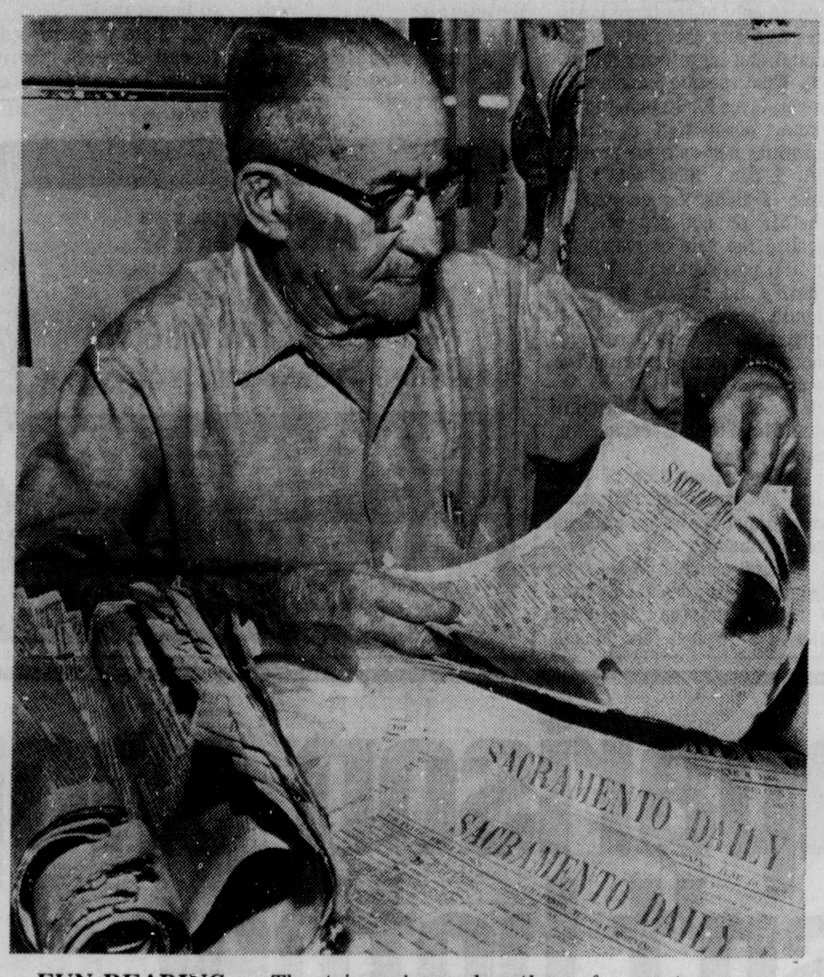
"A New York policeman was sunstruck on the battery today. He will probably die.

"Dartmouth College will give $25,000 toward erecting and furnishing an agricultural college and the state of New Hampshire will appropriate $15,000."

The short pithy headlines that caught his eye were: "A Sad Honeymoon — An Insane Bridegroom." "Gov. Scott Of South Carolina Explains Why He Is Governor." "A Child Poisoner."



FUN READING — The triumphs and pathos of a century ago are brought to life in tattered copies of the Sacramento Daily Union, property of C. E. Brannon of Novato. Brannon came upon the papers after buying articles at an Oakland auction several years ago.

A local correspondent reported from Virginia City, Nev., that "a girl living at the house of Kate Healy took three doses of poison night before last, but a physician prevented their having the desired effect."

"The celebration of the 'glorious fifth' in Elgin was attended Monday by a serious accident, which effectually broke up the festivities at an early part of the day and threw citizens into a state of consternation.

"The new iron bridge across the Fox River, which was but recently completed in place of the old one which fell last summer, gave way suddenly precipitating a large crowd of men and women into the river and involving a serious amount of damage to life and property."

Listed in the "sale" column were "the Occidental Steam Flour Mill in the town of Petaluma," "farming lands in Los Angeles County," and "Twelve pack mules."

The personal column noted "there are messages at the Western Union office for S. W. Belcher," and the wanted column sought agents for Horace Greeley's New Work "Recollections of a Busy Life."

The California Steam Navigation Co. offered riverboat rides from Sacramento to San Francisco at prices of $2.50 in cabin and $1.50 on deck.

Brannon, who has a keen interest in items of the past including an old railroad lunch bucket, a herb scale and buggy lanterns, said he had preserved the old newspapers by wrapping them in wax paper.

Pilots Warned: Watch The Holiday Drinking

Just as the California Highway Patrol alerts drivers to the dangers of holiday driving, so the Federal Aviation Administration is alerting pilots to holiday flying hazards.

"We're trying to cut down accidents," said Thoville G. Smith, accident prevention specialist with the FAA's Oakland General Aviation District office, on a visit to Gnoss Field yesterday.

With the Fourth of July holiday weekend near, Smith advised that pilots shouldn't "mix alcohol with either road or air travel," overload their aircraft or operate them in adverse weather, terrain or airport conditions.

Even one drink has a greater impact at a higher altitude than it does at ground level, Smith explained.

In hot weather, pilots should be aware that heat at higher altitudes decreases the performance of a plane.

Francis E. Torr, airport manager, who was appointed FAA accident prevention counselor at the airport, said takeoffs and landings at the field are 30 to 40 per cent higher on weekends.

Torr reported tpat Gnoss Field has two remote and one master communication station to advise pilots on local conditions.

Dating Game Flourishes

SANTA MONICA (AP) — The business card for Maurice Wooden's dating service boasts he introduces "the loveliest females to charming and competent male companions." But his clients are really all dogs.

Wooden boasts he has registered "300 studs and females", and "accomplished 75 datings" in recent weeks.

Wooden operates a canine dating service. And there is no room in his business for pet peeves.

His business card reads: "We will discover a compatible mate for your canine lover. We'll arrange a romantic holiday. Introduction of the loveliest females to charming and competent male companions. Our dignified service includes computerized and personalized canine matching."

Theft Case Moves To Superior Court

A 29-year-old Woodacre man, arrested after a Forest Knolls man followed a truck carrying his possessions to the defendant's home, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a burglary charge to appear July 12.

James Mike Booth was arrested May 24 by sheriff's deputies after William F. Wright of Linares Road reported he had seen a rug stolen from his home in the rear of a pickup truck he followed to Booth's residence.

Minority Hiring 'At All-Time High'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The number of minority groups members holding higher-paying federal jobs climbed to an all-time high in the 12 months ending last November, a Civil Service Commission report said today.

The report said blacks, Spanish-Americans and other minorities accounted for one-third of the year-long increase of 31,485 in white collar federal jobs. It said gains were reported at every grade level, except for the lowest, GS1-4.

Bus Bill Reintroduced, Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate supporters and opponents of forced busing were caught off guard late Wednesday when Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. —without advance notice — reintroduced his narrowly-defeated bill to bar federal courts from ordering busing in school desegregation cases.

However, he later withdrew the measure after a heated exchange with acting Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. Byrd angrily accused Griffin of attempting to snarl expected approval of a $9.7 billion antipoverty bill.

Byrd said that a bill vital to the orderly operation of the government —a measure extending the national debt ceiling at $450 billion beyond its expiration at midnight Friday —would not be called up until the poverty legislation was acted upon. Griffin, the assistant GOP leader, then backed down but said he would offer the anti-busing proposal again as a rider to some other bill.

Griffin's fellow law-makers were stunned when he reintroduced his busing legislation as an amendment to the antipoverty bill.

The proposal, which was killed by just three votes in February, would not only strip the federal courts of power to order busing, but would block implementation of earlier busing orders for 18 months.

Griffin said he acted in part because of his concern for Detroit, in his home state, which is threatened with massive busing between the inner city and the outlying suburbs. A federal judge will select a multidistrict busing plan for the Detroit area within 45 days.

"If we're going to be sure that the (Detroit busing) order is going to be stayed, it seems to me Congress has got to act," Girffin told reporters. "Time is running out."

Byrd, in accusing Griffin of stalling tactics involving the anti-poverty legislation, said "it has been obvious since last Friday that there has been a mini-filibuster going on against this bill. I am going to do everything in my power to break this filibuster."

The poverty bill would expand and extend through mid-1974 programs of the Office of Economic Opportunity designed to aid an estimated 46 million Americans who are classified as poor or near poor.

Delta Flood Victims See Their Homes

Disaster relief officials said yesterday it will be at least seven months before they can pump the water out of flooded Brannan and Andrus islands "if everything goes just right."

But it will be a year or more before most of the families left homeless by the freak flood can return to live on their property, officials said.

In Isleton, the only incorporated community in the flood area, disaster officials predicted they might be able to allow some residents to return to their homes within four months.

About two-thirds of Isleton is under one foot to eight feet of water, compared with flooding as much as 14 feet deep in other sections of the two inland delta islands.

But health officials have not allowed any of Isleton's 1,400 residents — even those who live above the high water mark — to return to their homes because flood waters have disabled the city's water and sewage systems.

Police were allowing residents to enter Isleton to pick up belongings or move merchandise from stores, and the town's one bank reopened yesterday to help residents straighten out financial affairs.

But in other parts of the flooded islands — where 500 homes are still under water — residents were able to reach their homes only by boat.

Nixon Takes Aim At Detroit-Area Busing

DETROIT (UPI)—President Nixon promised in a letter to Michigan Congressman William Broomfield Wednesday night his administration will "leave no stone unturned" to prevent busing in the Detroit area.

Broomfield sponsored a busing moratorium in the Higher Education Act signed into law by Nixon last Friday, but Nixon had contended that the "Broomfield Amendment" would have no effect on the Detroit busing issue.

However, in the letter hand delivered to Broomfield here by one of the Congressman's aides late Wednesday, Nixon said he had "directed the Department of Justice to make full use" of the amendment, "notwithstanding real concerns of the department as to the efficacy of that provision in the Detroit situation."

"Under the circumstances, We must leave no stone unturned and I am determined that the Executive Branch will do whatever it can to secure a stay of such a busing order affecting the greater Detroit area," Nixon said.

Nixon's letter came in response to a plea from Broomfield on Monday, when the Michigan Republican urged the President to "marshal the full authority of the administration" to stop an anticipated court-ordered busing plan involving Detroit and 52 suburbs this fall.

U.S. District Court Judge Stephen J. Roth set up a nine member panel in a June 14 ruling to begin formulating details of a desegregation program for Detroit's largely black school district. The plan is expected to include massive busing of some 800,000 children between the city and 52 predominantly white suburban districts.

Broomfield's amendment seeks to postpone all court-ordered busing until all appeal possibilities of the orders have been exhausted. The section expires at midnight Jan. 1, 1974.

Park Rangers To Wear Guns

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —California's park rangers will start carrying guns for the first time Saturday because of an increase in youthful disorder, petty theft and drug use at some parks.

Jack Smyre, the state park system's new police chief, said the decision to issue .38-caliber revolvers to some rangers was made as a "precautionary" measure to prevent the spread of urban crimes of violence to the outdoors.

Smyre said state parks now are a safe place for families to visit, and "the new program of providing arms for rangers is designed to keep the parks this way."

OPENING SOON — The paraphernalia of workmen clutters the grounds of the old Stinson School, to reopen Saturday with a new lease on life — as a recreation center for the youth of Stinson Beach. The project was the idea of the community fire chief, made possible by donated materials, money — and muscle.

RENOVATION — Two unidentified workmen, part of a cadre of volunteers, refurbish the inside of Stinson Beach's new recreation center. Lack of such facilities has been an acknowledged shortcoming in the community, the project's supporters say.

By PAT ANGLE

But the small community of Stinson Beach, plagued by increasing vandalism, petty thefts and burglaries, has another approach to the problem.

Stinson Beach is building a youth center. And its supporters hope fervently that it will provide about 30 young people better things to do than break windows, set illegal fires on the beach and generally annoy older residents.

Almost anyone who lives there will readily admit that the West Marin village's most serious shortcoming as a family community has been its lack of recreation facilities for youth.

While adults in Stinson Beach keep entertained by their community meetings and controversies over sewage treatment systems, water supplies and area planning, young residents have been left to their own devices. To date, most recreation activities have been limited to a weedy lot in the center of town, the often-crowded state beach and the pool parlor behind a local saloon.

But several months ago a former teacher teamed with a retired regional director for the Federal Bureau of Narcotics to give "the kids" a place and a means to "do their thing."

The idea for the center was that of Co.. George H. White.. As the community's fire chief, ambulance administrator and unofficial constable and juvenile officer, White — who formerly headed federal narcotics operations in the Midwest, New England and the West Coast — had usually been called to pick up or chastise youthful offenders.

After several years of first-hand experience with juvenile delinquency in Stinson Beach, White came to the conclusion that most youngsters who got into trouble did so out of sheer boredom.

He passed that thought to his neighbor, Andrea Tadlock, a retired teacher with a consuming interest in young people, and she lost no time in getting to work.

She first approached community residents for assistance in getting a center going. "Over and over people told me, 'That's a wonderful idea, Mrs. Tadlock, you go ahead and do it,' " she recalled with a laugh.

But after collecting more than $2,000 from residents, Mrs. Tadlock enlisted the support of youth and anyone else who could contribute materials, money or elbow grease to the project.

She persuaded the Bolinas-Stinson Union School District board to turn over the burned-out Stinson School, wrecked in 1970 by arson, for $10 a year rent. For the first time in its history, Stinson Beach had the makings of a youth center.

For the past several months, the energetic columnist for the Point Reyes Light headed work parties to convert the ruined school — located just north of town — into a decent recreational facility.

The transformation is nearly complete now, thanks to 540 hours of volunteer work, donations of materials from several Marin firms and the services of contractor Neil Burton, who planned and coordinated the renovation.

On Saturday, Mrs. Tadlock, jokingly known as "the godmother" and her "junior mafia" will open the center, with high hopes that the town's approximately 30 young people, aged 14 to 30, will use and enjoy their "own place."

Once it gets rolling, the young people who frequent the center will be in charge of planning its activities.

Initial recreation facilities and programs offered will include an athletic field, pool tables, games, classes (author-humorist Peg Bracken, who lives in Bolinas, has promised to teach cooking), guest lecturers and two movies a week.

The center hopes to add a tennis court in memory of the late Edward Z. Lewis, longtime Bolinas-Stinson Union School District trustee, an amphitheater and a basketball court, among other things.

Two local physicians, George and Carol Flynn, have said they will spend one night a week at the center, discussing medical problems in which center members may be interested.

"Thr possibilities and potential of the center are unlimited," Mrs. Tadlock said. "Whatever the kids want, I will try to get."

She is applying for a $10,000 grant from a foundation which funds youth recreational activities and hopes to expand the center to include a facility for the younger children.

The approximately $1,500 needed annually to operate the center will. come from fund-raising activities and an assist from the Marin County Youth Commission, which has offered to provide matching funds of up to $1,000 a year.

Youthful volunteers weilding hammers, paint brushes and putty knives in preparation for the opening also expressed enthusiasm for the center. George Laton, 24, seemed to speak for most of the volunteers when he said "kids are tired of getting in trouble with the law. We're building a place where they can have fun and keep things on the up and up."

The center's seven-man board of directors, five youths and two adults, is currently deciding on rules for the facility and has already outlawed drinking and smoking ("until we get fire insurance") on the premises.

But mostly it will be as loose an operation as possible, guided and directed by youth with adult assistance if needed.

Except for one older resident who predicts the center will be a "den of beer, pot and sex," most residents are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping it will curb the petty crime which has become a major irritant.

The crusty White, in his typical dry fashion, explained the community's purpose in building the facility. "We can't claim these little bastards are complete bastards until we've given them a little clubhouse where they can vent their energies." He chuckled and added: "If this fails, we'll throw them all in juvenile hall."

Another supporter of the center, which has come to be known as "Andy's Last Chance Club," put it another way. "At least the community can have the satisfaction of knowing it has tried to do something for its youth," she said.

South Vietnam Aide Sees Peace

CANBERRA (UPI) — South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam said today he expected peace in Indochina in "the next few months."

Lam was addressing the National Press Club after attending a ministerial meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Wednesday as an observer.

Referring to the war in South Vietnam, Lam said, "Some light seems to be appearing at the end of the tunnel. I am convinced we are going to have peace in the next few months."

But Lam said any proposals for a cease-fire would have to be based on the eight-point peace plan proposed by the South Vietnamese and U.S. governments in January.

More Fluoride In Water Sought

The question of whether Marin Municipal Water District should increase fluoridation content of its water, a topic which caused considerable controversy in Marin in 1959 and 1969, was raised again yesterday.

District directors learned that a group of county residents is circulating a petition designed to increase the amount of fluoride in the water from one-tenth of a part per million to one part per million.

Headed by Theodore A. Murray and orthodontist W. James Dawson, the group hopes to collect enough signatures to put the issue to district voters.

Signatures of 10 per cent of the district's approximately 80,000 registered voters are needed to put the matter on the ballot at a general election, while 15 per cent are needed to call a special election.

The Children's Dental Health Committee, in its statement of intent to circulate the petition, noted that water containing one part fluoride per million produces teeth three times more resistant to decay than water with one-tenth as much.

The same proposal was defeated in district elections, in June and November of 1960. The measure lost by approximately 100 votes in the first contest and by a 6,000-vote margin in the second.

Both elections were initiated by the dental health committee.

If the petitioners collect a sufficient number of signatures, the MMWD board can grant the request to increase the fluoride content or put the measure to voters.

Marin Municipal Water District Board also:

CONNECTION BAN — Scheduled for July 12 discussion of a moratorium on new connections because of possible water shortage after being roundly scolded yesterday by Joan Panek of Mill Valley who said if the board — which she accused of yielding to pressure from special interest groups — did not enact such a ban, and water rationing ensued because of less water and more development, she would suffer and her property decline in value.

BONDS — Voted to sell $7 million worth of bonds, approved by voters in November 1970 for improvements to the district water supply and distribution system to the brokerage firm of Halsey, Stuart and Co., Inc., whose high bid for interest was 5.0066 per cent.

PRINTING — Awarded the contract to print the bonds to Northern Bank Note Co. whose low bid was $790 and designated Wells Fargo Bank as the paying agent for the bonds.

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to hire these persons at these monthly salaries; Sandra M. Clayton and Fannie M. Coleman, Junior Clerks, $477; Michael Beaver, engineering aide, $723, and John A. Carrino, gardener, $649.

MEETING — Set a joint meeting with the Improvement District advisory committee and environmental advisory subcommittee for Aug. 16 in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael. A consortium of engineers hired to prepare plans for a consolidated system of waste treatment and disposal for Southeast Marin will present its preliminary plans at the session.

STUDY — Agreed to undertake a study to determine if it is feasible for the district to purchase Stinson Beach Water Co. from George P. Leonard. Community organizations in Stinson Beach, including the county water district and fire protection district boards, have asked the district to buy the system and take over its operation. At present, according to a recent study, the system is incapable of providing water needed for firefighting in that community.

BIKE PATHS — Passed a resolution requiring the district to cooperate with cities and county agencies in acquiring and developing bicycle paths. The resolution recommends the district develop such paths along distribution lines, on access roads to tanks, reservoirs and transmission lines and on other district rights-of-way that are suitable.

FORECAST — Decided against hiring a private firm, at a cost of $1,800 for a six-month period, to provide the district with long-range weather forecasts.

CREEK — Agreed to maintain the creek adjacent to the San Geronimo treatment plant in as natural a state as possible during expansion of the plant and to make the creek accessible to the public.

EMERGENCY — Agreed to provide surplus water — on an emergency basis — to Richard C. Smith of Lucas Valley whose well is failing because of low rainfall and cannot deliver sufficient water for his family and horses. Director John MacPhail dissented, saying the district board has declared that a threatened water shortage exists in the district and consequently has no surplus water to provide. Director Jack R. Felson was absent.

CONSULTANTS — Authorized the general manager to recommend a consulting firm to decide what kind of contract the district should secure to obtain water through its North Marin intertie and whether it should depend on surplus water from North Marin County Water District and Sonoma County Water District, which will supply water through the line, or to contract for a supply. The consultant, once hired, also will study alternatives proposed to increase the district's current water supply, then make recommendations to the board.

RELOCATION — Agreed to relocate pipeline to the Parkside apartments in San Anselmo with the cost of the work to be paid by the apartment owner, Ross Valley Co.

EXTENSION — Approved a pipeline extension to serve three parcels owned by Albert and Bernice Boyajian on Winding Way in Ross.

FIRELINE — Approved installation of 250 feet of fireline pipe on El Portal in Sausalito at a cost to the district of $4,045.

REPRESENTATIVES — Appointed Mill Valley City Councilman Robert E. Capron and Donald W. Davis, member of the Belvedere Sanitation Committee, to the Improvement District A advisory committee.

Record $15.3 Million Water District Budget; Hearing Set

By PAT ANGLE

A $15.3 million Marin Municipal Water District budget for 1972-73, largest in district history, was reviewed briefly and without comment by the district board yesterday.

Directors set a hearing on the fiscal program for their July 12 meeting.

The budget is approximately $5 million higher than this year's $10.4 million spending program and includes nearly $9 million in capital improvements.

Most of the income for capital work to district lines, facilities and equipment, will come from an $11.5 million bond package approved by voters in November 1970.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said the proposed budget includes district operating expenses of $4.7 million, approximately $750,000 higher than 1971-72 operating expenditures.

Expenditures proposed in the operating budget are: construction and maintenance, $984,320; engineering, $344,660; water treatment and distribution, $1,039,860; land management, $200,330; financial services, $1,187,895; administration, $292,130; property taxes, $11,000; depreciation, $752,210.

Although the district board also voted yesterday to increase water rates for its larger users by approving a flat rate structure for water, no matter how large an amount is used, Seeger said the move was designed to conserve water, not produce revenue. (Large users will be charged 30 cents per 100 cubic feet by Oct. 1, rising to 34 cents by July 1, 1973.)

The rate hike, which will not affect small users who comprise 89 per cent of district customers, will generate approximately $200,000 in revenue. Estimated revenue anticipated from water sales next year is $5.5 million.

The proposed spending program calls for nine additional employees raising the district total work force to 225 and for salary increases of $85,131. The salary increases will bring the district payroll to $1.8 million.

Seeger said the figure includes a 5 per cent raise for all employees which may be necessary during 1972-73 to bring district salaries into line with those paid by similar Bay Area agencies, a plan the board has endorsed.

Other expenses in the budget are: bond redemption and interest, $1.7 million; replacement fund, $225,000; new service installations, $98,373; fire lines, $58,000; capital work (paid for by revenues rather than bonds), $507,390; Improvement District A, $110,000; tank and storage fund, $110,000 and automotive and equipment funds, $145,060.

Among the capital items financed by revenue are the $155,000 Lagunitas booster station; relocation of pipeline in San Rafael ($130,000), and replacement of three sections of worn pipeline ($75,000).

Seeger said this is the first year the district has developed a "budget" rather than a "fiscal planning program." The main difference is that, under the budget, the district board must approve any expenditures over approved budget amounts in the various accounts. This was not true under the fiscal planning program.

Water Board President In Surprise Announcement

Robert G. Anderson Sr., president of the Marin Municipal Water District board and a district director for 24 years, announced yesterday that he will leave the board July 27, four months before his term is due to expire.

The 62-year-old Anderson said in February that he would not seek another term.

In presenting his early resignation to startled fellow directors, he said he was leaving early "to complete my retirement." He retired in January as sales manager of All-Trans Express Co., a San Francisco trucking firm he once owned but sold in 1945. He continued to work for the company after the sale.

His Division 5 seat will be filled by Ronald T. Stafford, a Sausalito physician elected to the seat on June 6 after defeating Anderson's son, Robert Jr., who also was a candidate for the post.

The veteran board member called being a director "a most rewarding and enjoyable experience in my life" in his brief letter of resignation.

Anderson had kind words for the district's staff. "We have one of the finest municipal water supply agencies in the country and this surely could not have come about without our dedicated staff," he said.

Anderson was first elected to the board in 1948 and subsequently reelected five times.

During his tenure the district constructed the Bon Tempe, Kent Lake and Nicasio reservoirs and built the Bon Tempe and San Geronimo treatment plants, the major southern and north Marin pipelines and the Corte Madera office and maintenance yard.

The director is a former Sausalito School District trustee and a past exalted ruler and 32-year member of the San Rafael Alks Lodge.

A native of Sausalito and a lifelong resident of Marin, he resides at 205 Valley Street in Sausalito. He and his wife Claudine have three grown children.

20th Anniversary As University Boss

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)— Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh observed his 20th anniversary as president of the University of Notre Dame Wednesday.

During his tenure from June 28, 1952, enrollment increased from 5,400 to 8,200, the budget from $10 million to $55 million, and the endowment from $8.5 million to $67.9 million.

Verdict Law Changes Urged

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—A gathering of the nation's attorney generals ended Wednesday with a call for states to repeal laws which require mandatory unanimous verdicts in noncapital criminal cases.

The resolution, approved by a 21-9 vote, suggested that states approve laws where "substantial majority" of a jury could convict a person if the death penalty is not involved.

The issue was the most hotly debated of 10 resolutions approved by delegates to the National Association of Attorneys General.

Others included support of a consumer protection authority for the Federal Trade Commission, creation of a committee to investigate antitrust violations in the retail gasoline industry and an expression of concern for prisoners of war.

The show opens Saturday, with doors open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the gallery, which is upstairs at 2 Millar Avenue in Mill Valley.

Time To Put Limit On Federal Debt

Article XVI, Section 1, of the California State Constitution says:

"The Legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of $300,000 . . . unitl, at a general election or at a direct primary, it shall have been submitted to the people and shall have received a majority of all the votes cast . . ."

Constitutions of all but 10 of the 50 states contain some such restriction on state indebtedness, some even tighter than that in California, some not so tight.

Twenty-four of the states require, as does California, that any state debt issue by submitted to voter referendum.

FIGURES PREPARED by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations show that as of 1970, the average per capita debt for state governments in the U. S. was $208. The highest per capita state debt was $768 in Delaware, which has no constitutional restriction on indebtedness. Next highest was $686 in Hawaii, which has a restriction full of loopholes. California's state debt was $267 per capita.

The Constitution of the United States, however, contains no restriction on how much the government can go into debt, and no provision for federal bond issues to be submitted to the people for ratification.

That is $1,230 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It is approximately six times the average debt of the state governments.

RESIDENTS OF Missouri and Iowa — assuming they bear average shares of the federal debt burden — could retire their states' entire debts with what they must pay in taxes for interest on the federal debt. Missouri's indebtedness per capita as of 1970 was $30; Iowa's, $35.

Nearly the same is true for residents of Tennessee (state debt of $45 per capita), Idaho (46), Nebraska ($50), Arizona ($51), and Arkansas ($52).

The federal debt, meanwhile, continues to rise faster and faster. The deficit this fiscal year is expected to be around $26 billion.

The federal debt ceiling set by Congress is meaningless, since it can be raised by Congress at any time. In recent years, it has been raised so routinely that it might as well not exist at all.

EVERY DOLLAR that the citizen is taxed to pay interest on the federal debt adds to inflation.

The United States Constitution has been amended 26 times since its adoption in 1788, indicating that the founding fathers, despite their astonishing foresight, overlooked a few things.

One thing they overlooked was putting a limit on the federal debt.

It's time that was done.

"Goodbye, sweetheart!"

County Superintendents Superfluous But Powerful

By EARL G. WATERS

The state constitution,nt Article 9, Section 3, provides: "A superintendent of schools for each county shall be elected. . . ."

In the early period of California, the schools were administered by a teacher or a principal who usually had teaching duties. The function of the county superintendent was to coordinate the public education program within the county and to maintain standards.

With the growth of the state and the enlargement and unification of school districts, there came into being the district superintendent. Gradually the original and basic functions of the county superintendent became largely superfluous. While some new and added duties have been assigned to him over the interceding years, the educational program would be just as well off if most, if not all, of these were performed by the districts or the state or not at all.

TWO STUDIES conducted by impartial bodies reviewed the role of the county superintendent. One was by the office of Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post. The second was by a blue ribbon commission appointed by Governor Reagan. Both groups concluded the county superintendent job to be archaic and no longer serving a useful purpose.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cordy, D-Anaheim, and Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, both sponsored efforts to follow through on the recommendations of the two reports.

Cory proposed eliminating the county superintendents and replacing any of their indispensable functions with regional offices to serve as intermediary agencies between the districts and the state. He has made several runs at the problem. This session his bill made more progress than usual. It passed one committee but was defeated in ways and means.

Green sought to solve the problem with a constitutional amendment. This would have wiped out the county superintendents and made it optional for the Legislature to establish intermediate agencies if and where necessary. His measure made progress after he accepted amendments omitting charter counties from the bill. It was defeated on the floor of the Assembly.

THERE ARE 11 charter counties in the state. Excepting for Tehama, Butte and Orange, they are the most populous counties. The irony of the amendment is that if there is a shred of evidence of need for any county superintendents despite the findings of the studies, these would be the ones least in need.

But the muscle brought to bear by the county superintendents and their employees, who eat up more than $100 million a year of educational money that could be much better spent according to the reports, is great.

As Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, has learned in his valiant effort to eliminate the multitude of costly and unnecessary special district governments, such reforms are not likely to be achieved unless a strong governor like Ronald Reagan launches a vigorous campaign to get the job done.

It is possible in the case of the county superintendents that actions of the Supreme Court will eventually dispose of the issue. For the ramifications of the Serrano case, decreeing a new system of financing the public schools, may ultimately make the state responsible for all compulsory education. When that happens the county superintendents will be even more superfluous than they are now.

"The way things are in the city, I said to myself, 'Why not?' So I moved out here to the suburbs myself."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The increasing decadence of our theater, our films and the fiction we read is a matter of particular concern. All have deteriorated to such a degree that families are ashamed to share them together. They become more degrading as time passes, while producers and writers continue to justify what they are doing by saying that they are merely satisfying the public demand, failing to recognize that they themselves whet the public appetite by salacious advertising and by creating works which trespass on our community standards of frankness in the relations of the sexes. — Earl Warren.

Corte Madera Fortunate With City Councilmen

I find it very distressing to read of the abuse heaped on our Mayor and Councilmen Colthurst and Wagstaff in the recent zoning controversy. Surely, their stand was confirmed by a court decision as having been the proper one and it would seem the malcontents should abide by same, rather than start wild actions toward recall.

The town of Corte Madera is, and has been, most fortunate to have men of such high integrity and unselfishness serving its citizens over the years, bearing in mind, that most of these years of service were without monetary compensation.

McGovern's Platform Abandons Promises

I have just listened, on a national TV network, to the new, revised "non-platform" of Sen. George McGovern, who seemingly has the nomination for President sewed up at the forthcoming Democratic convention.

Everything Senator McGovern has proposed during his campaign has been shunted aside by his platform committee.

His $1,000 for every man, woman and child has been scrubbed, but nothing has been substituted. His pronounced views on abortion, homosexuality and amnesty for draft dodgers has been set aside, with nothing offered in its place.

This man, and/or his committee, wants the American people to hand him a blank check to do with as he pleases.

I urge all Americans to read this new "non-platform" very carefully.

Reader Offers Course In Constitutional Law

Your editorial writer (June 27) should be given a refresher course in constitutional law. He has puffed up and come forth with a wondrous doctrine indeed. Even though a law is unconstitutional, and he agrees that it is, it should be used to punish an act which is not forbidden except by the law in question. Presumably, he would have the court inform the defendant that the defendant's conduct had broken no law, but if there had been a law against such conduct he would have broken it so he will be sentenced anyway. To quote your editorial, "this is a departure from common sense."

If you wish to be taken seriously by anyone except half-wits in your attacks on the judicial system, I suggest you relegate the writer in question to some job where thinking is not required.

If you manage to find a writer with some intelligence, perhaps he can address himself to the more salient issue of why the burning of a piece of cloth should be considered a crime in the first place. What interest can the government possibly have in such an occurrence? The only one I can see is smog abatement.

Government Control Of Land Use Difficult

The article "Sonoma ABAG Pullout Illegal" (pg. 12, June 21) and Paul Peterzell's editorial, "Land Developers Eager for Sonoma to Quit ABAG" (June 26) points out problems in land usage, utilization of natural resources, and the effect of planning.

These articles also indicate the effort that is exerted to permit some groups to operate without significant governmental control.

I was the AAG spokesman appearing before the Council of Intergovernmental Relations on June 14 at what appeared to be an unsuccessful effort to retain Sonoma County in the Bay Area for planning purposes. Fortunately, improper usage of California law frustrated what could have caused great future damage to Sonoma County and Bay Area problems.

It is remarkable that a group of Corte Madera people were preparing a petition of recall against me because I allegedly "supported developers. . ." . . ."has not acted. . . to preserve open space. . ." etc., just about the time I testified before the CIR on the detrimental effect that withdrawal of Sonoma County would have, not only on the future of Sonoma, but also upon significant portions of the Bay Area planning region.

The inconsistencies between my actual actions, as evidenced by my appearing as the ABAG spokesman, and the ill considered claims as stated in the recall petition should be apparent to Corte Maderans.

Availability Of Guns Responsible For Deaths

Re: Letter in June 26 issue of the I-J from Mr. R. Frankoni in which he states that enforcement of existing gun laws rather than additional restrictive laws are needed:

Mr. Frankoni states that "full execution of current laws" is ". . . . . the answer to the criminal use of guns." I suggest that Mr. Frankoni as well as certain of our legislators acquaint themselves with some of the particulars which attend the criminal use of guns in the United States.

Death by firearm occurs in one of three situations: accidental discharge of weapon, suicide, or homicide. Annual fatalities in each of these categories is approximately 2,500 lives, 10,500 and 7,800 respectively. The greatest percentage of these lives could be saved by severely restricting possession of guns. Mr. Frankoni must know that no amount of enforcement of existing laws will eliminate or reduce substantially the victims of suicide or accidental death by firearm.

As to the number of homicides, most of them interestingly enough are not committed by known criminals but by individuals without a previous criminal record. . .

The convenient availability of these weapons enables them to commit murder or suicide. Were the gun not available most of these heretofore law abiding citizens would get over their anger or despondency. . .

Simply put, the question is, would the prohibition or severe restriction of gun possession be too great a burden on all of us in order to save the greater percentage of the 20,000 law-abiding United States citizens who die each year at the muzzle of a gun?

Vietnam War May Yet Become Major November Election Issue

WASHINGTON — By way of Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon, South Vietnam's President Ngyen Van Thieu sent a warning the other day that the decision makers here can hardly ignore. Thieu said that the chance of a new North Vietnamese offensive in October could not be written off.

Coming at the climax of the presidential campaign, it could make the Vietnam war a principal issue. It would shatter the comfortable conviction of Republican strategists that, with Vietnamization and the effectiveness of surgical, push-button bombing,the war can be ruled out of the campaign.

HAVING BEEN DERIDED as a one-issue candidate George McGovern could in the event of a new offensive from the north challenge the President's claim to end the war and bring peace to Indochina. Under the circumstances, with the cost of the air and naval war escalating in new billions of dollars, this could be a vital issue once again.

Every effort will be made by the Nixon administration to see that this does not happen. With a flurry of rumors coinciding with Henry Kissinger's latest visit to Peking, the goal is a negotiated settlement, or as a minimum before November a cease-fire and an exchange of prisoners.

But those who should know within the government here see nothing in progress looking to serious negotiation. Recent remarks by China's Premier Chou En-lai indicate his belief that the war will go on and surely be a factor in the American election. He was reported as asking visiting Americans about McGovern's chances in November.

DESPITE THE MINING of the harbors and the bombing of rail lines close to the Chinese border, China and the Soviet Union have it in their power to fuel a new offensive. For the current offensive the Russians supplied advanced weapons, including the Strela missile. The Russians have, however, withheld certain far-out rarities in their arsenal.

One is the mysterious Styx surface-to-surface missile, with a reported range of at least 14 miles. Weaponeers in the Pentagon know little about the Styx other than its reputed immense destructive power. They would give a lot to get their hands on a Styx so it could be broken down and analyzed. That may be one reason the Russians have kept it out of Vietnam.

The administration drive, coupled with the ingenuity and the diplomatic finesse of Kissinger, cannot be dismissed in keeping the war off the political state. The scenario for next month offers some extremely interesting possibilities.

The Democrats will be meeting in Miami Beach and their platform is likely to put the war high up on the issue list. Former Secy. of Defense Clark M. Clifford, testifying before the Democratic platform committee, said it would be the "cardinal issue." The President and Kissinger will be in San Clemente, and taking the headlines away from Miami Beach will have priority. What better way than to announce a new step toward a negotiated settlement of the war?

AS A PAWN in the presidential campaign, the Vietnam War blacks out the horrors of the past three months — the dead, the maimed, the starving, those horribly burned with napalm, the thousands of new refugees herded into hastily improvised camps. These are Vietnamese, added victims of the surgical war that has ravaged not less than one-third of the entire population of Vietnam.

The conscience of America may be so numbed by years of this unending war that these nameless victims, these small yellow people who stand defenseless under the rain of bombs from the B-52s, can no longer stir any chord of compassion or indignation. And yet who can ever forget that news photo of children fleeing with terror and pain on their faces from the napalm attack that, by a mistake on the part of South Vietnamese pilots, fell on a civilian refugee center? We supply the napalm. We supply the planes. We pay the pilots. The accidents of war, yes, but will anyone be able to tell that girl of 11 or 12 who had ripped off her clothes in her agony why it happened?

The President has always had the option of hardening American opinion behind a "support your President in a war" majority. That is apparently what is happening. But if the American conscience, the last best hope of earth, is a casualty, then the price is very high.

One of the benisons of moving from a big city to the hinterlands is that you rediscover the beauty of the sky.

(The sky, for the benefit of those urbuanites who rarely if ever can see it through the smog, is that part of the upper atmosphere which you see, or at least ought to be able to see, when you look up.)

PEOPLE WHO LIVE in town-and-country America can enjoy often the dazzling spectacle of a blue canopy specked out with puffs or streaks of white cloud.

The precise shade of blue varies with the season, the time of day, and the weather. The poets' favorite word for the sky's color is "azure." I doubt if any technical term from the lexicon of artificial pigmentation can do justice to the reality, so I prefer the old, question-begging description, "sky-blue."

It's a blue unlike any other blue, and you can stare at it for an hour and still be enchanted by it.

A solid blue sky is lovely enough. But its beauty is vastly enhanced by the kind of color contrast provided on a summer afternoon by puffy banks of white cumulus clouds.

Even more striking —and this fact demonstrates that man's touch is not always and necessarily vile —are the white streaks which high-flying jet planes create with their r contrails. They are like chalkmarks on a blue-board, and the speed with which they dissipate into wavy uncertainty is part of their special charm.

SCIENTISTS SAY the blue our vision seems to perceive in the sky is a function of the vast depth of the upper atmosphere (when it is not blacked out by low-hovering smog). This explanation, while doubtless correct, leaves me wondering why anybody feels impelled to explain rather than simply enjoy a blue sky.

In the same vein, clouds can be defined as bodies of very fine droplets of water or particles of ice dispersed in the atmosphere at altitudes ranging from a few hundred feet to several miles. But who in his right mind wants to define a cloud? The only decent thing to do with a cloud is look at it and try to think who or what it resembles.

This paean has been concerned thus far with the sky by day. The night sky sometimes is even lovelier. If there is a full or half moon, it is irradiated with soft white light which hides any ugliness that may mar the landscape as effectively as a blanket of snow in winter. Moonlight, when very bright, causes trees and shrubs to cast a pale shadow. Usually it just turns them into silhouettes against the sky.

WHEN THERE IS little or no moon, stars bedeck the dark blue bowl of the heavenly hemisphere, sparkling like tiny diamonds set in a gigantic sapphire. Some people derive pleasure from identifying the various planets, stars and constellations. I admire but do not envy their expertise. My own familiarity with the names of the stars has long since atrophied to the point where I can speak confidently only of Orion, the Big Dipper and the North Star.

But ignorance, fortunately, is no barrier to the delights of star-gazing. To look intently at a tiny spot of twinkling light and realize that it is a sun, perhaps the center of a solar system similar to ours billions of light years away, is to reexperience the feelings of the ancient Hebrew poet who said:

"When I look up at Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers,

"The moon and the stars set in their place by Thee,

"What is man that Thou shouldst remember him,

"Mortal man that Thou shouldst care for him?"

How To Halt Loose Spending: Count Out Money In Cash

WASHINGTON — My friend Duncan is worried. "There is too much loose talk in this country lately about billions of dollars," he said. "Not very long ago, we talked about millions of dollars, but all of a sudden we lapsed into billions. No self-respecting politician now will ever mention a million when a billion will do."

"I guess," I told Duncan, "for the average person it doesn't make much difference. He's never seen a million dollars, and he's never seen a billion. As far as he's concerned they're interchangeable."

"THAT'S JUST the point, no one has ever seen a billion dollars," Duncan said. "Not one of the men who has ever asked for a billion knows what it looks like. He rolls it off his tongue like he's talking about a dozen eggs. Until the people in power know what a billion dollars is, they will never stop playing with the taxpayers' money."

"But what's the solution?" I asked.

"I believe a law should be passed that says anyone in the government who asks for money for a project that costs over a billion dollars must personally count it by hand."

"You're out of your mind, Duncan."

"FOR EXAMPLE," he said, "suppose Sec. of Defense Melvin Laird says he wants $10 billion for 10 new Trident submarines. Good. We tell him he can have it, but he must take it in cash. Laird must go to a bank with a chit from Congress and present it to the cashier. The cashier will hand it over in tens and twenties, and he will be required by law to make sure it is the correct amount.

"After Laird finishes counting it, the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have to count it to make sure he didn't make a mistake. If Laird made a mistake he would have to count it all over again."

"He'd have his work cut out for him," I said.

"IF A CONGRESSMAN asks for a billion dollars for an appropriations bill, he would be required to count the money before proposing the bill," Duncan said.

"The money would be set aside in a vault on Capitol Hill and after the bill was passed, each person who voted for it would have to count it. That means if 340 congressmen voted 'yea,' the money would have to be counted 340 times. If a congressmen refused to count it, his vote would be considered invalid."

"That would be a lot of work during an election year," he said. "Tell me, would you ask the President of the United States to count out the billions he requests in his budget?"

"Of course not," Duncan said. "The President's much too busy with other things. I think his wife and family should be required to count it for him."

"His wife and family?"

"YES. WHENEVER the President figures out how much money he will need to run the country, Brink's trucks would bring it over to the White House in sacks and the President's wife and family could start counting in the upstairs quarters.

"I believe if a President saw his wife wearing green eye shades, sitting on the floor of the Lincoln bedroom counting billions of dollars, it would have a very sobering effect on him."

"Duncan, you have proposed a very radical solution, but I must admit it does have merit."

"I think," he said, "that once we start giving out our appropriations in cash instead of checks, a new era of fiscal responsibility will be upon us. All we have to say to the people in charge is, 'If you want the money — count it.' And you'll see how fast all this loose talk about billions comes to a halt."

12 Students Complete Pilot Reading Program

Twelve out of 20 students have completed successfully a performance contract in the Sausalito School District and advanced one year in reading skills during the past school year.

The results of the contract with Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto, a pilot program in the district, were announced to the district board Monday.

Twenty students —10 from lower grades, 10 from upper grades — enrolled in the program in September. The laboratories supplied materials and provided teacher training in use of the materials.

At a cost of $100 per student, the firm then guaranteed the students would advance one year in their ability to read. The money was to be paid only for those who made the necessary progress.

Trustee Betty Times said six students had not achieved a one-year advancement and two broke the contract because of excessive absences.

She said the board voted to pay the laboratories $1,300, including payment of $50 apiece for the two who defaulted on the contract.

The Sausalito School District board also:

OUTDOORS — Approved a contract with the Marin County Schools Office for a one-week outdoor education program for sixth-graders next year.

PAYMENT — Voted to pay six teachers working on the central Stull Bill committee $200 apiece for their services this summer. The committee is making plans to implement the bill, which requires annual evaluation of teacher and student performances, formulation of district goals and job descriptions for the employees.

New Revisions May Trim Mill Valley Tax

The Fluctuating tax rate in Mill Valley has taken a few more bounces at the city council received revised 1972-73 budget figures from City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Working with new figures at the budget hearing Tuesday night, Cunningham estimated that the new tax rate could be dropped by 12 cents, from $2.88 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.76.

His revised estimates took into consideration previously uncalculated expenses and a recently discovered 9 per cent increase in assessed valuation in the community.

Mayor Jean S. Barnard told the Independent-Journal she favors a tax rate even lower than Cunningham's estimate — down to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation for the city's $2.3 million tentative budget.

Cunningham's new figures were based on information received from the county assessor's office. He originally planned his budget based on an assessed valuation of $47 million. That figure now has been increased to $50.4 million.

The increased revenue raised from the higher property value will be partially offset, however, by an additional expenditure of $100,000 for employees' retirement benefits. The $100,000 expense wasn't included in the original budget Cunningham said.

In fact, the entire budget will undergo substantial revision following completion of contract negotiations with employees.

The council, although receiving the revised figures, took no formal action Tuesday to change the tax rate.

After reviewing the accounts of seven departments, the council wound up adding about $22,000 to the projected budget.

The biggest increase went to the streets account, which was swelled by about $15,000 for additional roadwork.

The city's sewer infiltration project also came in for a windfall. Cunningham told the council he had discovered about $80,000 in funds in the city's sanitary account which could be applied to several sewer infiltration projects.

The $80,000, Cunningham said, had accumulated in part due to an influx in sewer fees last year and last year's city employee strike, which saved the city one month's payroll.

The council asked the public works department to prepare a list of projects on which the discovered money could be spent.

The council also boosted the corporation yard account by more than $8,000, to $24,000, by hiring an additional mechanic.

It then cut $3,300 from the city's equipment replacement fund that had been allocated to replace the city manager's automobile in a few years.

After adding $500 to the finance department budget, the council tabled nondepartmental and retirement accounts pending the outcome of contract negotiations.

Sierra Club Suit Forces Halt To Timber-Cutting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further timber cutting in undeveloped national forest areas will be halted briefly next month under a temporary restraining order issued yesterday by U.S. District Court here.

The order, by Judge William B. Jones, prevents the U.S. Forest Service from entering into new timber contracts in such areas for 10 days beginning July 1.

Forest Service officials said yesterday the order stemmed from a lawsuit filed last Friday by the Sierra Club and other environmentalist groups.

The Sierra group objected to a Forest Service plan under way for more than a year to study roadless forest areas with the intention of setting aside some of the land to preserve its natural state.

Under the plan, areas judged not suited for wilderness designation then would be available for development, including road building, logging and public use.

The Sierra lawsuit contends, among other points, that not enough time and study has been allowed by the Forest Service in its review of roadless forest area.

An official proposal for setting aside wilderness areas is scheduled to be made by the Forest Service by the end of this year.

J. W. Deinema, an associate deputy chief in the Agriculture Department agency, said the plan is aimed at preserving suitable wild areas until Congress has had an opportunity to designate them officially.

Override Try Fails On Funds For Deaf

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Democrats and Republican defectors narrowly failed Wednesday night to override Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of $700,000 to establish a new school for multiply-handicapped deaf children.

Democrats insisted during emotion-charged debate that the issue wasn't "partisan" and that there was no place for children whose mothers suffered German measles during pregnancy to go for special education.

One Republican, Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia, charged the override attempt was a "Democratic ploy to bring something sensitive forward to cause the governor to look bad."

After a long roll call which spanned two hours, the override was defeated 25-14, two votes short of the 27 necessary for approval. Four Republicans, including Sen. Peter H. Behr of San Rafael, joined all 21 Senate Democrats in voting to reverse Reagan.

No veto has been successfully overridden by the full legislature since 1946 when Earl Warren was governor.

The override effort was aimed at restoring funds cut from the $7.4 billion state budget to establish a Northern California school for multiply-handicapped youngsters at Mendocino State Hospital, which is being shut down this year.

Reagan blue-penciled the sum on grounds that a study is currently under way at the Berkeley School for the Deaf and any changes should be "considered on a long-range basis."

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, a veteran legislator who is retiring, charged Reagan was "misinformed and misled" when he struck the funds and said there were 8,000 California children who in addition to being deaf have other handicaps such as brain damage and blindness.

Teale, an osteopath, said most are victims of the rubella epidemic which swept California several years ago and could be "salvaged" if they received special education before reaching age 8. He said the Mendocino hospital could handle 50.

The $700,000 appropriation was inserted into the budget by a two-house conference committee of legislators which wrote the final state spending program behind closed doors.

Marathon Bicycle Ride Nets $1,500

Youth Against Cancer's marathon bike ride last month drew 50 participants and brought in a total of $1,500 for the American Cancer Society, according to a spokesman for the society.

Eileen Hotchner, chairman of YAC, will present a check for that amount on July 10 to the Marin County unit of the American Cancer Society.

Pesticide Safety Bill Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has narrowly approved a bill requiring agriculture and health officials to regulate safety standards for pesticides that can be poisonous to farm workers.

The measure by Assemblyman Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, was sent to the Finance Committee Wednesday on a 7-4 vote, the bare minimum necessary, by the Health Committee.

The bill has already been passed by the Assembly.

The proposal is an attempt to resolve a long-standing jurisdictional feud between the state agriculture and health departments. Similar measures have been killed in past years.

But the bill met stiff opposition from a spokesman for the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee who called it a "growers trick to circumvent meaningful pesticide control."

The bill gives the Agriculture Department the final authority to set regulations and enforce them. But it requires that the Public Health Department help in writing the regulations and enter the investigation if the public health is endangered by use of pesticides.

GOP Leaders Back School Tax Shift

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Senate Republicans stood behind a compromise $1.2 billion property tax shift-school finance plan today but top Senate Democrats shied away from the proposal.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, the influential chairman of the Finance Committee, said, "I told Moretti I don't see any way of doing it.

"In the face of a $450 million plus (budget) surplus, how do you come out and ask for more taxes," Collier told newsmen.

Moretti, D-Van Nuys, accompanied by Reagan administration officials, made an unusual personal presentation of the compromise measure to a closed-door meeting Wednesday of the entire Senate—Republicans and Democrats alike.

Senate GOP leader Fred Marler Jr. of Redding said the proposal was a "worthy" compromise acceptable to most Republican senators.

He said the proposed income tax increase in the plan would fall "quite heavily" on lower income persons. He added that it contained no provisions for closing tax loopholes, such as the oil depletion allowance or requiring a minimum tax on wealthy persons.

Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, Democratic floor leader, said he was taking a "wait and see" position on the plan pending completion of his staff's analysis of it.

Complete details of the proposal have not been disclosed but Moretti said Wednesday it would provide $715 million in property tax relief and some tax breaks for renters.

About $530 million in "new" money would go to public schools, including a so-called "urban factor" to help out big city schools.

The Moretti-Reagan proposal would also raise state income taxes, the 5 per cent sales tax and bank and corporation taxes.

In rival tax shift plans introduced earlier this year, both Reagan and Moretti recommended increasing the sales tax from five cents on the dollar to six cents and bank and corporation levies by 1.4 per cent.

Moretti denied that the compromise measure constituted a tax increase.

Bill Killed On Heroin Smuggling

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Ways and Means committee has rejected a bill designed to encourage foreign countries, such as Mexico, to crack down on heroin smuggling into Califgrnia.

The measure by Assemblyman John Briggs, R-Fullerton, was defeated Wednesday on a 6-8 vote despite a plea by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco.

"For once," Burton told his colleagues, "We've got a chance to do something about the drug problem. A vote against this bill would be in favor of increased importation of heroin."

The bill would have required posting of warning signs in stores handling products from countries determined by the state Department of Justice to be ones that produce, process or supply heroin for use in California. The signs would state that such products were being handled by the store.

SPARS: One Woman Who Thinks It's A Good Thing

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

At age 51, just two years away from retirement, she believes the service offers security and excellent retirement benefits, and young women now beginning careers will be able to advance in rank as high as their qualifications allow.

On active duty as a yeoman first class, Mrs. Wells does secretarial work in San Francisco in the office of the Regional Emergency Transportation Representative, which is under the commander, U.S. Coast Guard western area.

"There are only 28 women on active duty in the SPARS throughout all 50 states now," she said, "and they are yeomen, storekeepers or hospital corpsmen, but the SPARS are the only women in U.S. armed forces at present with reserves."

Hellen Wells enlisted in the service in 1943 and received training at the United States Naval Training Station at Hunter College in New York City. She was then stationed as part of the permanent staff for the training station for SPARS, established durieg World War II in the Biltmore Hotel in West Palm Beach, Fla.

During World War II she met her husband, Howard Wells, who was a Coast Guardsman, and they have lived in Mill Valley since 1946. During a 10-year break in service she worked five years for the late Mill Valley jeweler Manuel Gomez and then did office work five years in San Francisco. She returned to active duty in the SPARS in 1957.

In the future, Hellen Wells will be increasingly occupied in the work of the Rebekah Lodge, since she was recently elected district deputy president of District 61. In this capacity she is a deputy under the president of the Rebekah Assembly of California and will be in charge of supervising five Rebekah lodges, Mill Valley's Blythedale 305, of which she has been a member since 1950, Tamal and Golden Star of San Rafael, and the Petaluma and Sebastopol lodges.

With a staff of 25 to 35 persons, her main job will be installation of officers and conducting schools of instruction.

Her association with the loge began when she was a charter member and president of the Delta Theta Rho Girls Club No. 4, the junior Rebekah group, from 1934 to 1940 in Hood River, Ore., where she was born and graduated from high school.

Hellen Wells also is a member of the Fleet Reserve Association, Mount Tamalpais Branch 254 in San Rafael. Hobbies are gardening and keeping a history of the Coast Guard SPARS. She is national coordinator for the 30th SPAR reunion to be held in San Francisco in October this year.

Never Let A Picture Slip Past

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you are being married soon, chances are you've hired a professional photographer who has the experience, skill and other gifts needed to get the best photographic coverage of your wedding.

But if, in addition, a friend offers to take an informal picture story of the occasion, Mark Malstaff has just one word for you: "accept."

The youth also aspires to a career as a professional photographer.

"There never was a bride who got too many photographs at her wedding," said the Hoosier who photographs "at least 15 weddings a year" to help pay his college expenses. "Photography records the present which all too soon becomes the past."

"It is more than a science. It is a form of art and communication."

Malstaff said when accepting such offers of an informal record of pictures taken by friends and relatives, you advise them about what photos you will most appreciate.

"A bride knows the photographs the professional is taking," he said. "She definitely should ask the amateur to stay out of this working man or woman's way and not interfere or try to compete.

Other tips from this young photographer:

—If your professional photographer's coverage will be extensive, you may wish the amateur to concentrate on supplemental photographs of specific wedding guests. Probably you will have certain situations in which you would like them photographed—the best man dancing with the maid of honor, your grandfather throwing rice, or your little sister admiring your wedding ring.

—If you do not expect the professional photographer's coverage to be broad, you will want the amateur to photograph some of the important traditional wedding scenes, such as the receiving line, you and the bridegroom cutting the cake and both of you waving goodbye from your honeymoon car.

Malstaff's final advice: ask the amateur photographer to be "candid" but kind. His photographs will be examined, treasured, passed about now and in years to come. If the photographer does his best, he and his pictures both will have a special place in everyone's memories.

Los Angeles Witch Prefers A Jet To The Traditional Flying Broom

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Louise Huebner is the only witch I ever met who travels on a jet instead of a broom.

Come to think of it, Mrs. Huebner is the only witch I ever met outside of Hallowe'en masquerades. But there she was the othar day in New York, billing herself as the happy medium and official witch of Los Angeles County, mistress of the occult and also mistress of a household that includes a husband and three children.

"You're kidding me," I said. "You're kidding yourself about witchcraft."

She laughed and said, "Well, I'm not uptight."

Mrs. Huebner said there are lots of forms of witchcraft in resurgence today. She mentioned the Satanic ("sick and perverted") and the Druid (based on religion of the ancient gods and goddesses.)

Mrs. Huebner doesn't use her alleged supernatural powers for anti-social or evil purposes. She calls herself "the good witch of the West." She lives in Los Angeles.

"I work by triggering the subconscious," she said. "To cast a spell, you have to be emotionally involved...psyched up."

She became the Los Angeles County "official witch" because when the city and county were having an anniversary in 1968, they staged a series of events in the Hollywood Bowl. One was Folklore Night and she was asked to "cast the world's largest spell."

"Why not make me the official witch?" she asked. So she received a certificate affixed with the County Seal and signed by the chairman of the board of county supervisors, Ernest E. Debs.

MRS. HUEBNER said she chose to cast a spell for increased sexual vitality in the county and had 11,000 people chanting — "jumping up and down, anything to make them feel alive."

LOUISE HUEBNER
Good witch of the West

But when she began to flaunt her title on record albums, book jackets (one of her books is "Never Strike a Happy Medium"), and in interviews, she said Debs "grew nervous" and had the county attorney request that she relinquish the title.

Mrs. Huebner retaliated with a news conference in which she threatened to "de-sex" the 77 cities in the county, beginning with Debs himself. The matter was dropped, she said.

I met Mrs. Huebner when she came to New York for the annual book and stationery show. She'd done nine minibooks for Hallmark's Springbook line, with such titles as "In the Palm of Your Hand" and "Your future, It's in the Cards."

She said her psychic powers were inherited. Her grandmother, born in Yugoslavia, had them. So did her mother and an uncle.

In high school, Mrs. Huebner began to entertain at school parties, reading palms, cards and horoscopes. This carried over to college, then to women's club groups, businessmen's organizations. Soon, she turned pro and did radio and television shows in Los Angeles.

SHE WILL start another radio show in the Los Angeles area in the fall and continue with her lectures before college audiences, talking of witchcraft, astrology, numerology, telepathy, and making predictions.

Her husband, Mentor, is production designer for films "so he understands my career," she said. "And this will help to send the kids through college." Her three children are a 17-year-old and twins, 10.

Mrs. Huebner claims (and says she can document the predictions) she was the only psychic to predict President Johnson's retirement, Nixon's first term as president, and both Kennedy assassinations.

Would Sen. Edward M. Kennedy seek the Democratic nomination?

"I don't think so," she said. "Oh yes, I predicted something like Chappaquiddick."

Then who would be the Democratic nominee? "To tell the truth,"," she answered, "I don't care."

The Reasons Why Knits So Popular

Odds And Ends Are Requested For Fall Bazaar

Mrs. Glenn H. Wolfe, chairman of in-service activities for the Los Robles Social Club, is requesting Novato and North Marin residents for donations of odds and ends which can be used by club members in making items for their fall bazaar to benefit the Novato Boys Club.

There is a need for yarn scraps, pale green winebottles in one-half or gallon sizes, which can be used for terrariums, small dolls not larger than three inches, plastic bottles, lace trim, jewelry, braid, beads, sequins and even tin cans.

Donations should be marked for the Novato Boys Club Bazaar and delivered to the Los Robles Club house, 100 Bel Marin Keys in Novato.

Clothing Care Labels Go Into Effect Monday

Caring for new miracle fabrics now on the market can lead to wash day confusion — until Monday. That's when the Federal Trade Commission's Regulation Rule on care labeling goes into effect.

The Commission will require permanent care labels on most clothing and piece goods to be converted into apparel.

J. C. Penney Company recently introduced such a labeling practice, extending it to a much wider range of fabric merchandise, including curtains, draperies, sheets, towels, area and scatter rugs.

New Knits, Stealing Home Fashion Scene

One company's records, for example, shows a 24 per cent increase in knits in little over a two-year period. Double knits are leading the way.

Yes, 'Mrs.' Does Mean A Lot To A Young Bride — Keep It

HELEN AND SUE:

I read somewhere that "Ms" for Miss or Mrs. has been adopted and everyone will be using it. Say it isn't so! As long as I can remember I've been waiting to be called "Mrs." and now that my wedding day is near, I'm not too happy to know I may be just an undescriptive "Ms." — AGAINST LIB TALK

AGAINST:

It's still our choice, and I agree: "Mrs." means a lot to a bride. I can't understand the big hassle over a couple of words, so let's call ourselves what comes happily. Okay? — SUE

DEAR AGAINST:

If your bliss is in Mrs. then give Ms. the biz. The change-over isn't official: Ms. is still used mostly by people who aren't sure whether you're Miss or Mrs. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

When you marry someone, you marry the person, not the family. At least that's what people say. But should you marry him if you can't stand his family?

I really love John and, when we're alone, everything is great. But that doesn't happen much because his folks are always planning things and having parties and anyone on the "outside" really feels left out.

They can be mean and cuttingand he doesn't see it. But if I act that way to them, he thinks I'm terrible. Seems like I'm always wrong and they're right, when he's around his family.

Looking into the future, I just don't know. Would it work? — TROUBLED

DEAR T:

It might — if you move far away and gradually learn that John's family isn't as bad as you now think.

Could some of that "meanness" you describe be caused by your edginess? Maybe you expect his relatives to gang up on you and therefore read double meanings in every remark.

If you're not accustomed to large, outspoken families, they can be pretty frightening, especially when a girl wants her man all for herself. — HELEN

DEAR TROUBLED:

It's easy enough to say, "Marry and move far away" but that might not solve all the problems.

If John has been raised in a family that enjoys cutting on people and thinks only its ways are best, he's bound to have picked up some of those little meannesses. (He stands up for them, doesn't he?)

Perhaps he'll start using them on you — or he might bring up his family to be like the ones you hate.

Stand back and take a serious look at the kind of guy he is — and then imagine what he'll be like in a few years. If what you see worries you — go easy! — SUE

DEAR RAP:

This is in answer to "Shocked" who felt his university was protecting criminals by offering free analysis of illegal drugs.

I do volunteer work for a hotline phone service. A lot of kids who call us need straight information on the purity of a drug they have already taken. To have this on hand, we collect samples of illegal drugs off the street and the university pharmacy department analyzes them for us. We do not do this to protect pushers, but to help human beings. — LE ANN

Facts On Birth Control In 1920

Margaret Sanger's book, "Women and the New Race," published in 1920 was one of the first to contain birth control information, but its essential message had nothing to do with limiting population.

The author's concept was that contraception was a means for impoverished wives to control the size of their families and for middle class women to be freed from "the drugdery of a monogamous marriage."

PARENT AND CHILD

Teachers In P-TA: Participation Small

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The following is typical of the way many Parent-Teacher Association groups work.

One parent is president; another vice-president; yet another is program chairman. The P-TA president and the school principal work and confer together. If there is an outside speaker at a program, the parents always make sure he or she is introduced to the principal.

But what about the teachers? Generally they sit together in a group, nod to the parents they know, and keep to themselves. Very seldom do they take more than a spectator role in the proceedings.

What is supposed to be a forum for active discussion among teachers and parents generally is nothing more than a show-and-tell program run by the parents, approved by the principal and reluctantly attended by the teachers.

ONE REASON teachers are disinterested in parent-teacher meetings is their low level of achievement. When curriculum or teaching decisions are to be made, they are made by the teachers and administrators meeting as a professional group; parents are very seldom included in such sessions.

But, let teachers take note, parents are becoming increasingly dissatisfied with the traditional P-TA role. They are beginning to revolt against the gulf between what goes on every day in a school's classrooms and what is decided at parent-teacher meetings.

Parents and taxpayers have heard about "accountability" and they like the concept. They have given their money and their children, and they want to know what schools are doing with both.

As school costs rise and taxpayers become more skeptical that they are getting value for their money, teachers need all the allies they can muster. They need the parents on their side.

If teachers are serious about wanting cooperation from parents, about wanting due recognition for the difficult job they do, then they could start out next year's parent-teacher meetings with a new focus.

WHAT WOULD be better than showing parents the subtle differences among three or four teaching methods, or among three or more curriculum programs, or between radically different methods for teaching beginning reading? If they prefer group to individualized instruction, they could explain to the parents why some methods are better.

Newest Styles Feature Height

Every way you turn, both sexes will be standing taller because of the quantities of platform soles and soaring heels making the scene. Naturally, in an election year, you would expect designers also to think platforms. They go from sports and daytime right on into evening wear.

The American Footwear Institute (AFI) in its styles forecast for the coming season puts things this way: "The big news story is. . . height! More abundance of sole and taller, broader heels. . . no doubt about it, the sole is a superstar. . ."

SOME OF the women's shoes perch milady on a two-inch platform that pushes the heel to four inches.

The men's platforms, in assorted styles, feature heights up to three and one-half inches.

But Alice Regensburg, AFI director, says these are "extremes." Most masculine heights are more conservative.

Note another trend: Soles on women's shoes done in sections, like the tracks on a tractor or tank. Golo does them in boots with black patent uppers and cork soles.

Boots go the platform route too, for day and evening. To go with the pantsuits, there's a pant boot that just grazes the ankle. Hailing the return of short evening dresses are boots that end just below the knees.

Footwear was one phase of the new ready-to-wear for fall and winter the nation's fashion reporters are seeing.

OTHER FOOTNOTES: A big push for the clog which AFI said "just possibly may be the sports shoe of '72." The clogs, which began coming to this country from northern Europe several seasons ago, now run through both women's and men's footwear.

The lace-up shoe comes on in quantity. You'll see it in three, five, even nine lacings. Sandals swing right into fall, many with a sling back and a more covered-up front. Also watch for T-strap buckle shoe.

Men's "active" footwear includes waffle-soled hiking boots, with rough finish or waxed leather. Says AFI, "The advance guard is tucking its jeans into the streamlined motorcycle boots that go to the knee in smooth black leather buckled in brass as many as seven times up the side.

"Yes, this is where the hardware went."

Takes 20 Years For Voting Rights

In Washington Territory women's suffrage was granted in 1883, then declared invalid by the courts in 1887. It was re-enacted immediately and again declared invalid by the courts.

When Washington became a state in 1889, women's suffrage was defeated in a popular vote two-to-one, but in 1910 the measure was finally passed when an initiative vote was carried with little discussion.

Shorter Hair

Shorter — but not short — hair is prejicted for American women by Vogue magazine. Side or center-parted, hair will fall just above the collar to match the ease of softness of the new clothes. More often a hat will top tresses than in past years, the fashion magazine predicts.

Idaho Women Attack; Frontierism Spirit

"They might not put it in terms of women's liberation," one leading advocate of female rights said. "But Idaho's women retain a touch of frontierism which gives them a deep and sensitive understanding of independence, freedom and equal rights."

Many females in the sparsely populated state (714,000) are not familiar with the works of Kate Millett, Germaine Greer, Betty Friedan, Dana Densmore, Valerie Solanis or Robin Morgan.

But because of their inherent instinct of independence and freedom for all, they may be ahead of their urban sisters in the quest for equality.

June Hall, an art instructor at Idaho State University, contends that women's liberation goes much deeper than what some groups are trying to accomplish by collective coercion. She maintains that the pursuit of individual equality is an "introverted process" of self-realization.

MANY OF those advocating women's rights agree that Idaho is not in the mainstream of activities that pulsate from coast to coast and women's liberation may be late getting a hold.

But more and more women in the state are taking action against discriminatory practices in private business and state government.

Judy Grimes, a 29-year-old attorney who is director of the state Commission on Human Rights, says sex discrimination complaints have been increasing at an annual rate of 50 per cent since 1969.

Miss Grimes said she discovered sex discrimination in Boise shortly after she arrived to take the directorship of the commission last September.

While filling out a lengthy form to open a checking account in a downtown bank, an official commented freely on why the bank would never have a female officer.

"He didn't know that I was about to take a job with the commission," she said. "I just couldn't imagine him saying something like that about a minority group member."

Sue Reents, one of several women on the commission, bluntly said Idaho's men are "not very sophisticated" when it comes to sex discrimination.

"I THINK MOST of them don't even know it is against the law to discriminate against women," she said.

"It is the way they have been doing it for years," she said. "It will be a hard habit to break. But it has to be changed."

Rose Bowman, one of the first women in Idaho to run for a major political office, says in her travels through the state she has found few female liberation activists. But she said the women understand equality and the changes which have to be made to correct the system.

The U.S. senatorial candidate said the Democratic party system at the local level made her very aware of sex discrimination.

She said women are in many cases thought of as voluntary workers and it causes some party problems when one of these workers decides to run for office.

"I have been raised a female and I know all about sex discrimination," she said. "But a liberation activist, I am not."

Opening lead — ♠ K

A TOP SPADE

West opened the king of spades, and East signaled enthusiastic encouragement by dropping the ten of spades. West had a shrewd idea of the spade position from the fact that South had been unable to suggest notrump, so he led the deuce of spades at the second trick instead of cashing the ace of spades first.

East won the second trick with the queen of spades and promptly led the nine of spades. This gave South the impression that West had opened a doubleton and was now hoping to overruff declarer.

THE PROBABILITIES

South remembered the probabilities from one of the bridge books he had read. "The chance of a 2-2 trump break," he muttered to himself, "is 40%. But there's also the chance of dropping a singleton jack of clubs. So if I ruff with an honor, I still have better than an even chance to avoid the loss of a trump trick."

South therefore ruffed the third spade with the queen of clubs. This was, of course, the end of him. West eventually took the setting trick with the jack of clubs.

WERE CORRECT

South's figures were correct, but he forgot that East had passed over the opening bid of one diamond. If West had led from a doubleton, East must have started with six spades headed by A-Q-10-9. But East would never pass with such a strong spade suit. Therefore West's opening lead was not from a doubleton, and it was quite safe to ruff low.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold:
♠ - A k 5 2
♡ - 10 8 5 3
◇ - 4 3
♣ - J 9 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. If partner has four hearts, he will raise; if he has four spades, he will bid that suit. You will thus find a 4-4 fit in either major.

'Matt Dillon' Can't Help Friend McQueen

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Actor Steve McQueen failed to make the great escape Wednesday as he was apprehended by a policeman. Sheriff Matt Dillon stood by.

The arrest came after police saw a car making circles in a downtown street in the early morning. Bystanders said McQueen jumped out of the car and addressed the arresting officer:

"Hi, I'm Steve McQueen and I'm having a good time in your little two-bit town."

"Hi, I'm a policeman and you're under arrest," came the reply.

Standing by was James Arness, television's Matt Dillon, who was with McQueen when he was arrested.

A REVERSE TACK

Rising Star Leaving Metropolitan Stable

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Frederica von Stade, young Metropolitan Opera mezzo soprano and a major emerging talent, has more than a trace of stardust in her eyes.

At the end of this season, at age 26, she is taking a reverse tack, and leaving the Met — that career pinnacle to most singers, to broaden her experience in other U.S. and European opera houses. It was a big decision to make, for since joining the Metropolitan in 1970, she has moved, with steady recognition, to increasingly important roles.

The other night I heard her sing Theobald, the page, in "Don Carlo." During spring tour (Boston, Cleveland, Atlanta, Memphis, New Orleans, Minneapolis, and Detroit) audiences will hear Cherubino in "The Marriage of Figaro," Siebel in "Faust" and Flora in "La Traviata."

Just three years ago she was one of seven finalists in the national semifinals of the Metropolitan Opera's eastern regional auditions. She was in her last year at Mannes College of Music here, and before she could compete in the finals, she was offered a soloist's contract with Rudolf Bing. Within two weeks she was the Third Genie in "The Magic Flute" and launched an operatic career that many feel will have "star" scope. Her "star" will carry her to San Francisco this fall.

I interviewed this slender, pretty, and delightfully unpretentious girl in her walk-up West Side apartment. She smiled at me with direct green-blue eyes and said with refreshing candor, "But I'm not that interesting." I said we'd see.

"I grew up in Oldwick, N.J." she began, "without a bit of music in my background — no trace. As a kid, I adored popular music and Broadway musicals and in high school I did summer stock at Long Warf Theater in New Haven. After high school, I spent a year in Paris, learning French and playing nanny to three French children.

"Then I was working at Tiffany's — dreaming of diamonds dripping through my fingers but actually selling stationery. Someone bet me that I could really sing if I tried. I enrolled at the Mannes College of Music and discovered I could graduate in four years instead of five if I got into the opera workshops.

"That meant studying with great coaches like Sebastian Engleberg, Paul Berl, and Otto Guth — learning roles, playing little scenes, and even staging productions which we staged in sets made of cardboard boxes."

By the time the Metropolitan auditions rolled around, her bright talent had been definitely noted.

The young singer has found both opportunity for growth and ample encouragement at the Met. She has been allowed to grow into such roles as Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana," Maddalena in "Rigoletto," Nicklausse in "Tales of Hoffman," Hansel in "Hansel and Gretel," Suzuki in "Madam Butterfly."

She admires such stars as Joan Sutherland, Birgit Nilsson, and Montserrat Caballe. "Yes," she admits, "I'm absolutely stagestruck. I adore the whole thing —every single ounce of opera. I love watching people take their curtain calls. I love the wig lady, and the make-up man, and the costumer.

"I've never met nicer, kinder, and more generous people anywhere than in the music world. And the biggest thing I can think of is the music. It is this passion that overrides all else and makes it all worthwhile — all our jumbled-up living and miles of traveling."

Though critics have applauded her acting, her "brilliant coloratura singing" and the fresh, lyrical "fine, light voice" her own candid comment is "I don't particularly like the sound of my own voice. It doesn't appeal to me. But you have to sing with what you have, just as you have to take your face as it is. And, you know, I can't sing high F's. Even if I took warm baths and flew to the moon I could not sing high F's."

"You know," she reflects, "it takes a long time to become a real artist — a total, first-rate artist who has talent, instincts, interest, and determination, and who knows how to coordinate voice, music, theatrics, and production circumstances. You have to care a lot to make it.

"Once," she said, "I was afraid I couldn't even walk across a stage on cue, and it is at the Met that I've learned to follow a conductor even though he seems a city block away."

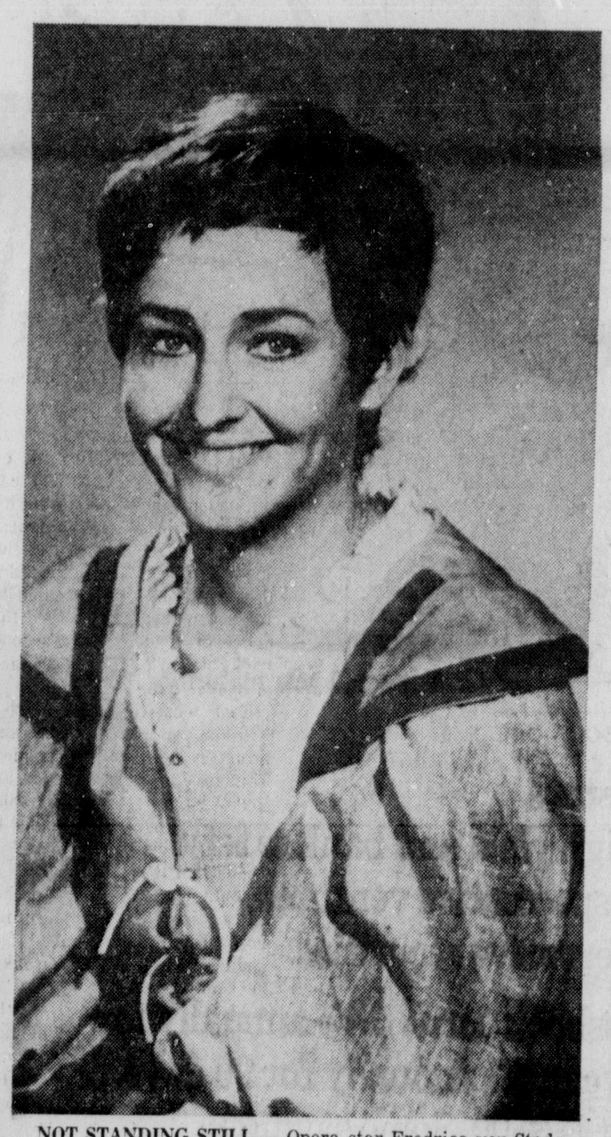
As for leaving the Met to try her vocal wings elsewhere, she says simply, "I have to try. I have to put myself to the test and see if I have the stuff in me to become a more important artist or not. I am taking a risk, hoping that one day the Met will take me back — a better soprano than before."

This summer at the Santa Fe Opera, she will sing the role of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni" and Melisande in "Pelleas et Melisande." In September, she will do "The Marriage of Figaro" at the San Francisco Opera. She will appear with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic late next winter, and in April she will make her European debut in a glittering new production of "The Marriage of Figaro" at the Paris Opera Huse, with Georg Solti conducting under the new general managership of Rolf Liebermann.

In the summer of 1973, she performs with the Hamburg Opera Company and at the Glyndebourne Festival in England. She will continue her concert and solo recital work as well.

Her management speaks of her in superlatives. "This girl is a sweetheart. She is hard-working and steady and has no egotism or temperament. She has looks and personality and has already earned the respect of the conductors and others who work with her. With her talent, can there be any way but up?"

©1972 The Christian Science Publishing Society



NOT STANDING STILL — Opera star Fredrica von Stade is moving on. She has decided to leave the Metropolitan Opera stable where she has made a name for herself in a few short years. Her schedule this fall will see her in the San Francisco Opera production of "The Marriage of Figaro."

Ross Loses Teacher Of The Young

By PAT PERRY

In an ideal world, a frightened 5-year-old starting kindergarten could choose his first first teacher. She would be little and friendly and fun and have kind, brown eyes.

Which is why generations of Ross kindergarteners have been so lucky. They've had Rena Safford to welcome and guide them through that first year of school for 23 years.

Everyone in Ross knows Rena Safford. She's led the Halloween parade around Ross Common every year, dressed in the same old witch's outfit.

Every Ross child has been king or queen for the day on his birthday and worn the royal robe and gold crown that Rena Safford made. The kids whose birthdays fell during school holidays are feted on rainy, boring days during the winter.)

Everyone in Ross has watched play and shows and entertainments that Rena Safford wrote and directed and played in.

But everyone in Ross doesn't know that Rena Safford has retired from Ross School after 23 years as a teacher there.

She wanted it that way. She handed in her resignation at lunchtime on the last day of the summer term. "Because I'm just too emotional, I knew I'd get too upset. As it was, I spent the whole afternoon in tears.

"Besides, on the last day of kindergarten I pin big badges on the children saying "First Grader" and they all promised to come back and see me next year. I couldn't bear to tell them they wouldn't."

Mrs. Safford, bouncing with energy and verve, says she decided to retire "because there's something about getting out when you can still deliver."

She certainly is not resting. At the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club, where she's lived for the past two years in a magnificent mobile home at 3 Wild Oak Drive, she is social director of the club.

In fact, she is already using some of the costumes and equipment at club events that she used for years at Ross School kindergarten.

"Everyone likes to pretend, no matter their age," she said.

Mrs. Safford, a divorcee, never had any children of her own, and now she thinks perhaps it was part of a pattern — "I say all the children in Ross are mine, I really feel that way, I know all the families so well. I get so many christening and wedding and graduation invitations. . .these great big G.I.'s come back and see me. . .I can hardly believe 23 years have gone by."

"The reason I've been so happy is teaching is what I love. And 5 is the magic age, you can live in a world of make believe. It's when their habits are formed, learning about their surroundings and how they can fit into the world."

"Each child is different, each one is something special. I search for that in every child and try to develop that distinct personality."

Born in Reno, Mrs. Safford nearly got named Juneau — her father, who'd been gold-prospecting in Alaska, wanted to name her Juneau, her sister Fairbanks and her brother Dawson. Her mother settled for Rena, Nevada and Lawrence.

Later her father, who had acquired a grocery store in Reno, insisted his six children get a good education, and they all worked their way through college. The young Rena worked in the grocery and ushered in a movie theater at nights.

She taught school in Reno and in Oregon, and during World War II enlisted in the Armed Forces special services program. She was director of the special services program at Camp White, Medford, Ore., running social events and recreation for 35,000 troops.

"For the weekly dances I used to go in a Jeep and comb all the little towns and stores and recruit girls. I'd send out buses to collect them," she recalled.

She landed in Ross almost by accident — a friend told her there was a job at the school.

"And I thought it was such an affluent community. I was very much intimidated —I had to take a bus to work."

She admits today, however, that the town's very affluence made her job easier.

"Because it's such a family community, you see, the children come from families that do things together, with good backgrounds. By the time they start kindergarten they've been exposed to many different things, trips, museums.

"And I'm a firm believer in meeting parents and asking them to participate. I've always felt like I was the mother's friend, not the teacher, which is a very rare thing, I know."

TAUGHT GENERATIONS — After 23 years as kindergarten teacher at Ross School, Rena Safford has retired. She made her resignation almost secret so that she — and the children — wouldn't be upset.

College Board Gives Budget Tentative Nod

The Marin Community College District board last night approved a record $12,869,830 tentative budget, up $2.5 million from this year's $10,308,053.

The budget will require a district tax rate hike of about 8 cents, to approximately $1.085 per $100 assessed valuation, from this year's $1.005.

Two of the board's six members at last night's budget meeting abstained from voting to approve the figure, according to Earlene Jones, district publicist. She said trustees Francis Compton and Charles W. Gray object to approving lump sum figures rather than line by line items.

Their principal objection, she said, was to approving new jobs by appropriating money for them when the proposed new jobs had been neither reviewed nor justified.

Included in the budget were funds to hire about 20 full and part-time employees, both teachers and nonteachers.

The budget was approved by trustees Donald K. Felt, Martin J. Dean, Charles Best and Theodore C. Wellman. Robert E. Oliver was absent.

The biggest increase in the proposed budget is for capital outlay, matching funds for state approved projects, which total $3,629,537.

Norman Bird, business manager, said the largest sum, $949.657, is for completing the new library on the Kentfield campus. ($600,000 was budgeted for this building in this year's expenses.) Also to be spent on the Kentfield campus is $383,178 for remodeling the old art building adjacent to the new Fine Arts building. and $189,332 for remodeling the chemistry and business facilities.

Taxing to build had been promised by the board with failure of a bond issue for that purpose last fall.

A pumping station to be constructed on the marshland behind the P.E. facility on the Kentfield campus will cost an estimated $205,297, and development of outdoor facilities a further $172,935.

Bird said another reason for the increase in this year's tentative budget total is salaries — with 4 per cent raises being approved for teaching administrative and other employees in fiscal 1972-73.

Supplies and equipment have greatly increased in cost too, said Bird. Equipping the new library (which is expected to be completed in late spring) will cost an estimated $276,912, principally in shelving, furniture and storage units.

Administration $13,131 (6.6 per cent); instruction $547,000 (12.6 per cent); transportation $1,788 (7.5 per cent); maintenance of plant $54,564 (26 per cent); operation of plant $10,019 (1.9 per cent); fixed charges $80,041 (15.3 per cent); education expense $704,126 (12.2 per cent); community services $97,022 (37.2 per cent); capital outlay $2,321,803 (177.5 per cent); and general purpose reserves $849,233.

The tentative budget will be published next month, with the board meeting for its adoption Wednesday July 12 at 8:30 p.m. at the college. Public hearing on the final budget is set for Aug. 2 at 8 p.m.

New Marin Grand Jury Is Selected—Howell Foreman

A group of 19 predominantly middle-aged and older Marin residents was selected today and will replace the 1971-72 grand jury whose young members bathed the jury in publicity.

The 19 were drawn from a list of 26 final candidates, then presiding judge Henry J. Broderick appointed William L. Howell of Tiburon as foreman of the 1972-73 grand jury.

Howell, now retired, formerly ran his own public relations firm in Tiburon and is a former president of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. He replaced Milen C. Dempster.

The jury headed by Dempster was split when 24-year-old Richard W. Beban was suspended from committee duties for conducting an independent investigation, then later refused to turn over his copy of a report on the Sausalito Police Department that was leaked to the press.

Gerald Hawes resigned to protest murder indictments against six San Quentin inmates in connection with what prison officials called an escape attempt by inmate George Jackson last August.

To prevent the new grand jury having more of what judges considered obstructive behavior on the outgoing jury, prospects were required to sign a statement pledging to work within the grand jury framework.

Broderick said an effort was made to make the jury representative, but Beban called the jury "predominantly white, predominantly over 40. It's the same old grand jury."

In contrast to recent juries which worked on the calendar year, the new jury will work for a fiscal year.

The last two juries each worked 15 months to effect the transition designed to permit the jury to monitor better the county government, which runs on a fiscal year.

The jurors who will serve with Howell are:

Wins Senate Approval

Blaze Cause Under Probe

San Rafael firemen today were still probing the charred remains of two downtown stores, trying to find the cause of the huge fire Tuesday night.

"We have not found the cause of the fire and it appears as though it will be hard to find," said Robert H. Franzel, battalion chief.

Estimate of the damage to the Classical Lighting at 1233 Fourth Street and Brat-Haus restaurant at 1235 Fourth Street, still remains at $250,000, Franzel said.

The fire, which was reported at 10:43 p.m., also damaged the Cottage Bookshop next door the Classic Lighting and the five-story Reynolds-Johnson building at Fourth and C streets.

Giacomini Ranch Wanted, But Price Snags Action

By JEFF GREER

SACRAMENTO — State Wildlife Conservation Board members agreed yesterday they want to buy 516 acres of southern Tomales Bay marshlands from rancher Waldo Giacomini — but snagged on the price tag for the proposed wildlife refuge and public fishing area.

State appraisers put a "fair market value" of $200,000 on the land. An appraiser hired by Giacomini has valued the property at $450,000.

After extended debate, the board instructed its staff to determine whether the board was bound to the state appraisal or could consider the land's ecological value — which state appraisers admitted they ignored — in trying to reach a compromise figure with Giacomini.

Giacomini was in the audience, but made no public statement. He has refused the $200,000 offer, according to Raymond J. Nesbit, executive officer of the wildlife board.

Last year the Point Reyes rancher applied to Marin County officials for permission to dike part of the land and reclaim it as pasture for his cattle. He postponed the project when Nature Conservancy obtained an option on the land to preserve the marsh habitant for its rich variety of water fowl and other wildlife.

Giacomini told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the Nature Conservancy had dropped its option when the state budgeted up to $550,000 to buy Tomales Bay lands under the Conservation Act of 1971, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley yesterday urged the board to act swiftly. He stressed both the desirability of the wildlife preserve and the fame of salmon and steelhead fishing on Papermill Creek, which runs through part of the proposed purchase site.

He suggested that the state law creating the Wildlife Conservation Board envisioned that the board not be bound by "fair market value" alone in buying nature preserves. Adding in land's ecological value is "totally legitimate and necessary," he said.

"This is one of the last remaining pieces of such marshland in the state," Russ said. He asked state appraisal officials why they "couldn't take that into consideration."

Townsend declared the land's value would "never go down" and asked where similar potential preserves could be bought more cheaply. He moved to offer Giacomini $300,000, but got no second.

"The toughest thing in the world is trying to appraise property" of special interest, explained Vaughn W. Miller, chief of the state's land acquisition office. "Our approach under the property acquisition law is based on fair market value. . . a typical buyer and a typical seller. The fact that it's a great fishing area just doesn't add to the value."

The board executive officer, Nesbit, told the board that it has some condemnation powers, but a longstanding policy against their use.

The board instructed Nesbit to seek legal opinions as to whether the board can go higher than the state appraisal; to hire an outside appraiser if necessary, and to seek a compromise with Giacomini.

Board member G. Ray Arnett, state director of Fish and Game, proposed Nesbit either poll members by telephone or arrange a special meeting of the board during the summer, if needed to approve a purchase price. The board agreed.

Bagley later said he hoped enough of the $550,000 would be left over to acquire other Tomales Bay lands adjoining Giacomini's property.

Giant School Budget For San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A record San Francisco school budget of $134.4 million — $5.4 million more than this year's — has been unveiled.

Should the budget made public yesterday be approved, it would mean a tax hike of 25.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and the school rate tax would jump from $4.10 to $4.35.

The board of education gets a look at the budget tonight, and if it approves, a public hearing will be scheduled with final approval Aug. 10.

School Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen said he was pleased that the proposed budget included restoration of some $1.5 million in programs eliminated last year.

Myers Criticizes Sex Course Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Episcopal bishop of California, has criticized a priest in his diocese who plans to teach a sex course for children.

"There is a conflict between his adventures in therapy and the mainstream of Christianity with respect to sexuality," the bishop said Wednesday.

He was referring to Rev. Robert W. Cromey, who operates a private "growth center" and has announced he plans a course during which children and parents will watch explicit motion pictures.

Bishop Myers said the course was discussed a diocesan council but no action was taken.

RESPONSE OF MAYOR H. S. "PETE" NORVILLE TO THE PETITION FOR RECALL

It is claimed that as Mayor and Councilman I support developers and multiple density housing, against the express will of the people.

Within the past 18 months I voted to zone one parcel of approximately 78 acres of land to low density residential (R-2). I voted in this manner, as did all other councilmen, to insure that the land was annexed to the Town prior to any further zoning or development, and also to insure that the Town had maximum control over the development. This area is generally called "Meadowsweet Station." All phases of the development of that site, the impact of its development on the community and ecology, were subject to detailed analysis by our planning consultants and underwent many public hearings and review by the Planning Commission. The review process is not complete but will continue for several more years. The 528 units now allowed as a maximum may still be reduced during further review. This number is significantly less than could legally be allowed for R-2 areas, and is only six to ten percent more households than could be allowed if single family residential (R-1) zoning were utilized to the maximum land coverage. Every effort in planning Meadowsweet Station was directed toward maintaining open space and preserving existing natural features, trees and the open ridgeline.

Toward providing acceptable density, I appeared numerous times before the County Supervisors and Planning Commission in an effort to reduce the density established by the County on the 8 acre parcel south of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista. I was finally successful in having the Supervisors recommend that this be considered for R-2 zoning, a reduction of 29 units. I also reconsidered and voted to rezone a seven acre parcel just north of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista from maximum density residential (R-4) to light industrial. At the present time I am on record, as are other members of the Council and Planning Commission, to reduce the density of the "Quarry Site" behind the Library from maximum density residential (R-4) to a less dense and more appropriate zoning.

I have encouraged the development of the 80 acre Regional Shopping Center east of the Freeway, and consider it important to the future economy of the Town and to the well being of Corte Madera residents.

Finally, the decisions reached by me, as Mayor and Councilman, must attempt to reach an effective balance in satisfying interested and concerned individuals and groups the "silent majority," the recommendations of our Town Staff, our consultants and various commissions, and still reflect the best solutions for Corte Madera now, and in the future.

Your refusal to support this recall petition will endorse the majority of the forward looking Town Council policies which now exist not only in matters of land use and zoning, but also in matters of police and fire protection, public works, parks and open space, recreational programs and facilities, general government, and taxation.

Welfare Recipients Must Sign For Work Saturday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting Saturday, some 1.5 million men and women on welfare must register for work or job training, and can have their government benefits reduced if they don't sign up or if they refuse jobs offered them.

The aim of the new "workfare" program is to get people off the public dole and into self sufficiency as job holders and tax payers. But nobody in government is making any predictions at this point that much of a dent will be made in the sharply rising number of families on welfare.

Assistant Labor Secretary Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., said the first year goal of the program for adults receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) is to place some 200,000 of them in jobs or job training.

But this won't offset the number of new people coming onto the AFDC rolls. Last year the rolls increased by 347,000 families to an all-time high of 2,935,000, and an additional 37,000 were added last February alone.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told UPI there is no way to know how many new AFDC recipients will be added, "but we say that this program will markedly increase the opportunity for welfare recipients to gain training and gain entry into the world of work. That in itself should help."

Workfare is a key part of President Nixon's overall welfare reform and family assistance plan still pending in Congress. The work requirement feature was lifted out and passed as a separate bill late last year.

But the administration regards it as only a partial program pending adoption of the welfare reform bill that would provide a guaranteed income for the working poor as well as for welfare recipients.

The work requirement has not been without its detractors, mainly organized labor and welfare groups such as the National Welfare Rights Organization. NWRO Chairwoman Beula Saunders said "workfare is a farce" because with unemployment at nearly 6 per cent, there are few jobs available for welfare recipients.

In an interview with UPI, Lovell conceded that finding jobs in the private economy would be a tough task but he said employers can get tax credits for hiring welfare recipients under the program. Also, he said one third of the proposed $405 million budget will be spent to create 8,000 public jobs and 2,500 training positions.

Lovell said about half of the nearly 3 million adults on AFDC, most of whom are mothers, would be exempt from the program because of having to care for pre-school children, being ill or for various other reasons.

Of the remaining 1.5 million, he said the Labor Department expects to register 750,000, or half of them, during the coming 12 months, and get the remainder in the following year.

Actor Claims He Was Very 'Gentle'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor Elliott Gould told a court he was very "gentle" with a free-lance photogrrapher who sued Gould, and his wife at the time, Barbra Streisand, for $200,000 for allegedly roughing him up in 1968.

"I never struck him in any way. I was very careful putting him down as gently as I could," Gould said referring to Anthony Rizzo, who claimed Gould grabbed the neck strap of his camera, hauled him over to a car and bounced him against it. The court dismissed the suit against Miss Streisand and awarded Rizzo $6,501.

One Saigon Legislator Is 'Misled'

SAIGON (UPI)—Sen. Vo Van Truyen said today he was lured out of Saigon and left stranded in the countryside to keep him from voting against the bill granting special powers to President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The controversial bill gives Thieu nearly unlimited powers over the next six months in the areas of defense, security, economics and finance. It was passed by a bare quorum of pro-Thieu senators meeting after curfew late Tuesday night and was signed into law by the president early Wednesday. No opposition senators were present for the vote.

Truyen, 70, first vice speaker of the Senate, told newsmen pro-Thieu senators Tran The Minh and Nguyen Van Ngai offered to take him to breakfast before the scheduled Senate session Tuesday.

Instead, Truyen said, the two senators sent a car for him and the driver and an Army captain took him to his country home 50 miles north of Saigon.

Truyen said he was left there all day without transportation but in the evening the pro-Thieu senators offered to bring him back to Saigon by helicopter. Truyen said he suspected a plot against him and refused to leave.

"I was misled," said Truyen.

By the time Truyen returned to Saigon, the bill had been passed.

The upper house had been expected to kill the bill if it had come before the full 60-member Senate, as originally planned for Tuesday morning.

The senate session that Truyen missed recessed in an uproar over accusations that another senator, Tran Duy Don, had been kidnapped to prevent him from opposing the bill.

Don walked into the session just before the recess and denied he had been kidnapped — just deliberately delayed. He told newsmen today that the same two pro-Thieu senators who lured Truyen out of town also made him late for the session.

He said they had invited him to breakfast but took him instead to the home of a friend and asked him to wait until they came back. After two hours, Don said, he left for the Senate.

"I am a registered professional engineer and I hope to return to this field where logic and fact are the only basis of accomplishment and where dogs, drunks and snow removal are but a memory."

Jacobson served as city manager six years.

Reconsideration Of Budget Item Asked

By DAVID DIETZ

Although it may be too late, the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen asked the county board of supervisors last night to reconsider a budget decision that will mean higher taxes to city residents.

By unanimous vote at its monthly drink-and-dinner session at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito, the council protested a $20,000 cut in structural fire protection spending in the unincorporated area next fiscal year.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said the move, taken during recent county budget hearings, means that noncity residents will pay 4 cents less per $100 assessed valuation in 1972-73, while city residents will be assessed a half-cent per $100 more.

As pointed out at the time the cut was made, trims in spending for structural fire protection in unincorporated areas — for which only noncity residents pay — cause an increase in the county fire department's general budget, supported by both city and county residents.

Led by Fairfax officials and Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones, the council voted to send a letter to the supervisors urging restoration of the sliced funds.

Fairfax City Councilman Robert R. Souza caustically thanked the supervisors for giving city residents "the shaft," while Jones said the county had reneged on earlier promises.

Barrows told the council, however, that the action may be futile since county budget deliberations have ended. Council members noted, in turn, that the county tax rate has yet to be set for 1972-73.

In related action, the group said it would consider at its next meeting on Sept. 27 in San Rafael a proposal by Jones to revive the council's tax equity committee, which in the past dealt with city-county support of county sheriff and fire services.

City-county planning, another source of intergovernmental bickering, also was debated at last night's session. Holding to form, the officials clashed over the scope of municipal compliance with provisions of a countywide general plan under consideration.

On one side, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini said his city would withdraw from the City-County Planning Council, the body in charge of preparing the plan, if what he called a "superagency" were formed to oversee compliance. On the other hand, speakers said the intent was not to infringe on local planning, but rather to establish advisory procedures.

Marin Council of Mayors, Councilmen also:

ELECTED — Named San Anselmo Mayor Warren R. Perry new chairman, succeeding Holmes S. Norville, mayor of Corte Madera. Perry got eight of the 11 city votes in defeating Mayor William G. Fleckles of Larkspur and Councilman John A. Miskimen of San Rafael.

APPOINTEES — Reelected Norville as its representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments; named Mayor Robin Sweeny of Sausalito to a three-year term on the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council and chose Fairfax Mayor Albert E. Gately as a delegate to the North Bay Regional Criminal Justice Planning Board.

PARK — Let stand its vote at the last meeting in support of formation of a regional park district in Marin to acquire open space, despite Barrows's remarks that it would be a new and unneeded layer of government.

BOTTLES — Tabled by a 6-5 vote a proposal by Mill Valley that cities consider ordinances placing signs outside certain businesses urging public purchase of nonreturnable bottles in the interests of economy and the environment. Tiburon City Councilman Allan N. Littman said the scheme was unnecessary.

Agency Hit On Costs Of Infant Care Program

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Family Service Agency of San Francisco has been accused of "insane" spending on an infant care program which had 25 children for six months at a cost of more than $10,000 each.

Charles Clay, spokesman for a citizens' committee organized to look into the Family Service Agency, said at a meeting of its directors it got a $258,000 federal grant last year to care for 50 infants for a year. He said that in fact only 25 children were cared for, and for only six months.

Most of the money intended for child care went to salaries of the agency, Clay charged. He said the money should be taken from the Family Service Agency and given to other community child care centers.

A Stop Dumping Order Is Issued

The board ordered the port to stop the dumping of garbage in a 100-acre area for the Pier 94 project. The port also was told to halt seepage of polluted water from the filled land into the bay.

Sidney Lippow of Martinez said that in his six years as a board member the port had "a poor track record" in complying with antipollution standards.

Richard A. Bobier, associate counsel for the port, said illegal refuse was dumped in the Pier 94 area by private contractors and the general public. Signs prohibiting the dumping have not discouraged it, he said.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Soviet Press Looks At The Campaign

MOSCOW (UPI)—The way the Soviets see it, George McGovern recognized the depth of America's crisis and surged to the forefront of the Democratic Party with a clear, simple program.

Edmund Muskie was hopelessly stuck in the center. Hubert Humphrey simply lacked definite proposals. George Wallace missed out because his targets were strictly for the "politically illiterate."

Richard Nixon, thanks mostly to his successes in improving Soviet-American relations in Moscow last month, is in better shape than ever and still the overall frontrunner in the race for the presidency.

Under the headline, "When the Prophets Erred," the newspaper called McGovern a man "of great personal courage" who "understood the depth of crisis in the Democratic party and the sense of despair in America."

"Once considered quixotic, he is now thought of as a sober politician," it said. The South Dakota senator formulated his program "clearly and simply," realizing "acute problems must have radical solution."

One of the biggest boosts to McGovern came from Gov. George Wallace, "a 100 per cent demagogue" who "didn't say anything concrete," it said.

McGovern's biggest task now, the newspaper said, was to win over Humphrey and Muskie to unite the party. He also must "pacify trade union boss George Meany as well as the influential mayor of Chicago Richard Daley, who is opposed to him, and neutralize Wallace, who has enough votes for political bargaining."

The newspaper said there had been talk of a possible Humphrey-Wallace ticket to stop McGovern.

The article also suggested McGovern had eased up on some of his proposals "which created the deepest concern and anxiety among the Democratic bosses."

Edward Kennedy was still a factor with "rumors spreading that he may agree to be on the ballot with McGovern as vice president." But the newspaper also noted Kennedy had repeatedly declined to be included on a ballot.

Taking no chances on its accuracy on political prognosticating —especially in a capitalist society—the newspaper said it was anybody's guess what would actually happen in Miami Beach.

San Anselmo To Hold Flea Mart

The San Anselmo Country Fair Days committee decided last night to hold a flea market July 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the parking lot across from Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo.

Proceeds from the event will help pay for the Country Fair Days festival on August 26, according to Kenneth Ball, San Anselmo chamber of commerce president.

He said that the festival committee would meet on July 12 at 8 p.m. in the Ross Valley Savings and Loan building.

Felony Theft Charge Dropped

A Marin Municipal Court jduge has dismissed a felony theft charge against a 27-year-old Oakland man charged with taking $1,500 in painting equipment from a San Rafael business.

SPORT NOTES

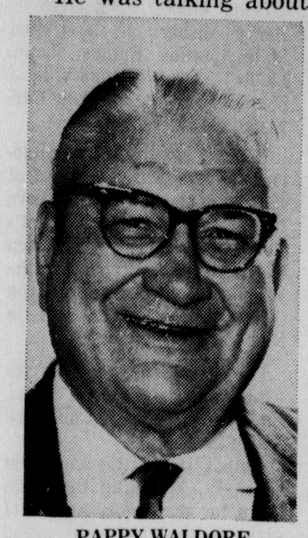
By RALPH CHATOIAN

As he sat there and answered questions from the sports writers gathered in front of him, the years were talked about with fond memories — years like 1922, 1936, the late '40s and the early '50s.

He was talking about his first year of playing college football at Syracuse University, his years as coach at Northwestern University and then University of California...the years that Cal went to the Rose Bowl three straight times.



PAPPY WALDORF

The man, of course, was Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf, discussing his more than half a century in football during a press conference in the Fairmont Hotel to announce his retirement as full time director of personnel for the San Francisco 49ers, a post he has held since 1957.

Director of personnel? That means the guy who is in charge of drafting new talent. When you look at the 49er team, you see the direct result of the draft system. As 49er president Lou Spadia pointed out, "Of last year's 40 players on the roster, 32 were the direct result of our drafting." In announcing the retirement, Spadia said Waldorf will still remain active with the 49ers on a "consulting basis."

"I don't want to take all the credit of our drafting," said Waldorf who started listing all the people involved in drafting from general manager Jack White down. But Pappy is the man who put the draft organization together.

When asked to name some of the years that stood out in his mind, Waldorf started with the three-year period of 1922-24, his college playing days at Syracuse when he began as a 177-pound tackle. "We lost only four games in those three years."

Pappy started his college coaching right after Syracuse, at Oklahoma City University. "The first day of practice there were only 14 players out for the team," he laughted, adding that he had to quickly do some recruiting. "In our fourth game we broke the school record for gate receipts — $87.50."

There was a season as line coach at University of Kansas, then five years as head coach at Oklahoma A&M, winning two Missouri Valley Conference titles, a year at Kansas State, then 12 years at Northwestern University. His 1936 team won the Big 10 title.

Pappy hit the Bay Area in 1947 when he started a 10-year stay at Cal. His teams of 1948-49-50 represented the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl.

When asked what he remembered about those three Rose Bowl years Pappy quipped, "The principle thing I recall is that we lost 'em all."

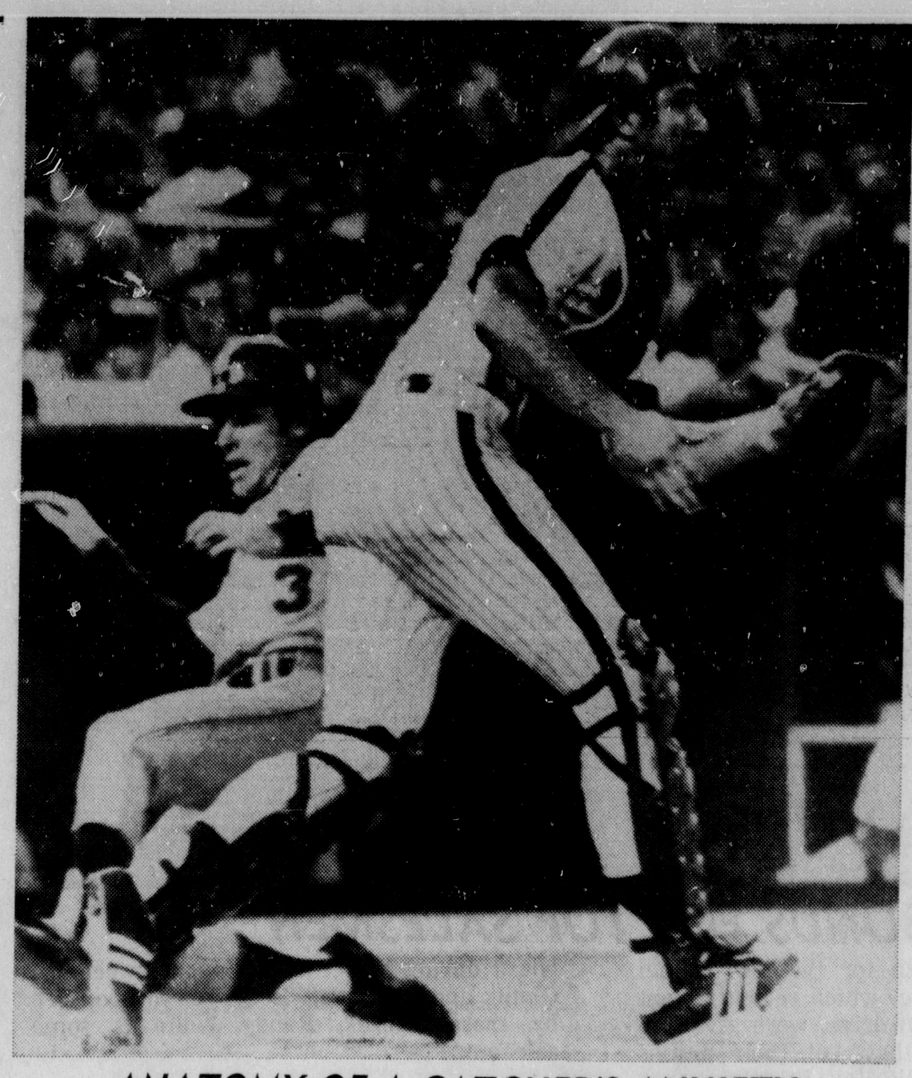
But they were all good football games, he said, then ticked off the Rose Bowl scores: 1949 — Northwestern 20, Cal 14; 1950 — Ohio State 17, Cal 14; 1951 — Michigan 14, Cal 6. Yes, Pappy, they were close games. In the Rose Bowl game just before his three tries, Michigan pasted USC, 49-0, and in the game just after his three-game streak, Illinois dumped Stanford, 40-7.

Pappy's 10-year record at Cal was 66-32 with four ties. His overall 31-year coaching record was 174-100-22. In 1966, with good reason, the National Football Foundation inducted him into the Hall of Fame.

Over the years, said Pappy, football has gotten better because of better coaching and improved skills by the players. Were the players "hungrier" then? The good players are still hungry."

Waldorf will be 70 in October, "the age of discretion," in his words.

So, what next? Traveling.



ANATOMY OF A CATCHER'S ANXIETY

Philadelphia catcher John Bateman anxiously waited for a tardy outfield throw as New York's Bud Harrelson (3) went around the Phillies' backstop to score on a fourth inning double by former San Francisco Giant Dave Marshall in Philadelphia last night. New York won, 3-2. See story, page 33.

Sharon Walsh Bows In Wimbledon Net

Mrs. King Tips Gal Of San Rafael

Bookies saw Mrs. King in action on the center court at Wimbledon Wednesday will have to start laying off money against her taking her fourth singles title.

The bespectacled girl from Long Beach, Calif., started the tourney an 11-8 favorite but must shorten in price after her ruthless dispatch of Miss Walsh.

DEVASTATING

In blasting Sharon aside 6-2, 6-0 in a mere 30 minutes Billie Jean looked the most complete and in-form player in either the men's or women's ranks. She was devastating.

Her swift surgery on Sharon was a contrast to the dithering form of Evonne Goolagong, the reigning champion from Australia and number one seed here.

But Billie Jean has paced her form to hit her peak for the title she still regards as the big one.

ALL GEARS

All the gears of her game are engaging smoothly and in the match against Miss Walsh, her backhand volley—one of the finest in tennis history—has never looked deadlier.

Miss Goolagong's face was heavy with thought as she left the stadium after watching Billie's Jean's massacre.

Fourth seeded Chris Evert, playing with mechanical efficiency and displaying an ice cool temperament, moved into the third round of the women's singles at the 86th Wimbledon lawn tennis championships today with a straight set victory over Janet Newbury.

The 17-year-old schoolgirl from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. needed 50 minutes to register a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Miss Newbury of LaJolla, Calif.

The men's top seed, Stan Smith of Sea Pines S.C., will have to lift his form well above his scratchy second round effort to handle Alexander Mayer of Woodmeare, N.Y., without big worries in the third round.

The young New Yorker showed he was well equipped in all departments with a four-sets win over Japan's Toshira Sakai. Smith, however, is too cool-headed and thorough to go into another match oozing with over-confidence.

HEWITT

With the thin but impressive scalp of seventh-seeded Bob Hewitt on his belt, Connors spread his fan club with a handsome win over experienced Greek Nikki Kalogeropoulos 6-3, 7-5, 8-6. in the second round.

Southpaw Connors' concentration can be shaky but his speed, anticipation and raking forehand have already established him as a man the top players would rather watch than play against.

Youthful Giants Suffer Loss To Experienced Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Growing up can be painful. And the San Francisco Giants are suffering pains.

With perhaps the youngest lineup in the major league, the Giants lost to the experienced Cincinnati Reds 4-2 at Candlestick Park Wednesday.

"We have to go with the kids and hope they learn something from the experience," Manager Charlie Fox said.

Don Carrithers, a 21-year-old righthander, was the major casualty of the Cincinnati bats that boomed out six doubles and a home run.

"He's got the best arm on the team," Fox said of Carrithers. "His fast ball is alive and he throws a good curve.

"But he needs experience. That's where a veteran catcher would come in handy but we don't have one.

"It's no criticism of our catcher but a young guy will usually go too much with the pitcher's best pitch. Carrithers would be a more effective pitcher if he would use his changeup more."

Carrithers lasted only 2 1-2 innings in which he gave up six hits and three runs.

"If he doesn't learn from games like this, we're hurting," Fox said. "He has all the tools. Now he has to learn to use them."

The Reds scored a run in each of the first four innings. John Bench increased his major league lead in runs batted in by bringing two of them home. He now has 58.

"I'm waiting for the pitches now," Bench said of his dramatic comeback from a 1971 slump. "And we're winning. That's always an incentive to do better."

Bench noted a big difference in Candlestick Park now that it is enclosed.

"I used to hate to come to San Francisco in the old park. The wind was discouraging. It put you down. San Francisco is a nice town but it was no place to play baseball."

Tony Perez, who had a homer and a pair of doubles, also noted a big difference in Candlestick.

"The ball goes better to left field now," he said. His homer was over the left field fence.

"I always hit good in this park and now it's even better for me," he said.

The Reds' bullpen was a big factor in the victory as Pedro Borbon and Tom Hall shutout the Giants to save the triumph for starter Ross Grimsley, now 5-2.

Borbon retired the only two batters he faced after Bobby Bonds doubled to lead off the eighth inning.

Hall came in to pitch to Willie McCovey with Bonds on third and two outs. McCovey grounded out to first base to end the inning.

Hall then struck out two of the three batters he faced in the ninth inning.

Chris Speier continued to sparkle at bat for the Giants. He accounted for the San Francisco runs with a two-run homer in the third inning. It was his eighth of the season, equalling his total for the entire 1971 campaign.

Van Breda Kolff Is Phoenix Coach

Self-Imposed Exile Ends For Ex-Laker Boss

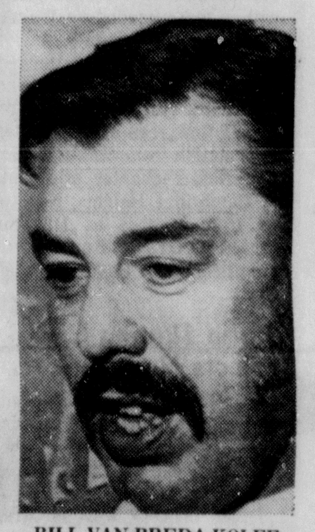
PHOENIX (UPI) —Bill Van Breda Kolff will leave his short self-imposed exile from coaching to return to the National Basketball Association as coach of the Phoenix Suns.

Van Breda Kolff, who coached the Los Angeles Lakers two years and the Detroit Pistons two years before resigning from Detroit early last season, was hired by Phoenix Wednesday to replace Cotton Fitzsimmons, who resigned to become coach of the Atlanta Hawks.

"I missed the game, the association with the players, the competition," said Van Breda Kolff in explaining why he decided to return to coaching.

He described the Suns as "a club with a lot of maneuverability and explosiveness," saying as many as five of the players could switch between two positions.

Suns General Manager Jerry Colangelo said, "Bill fits all the qualifications we were looking for. He is a contemporary coach who is familiar with both our personnel and our league."



BILL VAN BREDA KOLFF
New Phoenix coach

Van Breda Kolff played with the New York Knicks four years before coaching at Lafayette, Hofstra and Princeton until 1967 when he moved to the NBA. He took the Lakers to the playoffs in 1968 and 1969, then moved to Detroit.

He holds the dubious NBA record of most technical fouls in one season, 42 in 1970-71.

White Sox Blast Three Homers Off Army-Bound Blue; A's Lose

CHICAGO (UPI)—Vida Blue is heading into the Army where the shelling may be slightly less severe than what he got from the Chicago White Sox.

Blue was touched for home runs by Dick Allen, Walt Williams and Tom Egan en route to a 6-4 White Sox win over the Oakland Athletics Wednesday in the opener of a four-game series. The fastballing left-hander of the A's was removed at the end of 5 1-3 innings and wasn't around for the decision.

Today the two top teams in the American League West play a twi-night doubleheader with Jim Hunter (8-3) and John Odom (4-2) of the A's going against Tom Bradley (9-3) and Wilbur Wood (11-7).

Allen hit a bases empty blow off lue in the first inning, Williams led off the third with

Mitchell Ready For Cleveland Golf Go

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (UPI) — Defending champion Bobby Mitchell feels his chances of winning the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament, which starts today at the Tanglewood Country Club, are "as good as anyone else's."

"I'm hitting the ball real well," said the Danville, Va., native, "But my putter hasn't been real hot."

Mitchell fired a 22-under-par 262, including a final round 65, last year for his first victory on the PGA tour. It earned him a spot in the Tournament of Champions and he also won that event, adding $33,000 to his $30,000 Cleveland winnings, the same as this year's top prize.

The Tanglewood course, only five years old and hit by a nearly five-inch rainfall last week, has drawn criticism from some of the professionals, but Mitchell preferred to talk only about its "very demanding" fairways.

"It's a little on the tight side," he said, adding that he would rather play a demanding course because "it keeps you thinking."

Jim Jamieson, who carried an eight shot lead into last weekend's Western Open and ended up winning by six for his first tour win, was one of the last to tee off in the opening round and said he could use the rest.

Olympic Track Trials To Start

And foremost among those who will need a little luck as well as talent to make it to Munich in August are Jim Ryun and Gerry Lindgren, a couple of game performers who've known both the joys and heartbreaks of their lonely sport.

Eight years ago Ryun made it to the Tokyo Olympics as a 17-year-old while Lindgren ran Russia's best distance runners into the ground as an 18-year-old. Since then, it has been nothing but misery for Lindgren while Ryun had a few bright moments before joining Gerry on the sidelines more often than on the track.

Ryun, who beat mononucleosis and is still fighting allergy problems, and Lindgren, who has suffered a torn achilles, a jammed knee and respiratory ailments, are in action today on the opening program of the track and field trials both hope will propel them back on the world stage at Munich.

The Trials run for 10 days over an 11-day period and when they are over, the first three finishers in each event will be the ones who will represent the United States at Munich.

Novato Woman Heads NorCal Indoor Sports

Josephine Hendricks of Novato has been elected president of the Northern California District of Indoor Sports Inc., a club for physically handicapped.

Mrs. Hendricks, elected and installed at the northern district convention in San Francisco last weekend, has served two terms as president of the San Rafael Chapter, Indoor Sports Inc., the lone chapter in Marin County.

Russell A. Bohlke of Larkspur was elected treasurer and Margaret (Midge) Christie of Novato, recording secretary.

William G. Christie of Novato was elected second vice president of Good Sports, able bodied helpers, who held its convention at the same time, Mrs. Hendricks reported. Glenn A. Hendricks of Novato was named a district director.

The San Rafael chapter, Indoor Sports Inc., won first place in travel league bowling competition with a team headed by Terry Henne and second place with a team headed by Walter M. Hughes of Kentfield.

About 150 persons attended the joint convention. Anyone interested in joining Indoor Sports, Inc., can obtain further information from Mrs. Christie, San Rafael chapter president, 96 Cambridge Heights, Novato, or from Hughes at 1125 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, Mrs. Hendricks said.

Calgary Beats Grid All-Stars

CALGARY (UPI)—Jim Lindsey, southpaw Calgary Stampeder quarterback, came off the bench in the second half Wednesday night to help the Stampeders make Canadian Football League history.

Lindsey, 23-year old from Abilene Christian, threw two touchdown passes with just over two minutes remaining to lead the Stampeders to a 23-22 win over the Candian Football League All-Stars.

It marked the first time that the Grey Cup winner has defeated the All-Stars. In 1970, the Ottawa Rough Riders were beaten 39-14 while last year the All-Stars thumped the Montreal Alouettes, 30-13.

Trailing 22-9, Lindsey threw his first touchdown pass to tight end Herman Harrison with 2:09 remaining. The play came in from one yard out on second down. "We were hurting them with rollout plays before," Lindsey said in explaining his play selection.

On the winning touchdown, he pitched 42 yards to Jesse Mims with 36 seconds left in the game. Lindsey afterwards said that his primary receiver on the play was Jon Henderson but that Henderson was covered on the play so he went to Mims.

Mims and Garney Henley, earlier announced as the game's Most Valuable Players, both leaped up for the ball, both touched it before it deflected into Mims' hands. "I gave it away on the one play," said Henley.

"At first I was going to go for an interception but then I decided to play it safe and knock the ball down but I didn't hit it the way I wanted to."

The teams were tied 0-0 after the first quarter. The All-Stars led 15-6 at halftime. The score after three quarters was 15-9.

Calgary's other touchdown came when defensive tackle John Helton recovered a fumble from Winnipeg Blue Bomber quarterback Don Jonas and Helton went 40 yards for the score on the first play of the second quarter.

All-Star touchdowns came from Jim Young of the British Columbia Lions and the Montrea! Alouette pair of Peter Dalla Riva and Terry Evanshen.

Ken Phillips of BC also kicked a field goal while quarterback Joe Theismann booted an 87-yard single.

The game was televised to the United States as the first in a series of Wednesday night TV telecasts of Canadian ball in the U.S.

Gal Track Mark Tied

Ramos Wins By Split Decision

MADRID (UPI)—Mando Ramos of Los Angeles sent Pedro Carrasco to the canvas twice in the first two rounds and withstood a strong comeback by the Spaniard to win the World Boxing Council (WBC) lightweight title on points in a 15-round bout at the Madrid Sports Palace Wednesday night.

It was a split decision, with Mexican referee Ray Solis giving the nod to Ramos, 144 to 142 points, and the two judges disagreeing among themselves — Henry Alisbaru of the United States putting Ramos ahead, 146 to 142, and Sanchez Villa of Spain giving the fight to Carrasco, 145-142.

Ramos' closely fought victory, before a partisan crowd of 12,000, made the Mexico-born fighter a rival of Panama's Roberto Duran who beat Ken Buchanan of Scotland for the World Boxing Association (WBA) version of the title in New York Monday.

For Ramos, 23, it was his 33rd victory in 38 pro bouts. Carrasco, 28, suffered his third defeat in 95 fights.

his first homer of the year and Egan homered with Carlos May on base in the fourth.

Sal Bando, moved back into the cleanup spot for the A's, drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly in the fifth and a single to tie the game 4-4 in the seventh.

Oakland's other runs came when Tim Cullen doubled home Mike Epstein in the second and Joe Rudi sprinted home from third on Dave Lemond's wild pitch in the third.

May slapped a two-run, bases-loaded single off reliever Bob Locker in the seventh to settle the issue. Locker was charged with the loss, his first after four wins.

Meanwhile, the A's purchased infielder Art Shamsky from the Chicago Cubs for an undisclosed price. He appeared in only 16 games, mostly as a pinchhitter, with the Cubs and had a .125 batting average.

Shamsky, who is one of the holders of the major league record for hitting home runs in four consecutive turns at bat, has been with the Cincinnati Reds, New York Mets, St. Louis Cards and Cubs during his National League career.

The addition of Shamsky brought the A's roster up to the 25-man limit.

N. L. ROUNDUP

Milestone For Braves' Aaron

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chalk up another milestone for Hank Aaron.

The Atlanta Braves' slugger, who is making the modern day player look rather good in comparison with the old-timers in the Hall of Fame, passed Lou Gehrig Wednesday night and moved into second place on the all-time runs-batted-in list.

Aaron's latest feat came when he hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Atlanta Braves a 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres in the first game of a doubleheader before the Padres came back to win the second game by the same 4-2 score.

Aaron's homer was the 653rd of his career and gave him 1,992 RBIs, one more than Gehrig. Ruth leads with 2,209 RBIs and 714 homers.

In other games, New York downed Philadelphia 3-2, Montreal stunned Pittsburgh 3-1, Cincinnati downed San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles blanked Houston 5-0 and St. Louis outslugged Chicago 8-4.

Earlier this week, it looked as if Pittsburgh was ready to take charge in the NL East. The Pirates had a three game lead with two games coming up against the second place New York Mets followed by a series with lowly Montreal. But the Pirates lost both games to the Mets and were beaten by Montreal as Bill Stoneman tossed an eight-hitter to hand Steve Blass his second loss.

The result was that the Mets' victory over Philadelphia moved them into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh as Tom Seaver pitched a seven-hitter.

Lou Brock had two hits, scored one run, drove in another and stole a base to lead St. Louis past Chicago.

Tovar Bat Valuable To Twins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A utility player's role should never be underestimated, particularly when considering the Minnesota Twins' Cesar Tovar.

Tovar, who has previously filled any Twins' fielding void when called upon in recent years, displayed his potent bat yesterday in leading his team's 7-6 victory over California.

In other games, Chicago topped Oakland 6-4, Baltimore blanked New York 4-0, Boston beat Detroit 5-3 and Milwaukee swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 4-2 and 5-2.

Tovar's run-producing single in the eighth broke up a 6-6 deadlock and won the game for the Twins while Harmon Killebrew and Bobby Darwin each drove in a pair of runs. Killebrew hit his 10th homer of the season in the third and Darwin tripled in two runs in the first.

Mike Cuellar held the Yankees to just five hits in recording his second shutout of the year as the Orioles moved to within one game of the East Division-leading Tigers.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs as Boston came back from a 3-1 deficit to down Detroit.

Gary Ryerson, making his major league debut, spaced eight hits in the opener and veteran Jim Lonborg, with relief help from Ray Newman, limited Cleveland to seven hits in the nightcap as the Brewers swept a doubleheader. Ryerson, recalled from Evansville on Sunday, did not walk a batter and, except for the two runs he allowed in the second inning, allowed just two Indians to reach third base. Lonborg, continuing his comeback from three years of arm miseries, has now won three straight games and is 6-3 thus far this year.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Some Like Visual Aids

By LEE TREVINO

Actually, I don't go for visual aids — like a quarterback who writes plays on his wrist. Let Tommy Nobis or Dick Butkus see 'em and he'll draw back a nub.

A man asked me if the tape on my left arm was a sort of "cheat sheet." Like it might be a reminder to "keep your v's straight' or "don't belch on backswing." I carry my driver's license under that tape in case I drive into a little old lady on a blind hole.

Okay, I'm kidding. But the only player I know who visually reminds himself is Art Wall. A strip of tape on his driver says one word: "Tempo." It cautions him to swing at the same speed.

One or two words on a club or glove could help. But the cat who's looking at a bunch of do's and don'ts isn't visualizing what he should be visualizing, which is the next shot.

When my mental "film" is on I don't see anything but my ball's proposed trajectory, anyway.

Tony Jacklin opened his locker the last morning of the 1970 U.S. Open and found a poster Bert Yancey had stuck in there. All it said was "Tempo." He didn't write it on his club, but he remembered, and won.

Boldirev Signs Seals Contract For Next Season

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Ivan Boldirev, who joined the California Golden Seals in a trade last November, has signed a one-year contract for the 1972-73 season, Seals general manager Gary Young announced today. Details of the contract were not disclosed.

The 22-year-old center played 57 games for the Seals last season after being traded from the Boston Bruins. The 6-1, 195 lbs., native of Salt Ste. Marie, Ontario scored 16 goals, 23 assists for 39 points and 54 penalty minutes as a Seal last season. The total put him fourth on Seals' final point getting list.

"Ivan classes out as one of the most outstanding young center icemen in the National Hockey League today," Young said in announcing the signing.

Ex-Gal Umpire Fights 'Sexism'

The petite housewife said Wednesday she was going to fight back against what she called "sexism and bias against women professionals in spgrts."

Mrs. Gera said as a start she had joined the National Organization for Women (NOW) and intended to become very active."

Hanging up her blue suit, spiked shoes and whisk broom was a traumatic affair for Mrs. Gera who fought for six years, primarily in the courts, to get her chance as a baseball umpire.

She thought she had overcome the last obstacle when she took her place as a base umpire last Friday night in a scheduled doubleheader between the Geneva Rangers and the Auburn Phillies in Geneva, N.Y.

The 5-foot-two-inch housewife was the first woman ever to officiate a professional game but her first game was also her last one.

She said that before the game she had a six-hour meeting with the other officials scheduled to officiate. "In that meeting I found out where I stood," she said.

The other umpires, she contended, refused to discuss their signals and their officiating technique with her. At that point she decided to quit.

"I love baseball," Mrs. Gera said, but because of her long battle with the baseball establishment she's spent "a lot of sleepless nights, many nights that I cried because I felt I did not deserve it."

Marin Tennis Star Is Surprise Loser

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

ST. LOUIS — Tiburon's Bobby Lutz was a surprise loser yesterday.

The Marin County tennis star was upset 3-6, 7-6, 6-2 by Haroon Rahim yesterday in the $50,000 Holton Tennis Classic here yesterday.

Meanwhile, second-seeded Arthur Ashe defeated Rob Maud 7-6, 6-3.

In other matches, Tom Okker defeated Bob Carmichael 6-2, 6-7 and 6-3, Cliff Richey defeated John Alexander — the youngest man on the tour at 21 — 6-3, 4-6, 8-7, and Cliff Drysdale downed Graham Stilwell 7-6, 6-2.

Golf

ATLANTA — Jane Blalock, whose career has become embroiled in alleged violations of playing rules, was scheduled to start in the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship today in Mamaroneck, N.Y. after a federal judge ruled she could play.

Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Charles Moye issued a preliminary injunction against the Ladies Professional Golf Association preventing it from barring Miss Blalock from competition.

Yachting

Henley, England — A Harvard University sculling crew peppered with freshmen today breezed to an easy win over a British team to move into quarter-final competition for the Thames Cup at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The champion Crimson nine finished three lengths ahead of St. Thomas' Hospital, London, over the one-mile, 550-yard course in 7:21 minutes in trying to hold the cup they won at Henley last year.

LOS ANGELES — The 73-foot ketch Graybeard, from the Royal Vancouver (B.C.) Yacht Club, has moved to within 1,375 miles of the finish in the Trans-Pacific Tahiti Race.

Pen Duick III, a 57-foot sloop from France, continued to hold the handicap lead in the 3,571-mile competition, according to Wednesday's radio reports.

Meanwhile, Sir Francis Chichester, a veteran British yachtsman competing in the yacht race, was taken ill in mid-Atlantic and will be sailing home without completing the race.

Basketball

BOSTON — A New Jersey businessman is purchasing the National Basketball Association Boston Celtics.

Robert Schmertz is the principal owner of the World Hockey Association New England Whalers and part-owner of the NBA Portland Trail Blazers.

Meanwhile, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy is attempting to canvass the NBA Board of Governors for the 13 votes needed to approve the deal. Details of the transaction were not disclosed.

Baseball

BOSTON — Milwaukee Brewers outfielder Billy Conigliaro, who walked out on the team Sunday, "is sincere about his plans to retire from baseball but has left the door open a bit to return," his mother said today.

In a telephone interview from her suburban Nahant home, Mrs. Theresa Conigliaro said, "His decision to retire is firm. He has told Frank Lane (Milwaukee general manager), but the door still is open for his return.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Franklin Life Has Increase Prospects

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 500 shares of Franklin Life Insurance (OTC) which seems to be staying around $20. Should I continue to hold? — W. I.

A. Franklin Life, one of the strongest financially in the field, has experienced a slowdown in earnings growth in recent years which has been reflected in price action. A conservatively managed firm, Franklin has been slow to diversity and to expand its sales and agency staff.

An intensive program to rectify this latter situation resulted in a 16 per cent increase in the number of agents in 1971. Further, a major marketing effort is underway to promote the company's two newly established mutual funds and tax sheltered annuity.

In 1971 statutory results were $1.21 a share, flat year-to-year. Insurance in force gained 3.8 per cent to $8.2 billion. A good increase in adjusted earnings is anticipated this year. Hold.

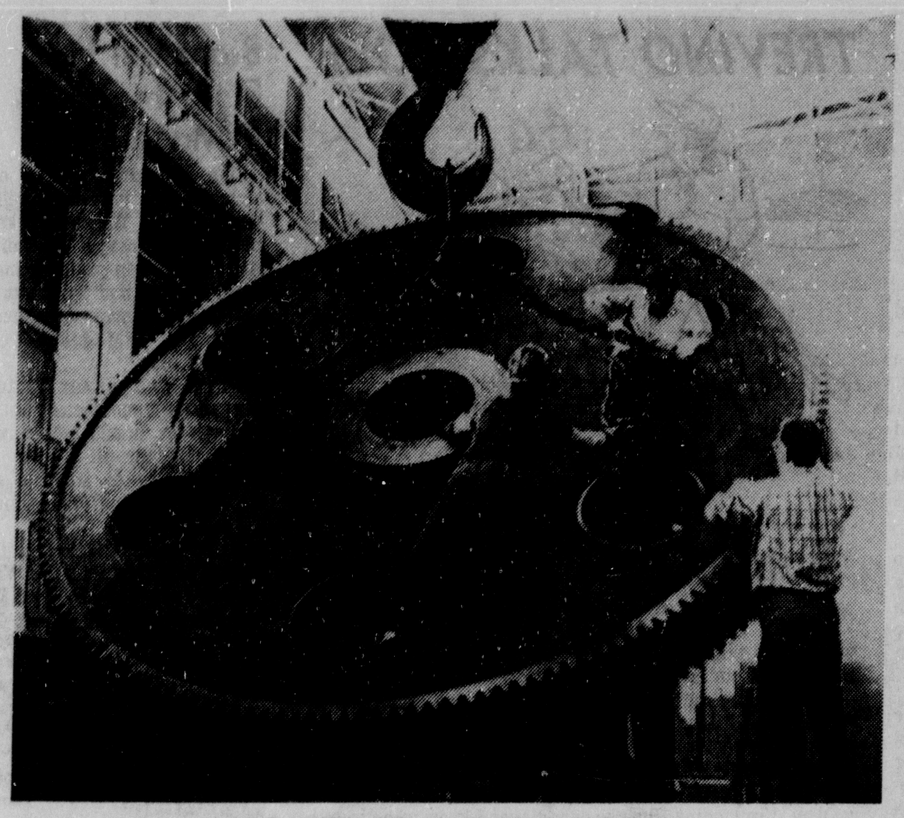
Q. My husbnad would like me to buy tax-free bonds with some of our savings to help lower our tax burden. I would welcome your opinion on Municipal Investment Trust Fund offered for sale about every month. The fund pays about 6 per cent. — M. R.

A. This trust fund, which offered its fifth monthly payment series in June, is sponsored by Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Bache & Co. and Walston & Co., three reputable national brokerage firms.

Sold in $1,000 units at a 3½ per cent sales fee, the units are redeemable by the trustee. In most cases units are also saleable on the over-the-counter market.

There is, however, no guarantee that you will receive the full purchase price upon sale or redemption, since price is determined by the value of the underlying bonds.

The rate of interest you receive on these units may vary as portfolio bonds mature, are sold or exchanged. Bonds in the portfolio are all rated BBB or better by Standard & Poor's and are judged to pay interest which is exempt from federal taxes. There are also a number of other series in this group which might be equally suited to your needs.



HOISTING A 'BULL' GEAR

Three riggers are required at Gulf and Western's E. M. Bliss heavy equipment division plant in Salem, Ohio, to hoist this massive "bull" gear. The gear is 14½ feet in diameter and weighs 19 tons. It is a part of a forging press which Bliss is building. (UPI Telephoto)

Market Opens Again On The Lower Side

NEW YORK (UPI) —With the Fourth of July around the corner and concern abounding over international monetary problems, the stock market moved lower during the first two hours on the New York Stock Exchange Thursday.

Analysts said many investors are being cautious in view of the approaching holiday. Further, they have been cautious all week because of international monetary problems precipitated by Britain's floating the pound sterling.

Another dampening influence was tha government's index of leading economic indicators, which slowed its pace in May. This caused further concern about the economy already plagued by high inflation, analysts said.

Some Traits About Typical Policyholder

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) —If you are 58 years old, earning about $7,500 in a white-collar job and living in a town of 10,000 to 25,000 persons, you're halfway there to being a typical customer for mass-marketed health insurance.

Other traits of this typical policyholder, according to National Liberty Corp. are that he is married and living with his wife, has a high school education, owns the house in which he lives, has a conservative life style and travels infrequently.

Tab Earnings Rise 123 Per Cent

PALO ALTO (BW) — Tab Products Co. has reported fiscal 1972 net earnings rose 123 per cent for the year ended May 31.

Net earnings were $699,000 for 83 cents a share, compared to a net of $314,000, or 34 cents a share, for the prior year. Fiscal 1971 earnings before special items were $610,000, or 73 cents a share.

Changes Are In The Air For Securities Markets

NEW YORK (UPI)—After years and years of operating in traditional ways, the national securities markets are responding to public and governmental pressures by making or considering many changes.

The New York and American Stock Exchenges have revamped their boards of governors to provide more public representation. Fixed commission rates on large stock orders have been eliminated.

And there's pressure to make all trade competitive. A single ticker tape showing all transactions in all listed stocks seems just down the road.

Even more important to the securities field, as well as the small investor, is the possible creation of a unified national market system for trading. William McChesney Martin Jr., former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested such a system in the report he made about a year ago on possible changes in the securities market.

And it is more than a gleam in one man's eye. A recent announcement by Paul Kolton, president of the American Stock Exchange, indicates the backbone of such a system has been created.

Working with a $10 million commitment, the exchange has come up with AMCODE (The Amex's Computerized Orderly Display and Execution System.) It's an automated trading system designed to computerize the non-judgmental functions of the auction market.

Ultimately, AMCODE will receive, store, display and help execute all round-lot and odd-lot orders, effect the "locked-in" trade and report executions to member brokerage houses, the ticker and the clearing system.

Given AMCODE's design, it would be relatively easy to link computer components on other exchanges across the country. Kolton thinks it could be operational and embrace all exchanges within 18 to 20 months.

Of course, nothing can happen along these lines until the exchanges agree to a plan. But Kolton says AMCODE would have the capacity to handle trading volume of up to 100 million shares daily, to store 10 million open orders and to process 750,000 messages daily.

McChesney Martin, who proposed a national market system, has called AMCODE "ingenious." So it's bound to get a hard look in this period of transition on the exchanges.

Flying Tiger Tells Of Realignment

The functions of the corporate secretary will be transferred from the legal department to the finance department in order to centralize financial functions and responsibility.

Seoul General Is Given Death For Taking Bribe

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean army court sentenced an army brigadier general to death and another to life imprisonment today for taking bribes in connection with business deals involving military supplies.

The court, comprising four major generals, handed down the death penalty to Brig. Gen. Ha Jung-won and a life term to Brig. Gen. Kim Yong-chan for having conspired with businessmen in pursuit of personal gains.

At the same time the court sentenced four colonels also involved in the scandal to prison terms ranging from 10 to 15 years. All the defendants including the generals were former members of the Defense Ministry procurement bureau.

The court further ordered that all the money taken by the accused in bribes be collected as additional punishments. Brig. Gens. Ha and Kim were asked to pay $45,000 and $31,000 respectively.

It was the first time in 21 years a general has drawn capital punishment for involvement in a scandal. In July, 1961, an army brigadier general was sentenced to death for embezzlement of military supplies.

New Trial Set In Coed Assault

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A new trial has been scheduled to begin Aug. 1 for Larry S. Coffey, 23, of Santa Rosa, accused of raping an 18-year-old Sonoma State College coed.

Coffey's first trial ended in a hung jury last week with an 8-4 vote for conviction. Coffey is accused of raping the girl on March 14 as she walked to her home in Cotati from a night class at the college.

Coffey said he had been knocked unconscious by a hitchhiker that night.

8.5 Acres Sought For Housing 'Has Recreation-Use Potential'

The 8.5-acre piece of Paradise Drive land on which developers want to build 170 housing units has recreational value, the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission decided last night.

Commissioners had been asked by the town's planning commission to evaluate the proposed development. Planners on June 12 denied a zone-change application by Cal-Prop Corp. for the vacant land next to the Church of All Saints at 5300 Paradise.

The parks and recreation commission stated that the land, east of Highway 101 where there presently are no parks, "has a definite potential for future recreational use due to the area, size and location, and access for the future needs of Corte Madera."

Commissioners decided to recommend to the town council that two high school students with voting power be added to the seven-member commission.

According to Nancy Urbani, commission secretary, members want to broaden youth participation in the community's recreation programs.

The new park and recreation commissioners would serve two years, with the prerequisite that they must be high school students at the time of their appointment. One would initially be appointed for a one-year term, the second for two years, in order to provide an overlap.

After looking at plans of Town Park, the commission recommended the twon council grant Russ Aucoin's lacrosse team to play in an open meadow section.

A cellmate, Charles Edward Schoubroek, pretended to be Weinberg and walked out. A jailer led him into the waiting room to Mrs. Weinberg who had come to meet her husband.

Mrs. Weinberg said she was shocked to see a stranger approach her in her husband's clothing. But before she could alert authorities, Schoubroek escaped.

Budget For Novato Fire District Set

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night adopted a $756,282 budget for 1972-73, including a 5 per cent pay increase for firemen.

The budget is expected to require a tax rate of 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up 22 cents from the current rate, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The budget is up $138,637 from the current budget.

Directors adopted the budget without any changes from the tentative one which was adopted last month, the chief reported.

Chairman Peter J. Ferrarese and director Henry J. Alvernaz were named as a committee to meet with representatives of the Novato Professional Firemen's Association.

The board approved annexation of 35 acres adjacent to the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club area.

Directors Ferrarese and Dante Panfiglio were absent.

Sea Pollution Fight Under Way

MANILA (UPI) —A crackdown on sea pollution has been launched on foreign and domestic vessels polluting Philippine waters, Customs authorities reported.

A directive by Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina followed reports that the ships anchored in Manila Bay while awaiting discharge of cargo were polluting the area with irregular disposal of garbage and with oil slicks.

San Rafael Sanitary Board Adopts Budget

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night adopted $717,999 budget for 1972-73 after granting employees a 3.2 per cent cost-of-living salary increase.

The action is not expected to change the district's tax rate of 0.31 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Virginia Congdon, board secretary.

She said that the board adopted the budget after first cutting $500 from the district superintendent's vehicle allocation and $300 from the office supplies account. The salary increase for employees — who had asked for a 5 per cent increase — will cost the district about $2,500 but was already included in the budget, she said.

The board voted to proceed with plans to expand the district plant at Peacock Gap and will acquire the lands and easements necessary for the improvement, Mrs. Congdon said.

Plant expansion — which has been approved by the city council —will increase the carrying capacity by about 1,000 connections, she said.

The board set sewer connection rates for the newly formed Bayside Acres sewer assessment district according to the following schedule: single family residences, $125; multiple dwellings $125 per unit and commercial establishments, public schools and public agencies, $125 plus $15 for each fixture unit.

The board also authorized the Pressure Grout Co. to reconstruct the bulkhead and seal leaky joints at the Francisco Boulevard sewage pumping station at a cost of $3,910.

Police Tipped, Two Car-Strip Suspects Caught

A Fairfax resident and another man were arrested in San Anselmo last night on suspicion of burglary after police found them near a partially stripped car.

Richard James Giakovmis, 19, of 10 Gary Way, Fairfax, and Vincent James Holsten, 21, no known address, were booked into Marin County Jail without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a witness reported seeing two youths removing the bucket seats from a car owned by Virginia Gillford, 437 Scenic Avenue, and the pair were arrested nearby.

Holsten was sentenced to six months in jail last October after pleading guilty to burglary, and in 1969 served time in jail for resisting arrest in connection with a series of misdemeanors.

One Hurt As Car Hits Motorcycle

A 57-year-old commuting motorcyclist from Ross was injured at 8:15 a.m. yesterday on Highway 101 near the Tiburon Boulevard overpass, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Louis Oliver Britt of 3 Hillgirt Avenue was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital after being treated for a broken wrist.

Soldier Plans To Recover War Loot

TOKYO (UPI)—Yataro Imaizumi, a Japanese soldier in World War II, claims he buried gold and Philippine banknotes valued at several million dollars in a mountain north of Manila in February 1945.

Imaizumi, 48, a taxi driver, told the Kyodo news agency there were so many gold bars in the cache that it took himself and six other soldiers half a month to bury it. He said he plans to return to the Philippines in October to recover the gold.
